Patricia Doro To Speak On County Health

Patricia Doro, planner for Quin-county board of health, will be at the Goodridge village hall May 4 at 2 p.m. to explain the community health services survey that is presently being conducted in the five-county area (Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake and Roseau Counties) and to ask for participation by area residents present. She will also speak in Thief River Falls at 7:30 p.m. May 4 at the courthouse meeting room on the same topic.

Survey will be used to draw up the 1980-81 community health services plan to provide needed community health services in the five-county area. In order that this plan truly reflects the needs of the community, a survey of as many local citizens as possible is necessary. Therefore, all local citizens are urged to attend this meeting to have questions regarding community health services in this area answered and to express opinions about needed community health services.

Questionnaires will also be available to area residents who are unable to attend this meeting at various establishments in Goodridge and Thief River Falls.

State Vehicles Rise In Number Over Last Year

More than 3.4 million cars, trucks, trailers, motorcycles and other vehicles were registered in Minnesota at the end of 1978, according to the Minnesota department of public safety.

Registrations totaled 3,469,244 as of December 31 last year, a rise of more than four per cent over 1977, said Ken Dirkzwager, director of the division of driver and vehicle services.

Passenger car and station wagon registrations topped 1,980,000 in 1978, up 3.4 per cent from 1977. Truck registrations moved up 6.7 per cent of about 710,000 and trailers increased 3.7 per cent to more than 526,000 in 1978.

Motorcycle registrations slipped slightly to about 151,000, a drop of one-half of one per cent from 1977. Motorized bicycles (mopeds) were classified separately for the first time last year and 2,385 were registered.

Excluding the more than half-million trailer registrations, Minnesotans in 1978 owned some 2.9 million motor vehicles of all types. In comparison, the state counted more than 2.6 million licensed drivers last year, up about one-half of one per cent from 1977.

In 1978, the state registered more than 30,800 self-propelled recreational vehicles with living quarters, an increase of 22.6 per cent from a year earlier. Recreational trailers with living quarters numbered about 79,300 which was up 3.8 per cent over 1977.

Collector and antique vehicle registrations hit nearly 18,000 in 1978, a 14.8 per cent increase from 1977.

The seven-county Twin Cities metro area accounted for almost 45 per cent of all state vehicle registrations in 1978. The metro area encompasses slightly less than half the state's population and about 3.3 per cent of total land area. The seven counties are Hennepin, Ramsey, Dakota, Washington, Scott, Anoka and Carver.

The Twin Cities metro area had about 1,550,000 registered vehicles last year. This included more than one million autos (51 per cent of the state total), about 210,000 trucks (30 per cent of the total), 62,000 motorcycles (41 per cent), almost 16,000 self-propelled recreation vehicles (52 per cent) and 33,200 recreational trailers with living quarters (42 per cent of the state total).

Corn Set-Aside Less Attractive Than Year Ago

Overall 1979 corn set-aside program does not appear as attractive as the 1978 version, although potential returns on the first 10 per cent of diverted acres are higher due to increased target prices.

"The target price was raised from $2.10 per bushel to $2.20," reports Paul Hasbargen, farm management specialist with the University of Minnesota agricultural extension service. "If the market price averages $2 per bushel or less for the months of October through February, corn set-aside participants will be eligible for a 20-cent per bushel deficiency payment."

Corn prices about $2 would lower deficiency payments, however. The 1978 program yielded only three cents per bushel to participants. "Most growers need a payment of 8-9 cents per bushel before they are economically attracted to the set-aside as opposed to growing more corn," Hasbargen says.

The 1978 payment going out to farmers in April was only about half the expected amount because it is based on a weighted average of sales. The quantity of sales was lower than normal during October-December, 1978, when prices were lowest.

If prices average $2 or less; the 20-cent deficiency payment would yield a return of $200 per acre of set-aside land on a farm with a normal yield of 100 bushels per acre. If the national average price is $2.10, the payment is 10 cents per bushel and the return per acre of set-aside is $100. At $2.15, the 5-cent payment would yield $50 per acre of set-aside.

Incentive for diverting a second 10 per cent of the normally planted corn acreage has been reduced from the 1978 level of 20 cents per bushel. The grower will be guaranteed 10 cents per bushel, or $100 per acre if his average yield for all planted acreage in the program is 100 bushels per acre.

Diversion payment would be made available to growers during or immediately after the harvest season. It would not be influenced by market or target prices.

Eligibility for storage loans and disaster protection requires grower participation in the set-aside. "A federal (commodity credit corporation) storage loan, when paid back at seven per cent interest, would make a significant savings in interest when compared to the 10-10½ per cent commercial rates currently charged," Hasbargen says. "That adds up to a savings of about $5 per acre put in the 10 per cent set-aside on 100 bushel corn that is held for 10 months."

Farmers in high-risk crop areas such as western Minnesota should also consider the economic value of the disaster program. "The insurance value of the disaster provisions ranges from $1 per acre of set-aside land in southeastern Minnesota to as high as $10-20 per acre of diverted land in western areas of the state."

Legislation to raise target prices seven per cent is currently being considered by the U.S. Congress. If passed, this bill would raise the corn target price to $2.35 and considerably improve deficiency payments.

Deadline for entering the program is April 30. Any participant may withdraw before June 29. Check with your county office of the (ASCS) for details.

Farmers Should Report Flood Damaged Grain

Farmers who suffered flood damage to grain under commodity credit corporation loan should contact their local ASC office, according to area county ASC committee chairman. Flood damaged grain is covered by the commodity credit corporation and will be settled for at the loan rate.

The ASCS will have to measure and inspect the damaged grain prior to settlement, so farmers are requested to notify the office so officials are aware of each case.

New Rules To Monitor Food Stamp Program

State agencies that administer the federal food stamp program would be monitored more closely for errors and mismanagement under a recent proposal by the U.S. department of agriculture (USDA).

Separate proposal directs states to use volunteers and referral systems to reach people who may be eligible for food stamps but who are not presently receiving them.

Monroe Woods, midwest regional administrator of the USDA's food and nutrition service, said the proposed monitoring system, required under the food and agriculture act of 1977, was three major parts: quality control reviews to reduce errors, management evaluation reviews to assure better administration and a planning and evaluation system to correct program deficiencies.

Under quality control, states would review statistically reliable samples of their caseloads to determine each state's "cumulative allotment error rate." This is defined as "food stamps issued to ineligible households and incorrect amounts of stamps issued to eligible households."

States whose error rate, as validated by the USDA, was less than five per cent would receive a 10 per cent increase in federal administrative payments, from 50 per cent to 60 per cent. States with low error rates would be allowed to reduce their sample sizes.

"These proposals are expected to provide incentives to states to reduce their errors," Woods said.

Other proposal Woods announced would implement the outreach reuiqrements of the food and agriculture act of 1977. In addition to using volunteers and referral systems, states would also be required to notify recipients of public assistance, supplemental security income (SSI), and unemployment compensation about food stamp benefits.

New rules would also prohibit duplication of federal funding for some outreach services provided by community action programs.

The proposed regulations, in more detail, were published in the April 10 Federal Register. Comments should be sent to Nancy Snyder, Deputy Administrator, Family Nutrition Programs, Food and Nutrition Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C., 20250. They must be received by May 25.

REV. ARTHUR B. HANSON
BORING, OREGON

Reverend Arthur B. Hanson opened his message last night by saying, "he was hauled out like a lion but back again like a lamb, by the blood of Jesus." In closing he said he was born in Mentor. Cable Lake was his home. He said he raised stock out there and at that time the lake was a swamp and the pigs and the sheep would go down there. The sheep would get out but the hogs wouldn't and such are some of you like the prodical son in the pig pen. Had took Christ to get him out, it's going to take Christ to get you out. Then he gave his benediction.

Council Takes Look At Future City Projects

per square foot. Estimate for widening of the fourth alley with a bituminous surface is $5,400 however there was some discussion about making the fourth alley concrete as well. Cost of alley improvements would likely be assessed back to property owners.

A bituminous surface maintenance program was also among the proposals examined by the council. Estaimtes were available for both bituminous overlay and for a slurry seal coat for streets improved in the years 1967 through 1969. An overlay for all of those streets would have a total cost of $971,267 of which $696,047 would be city funds with the remaining $275,220 to come from state aid funds. Slurry seal coat for the same streets would cost a total of $537,865, $411,305 of which would be city funds and $162,560 of which would be state aid funds. The city's share would be assessed back to property owners.

State aid funds available to the city for improvements through 1979 total $400,577 but if the city chose to undertake the entire overlay project for the streets improved in the years 1957 through 1969 at the $275,220 participation by state aid funds they would be left with only $125,357 of state aid funds for all the remaining projects being considered. Therefore it was suggested the city only undertake a portion of the project at this time, say on streets improved through 1964 which would then result in the spending of approximately $139,480 of state aid funds leaving $261,097 for the other projects under consideration.

Also among the projects discussed at Thursday's meeting was a residential sidewalk program. Discussion centered on how the project would be assessed. It was generally agreed that on main walkways the city would bear the cost of sidewalk improvements and that near schools and in other areas where the public is greatly benefited there should be come consideration given. It was also suggested that sidewalks might be improved on a single side of the street rather than on both sides.

Complete street improvement of E. Greenwood from Crocker Ave. E. to the ditch and of Barzen Ave. from 3rd St. to 6th St. was discussed. Estimated cost for the projects is $263,000 and $77,000, respectively. The city is eligible for state aid funds for the entire cost of both projects. There was discussion of improving Greenwood all the way to Pennington Ave. and the engineer was instructed to prepare cost estimates.

Projects proposals discussed by the council also included a downtown sidewalk and lighting project on which a report is being prepared by the downtown development committee; and construction of Oakland Park and Barzen Ave. bridges. Council was informed that construction plans for the Oakland Park bridge are presently being prepared and that planning for the Barzen Ave. bridge cannot proceed until a wastewater step I study is completed.

Also on the proposed project list were the waste water step I study for which a grant application is being made a a box culvert planned on highway 32 at Greenwood which is also tied into completion of the wastewater study.

Fire hall parking lot, sludge disposal project at the water treatment plant, airport drainage improvements and cross-section runway project, and storm drainage studies for Rustad's subdivision and the East Greenwood and highway 59 sough area were also among the proposed projects discussed by the council.

Street improvements of Brooks Ave. from 3rd St. to 6th St. and of 4th St. west of the arena entryway were considered. Respective costs of these projects were estimated at $62,500 and $32,000. The Brooks Ave. improvement would be eligible for state aid funds.

Cost estimates were also examined for excavation, backfilling, curb and gutter repairs for Kendall Ave. from 3rd. St. to Taft and for Merriam Ave. from 1st St. to 3rd St. Cost for the Kendall project would be $20,000 and cost for the Merriam project, which would also include bituminous surfacing, would total approximately $41,000.

The proposed project list will again be an item of discussion at the city council's regular meeting Tuesday night.

In other business at the adjourned meeting Thursday, the council received recommendations from John T. Anderson, superintendent of utilities, in regards to what the city's position should be on marketing of power by the Western Area Power Administration after 1985. Anderson's recommendations will be discussed at the Tuesday council meeting.

Council was also informed of the receipt by the city of a petition from residents of Cardinal Dr. and Oriole Ave. for curb and gutter and bituminous surfacing of those two streets.

Spectacular Ice Jams Mark River Break-Up

appears that the dam is in good condition, not leaking or breaking up, and of adequate design for the river. However, some repairs should be made, including repair of the scour at the west gate, repair of the abutment by the power house and sealing up of some cracks."

The ice break-up Thursday began in the upper reaches of the river with the result being jams of ice floes against more solid ice down stream. It was not until late afternoon Thursday that solid expanses of ice from the First street bridge area upstream past the Eighth street bridge confluence with the Thief river began to break up. Last major jam took place by the Third street bridge about 5 p.m.

The spectacular nature of the river break-up caused many sight-seers to come to the river banks to watch. Several hundred people were present at about 6 p.m. when the bulk of the ice reached the power plant dam.

MN. Vegetable Harvest Second Highest In U.S.

Minnesota commercial vegetable growers have contracted to produce the nation's second highest acreages of both green peas and sweet corn for processing into canned and frozen food products this year, reports the Minnesota department of agriculture.

Only neighboring Wisconsin tops Minnesota in contracts for these two leading commercial vegetables.

Growers in Minnesota contracted to raise 82,300 acres of green peas, a new all-time high for this state. That represents almost 20 per cent of the national total, 422,760 acres contracted for 1979 green peas.

Sweet corn production in Minnesota this year for processing, 110,700 acres, will be the lowest since 1970 and represents a cut by 13,500 acres, or 11 per cent less than either of the past two years. However, that will still be over 24 per cent of the U.S. total contracted for sweet corn, 455,230 acres.

Last year these two crops grossed Minnesota producers over $47-million, $29.1 million from contract sweet corn and $18.1 million from contract green peas. Minnesota led the nation in sweet corn production and ranked third in production of green peas in 1978.

Wisconsin contract vegetable growers are committed to raising 125,100 acres of green peas and 129,800 acres of sweet corn this year.

DNR Issues Rules For Open Burning

Department of Natural Resources is reminding everyone that a permit is required for open burning in Minnesota.

Snow cover is nearly gone in the state, said forestry officials. The period between snow melt and green-up — when exposed grass is dead and in a flammable condition — is the time when most wildfires occur in Minnesota.

Records show most wildfires in the spring result from burning of debris around homes and farmsteads.

Fire protection agencies are urging everyone in counties where open burning is legal to take the following steps if they plan to do any type of open burning:

1. Obtain a burning permit. These may be obtained free of charge from your local DNR forest officer or township fire warden. This permit to burn vetatative material is necessary to comply with the state of Minnesota fire prevention and air quality laws.

2. Have help available. Don't attempt to carry out a burning project alone. Gusty, shifting winds can cause the fire to speard and result in a wildfire. This can happen very suddenly and may be impossible for one person to control.

3. Have the proper tools available. Rakes, shovels and water are necessary tools to keep the fire under control. If a tractor and plow are available, a plowed fire break will provide additional protection to keep the fire from spreading.

4. Don't burn near buildings. When burning piled debris be sure to locate the piles away from grass fuels that could allow the fire to spread to nearby buildings.

5. Watch the weather. The best time of day to burn is usually in the evening when the wind decreases and the relative humidity increases. This reduces the chances of a fire escaping and burning out of control.

6. Stay with the fire. Don't leave the fire until it is out. Sudden changes in the weather such as increasing or gusty winds could blow burning embers outside the burn area and cause the fire to spread out of control.

Scholarships Offered To 4-H College Students

Two college-bound 4-H'ers will be chosen from the Midwest to receive $1,000 scholarships donated by the Edwin T. Meredith foundation. To qualify, candidates must be former or present 4-H members who plan to enroll as freshmen at an accredited college or university this fall. Winners will be chosen on the basis of financial need, high school grades, leadership ability, 4-H background and college interest.

4-H members in Minnesota may also qualify for $600 scholarships funded by Chicago and North Western transportation company. Nine of the gifts will be awarded to present or former 4-H'ers majoring in forestry, agricultural business or agricultural economics.

Candidates must be enrolled in college this fall as juniors, seniors or graduate students. They must also submit a study on some phase in the marketing and transportation or agricultural commodities or forest products.

A third set of scholarships is for 4-H members who are interested in agricultural careers. The $500 awards will go to one 4-H'er in each of 22 states. They have been donated by DeKalb Ag Research, Inc.

Four of the DeKalb winners will be selected to attend the 58th National 4-H Congress Nov. 25-29 in Chicago. They will tour the company's headquarters in DeKalb, Ill.

For more information and application forms for these scholarships, contact the Pennington county extension office of the University of Minnesota agricultural extension service.

Prairie Public TV Membership Goal Matched

Prairie Public Television received pledges totalling $250,000 during its March period of on-air fund-raising. Some 3,487 callers pledged $159,365 during the 16-day Festival '79, which ran March 3-18. Modificatioin Of Weather To Be Aired In Minn.

Minnesota will be the site ot the April 25-26 second annual meeting of the 13-state Upper Midwest region, North American interstate weather modification council (NAIWMC).

The two-day meeting will be held at the Spring Hill center in Wayzata. Upward of 25 weather scientiests and regulatory authorities concerned with weather modification technology are expected to attend.

Dave McGinnis, supervisor of Minnesota's new regulatory program that limits weather modification activities to professionally conducted aerial cloud seeding, is the current director for the upper midwest region of NAIWMC.

Meeting focus will be on pending federal legislation that will affect weather modification activities nationwide, and interstate coordination and monitoring of operational cloud seeding projects during the 1979 growing season for agricultural crops.

Other subjects will include the new weather modification regulations developed in the member states of Wisconsin and Michigan, and a discussion of Minnesota's possible seeking of federal cost-sharing to monitor and evaluate "down-wind" impacts of cloud seeding operations targetted in other states. Minnesota is considering an application for federal cost-sharing to study possible benefits or damages from North Dakota modification activities.

Guest speakers for the April 25-26 meeting in Wayzata will include Merlin Williams of Boulder, Colorado, representing the parent NAIWMC, and Bernard Silverman of Denver, representing the U.S. Bureau of reclamation which is involved in continuing research on the potential benefits derived from scientific use of weather modification technology.

Compliance Buys Time

Following editorial is from the Grand Rapids Herald-Review:

Fighting inflation must continue at top priority for government, businesses and individuals. Current inflation rates are discouraging. Coming labor negotiations could blow the top off prices for many items all of us use.

The federal government points to some hopeful results with voluntary wage and price controls. It has been able to conclude some contracts with suppliers that state compliance with the administration's pay and price guidelines. Other similar agreements may be reached in the future, and state and local governments can help by requiring compliance from the unions they deal with and the companies they buy from.

A larger part of the problem lies with contract negotiations between the Teamsters union and the truckers. This settlement could well set the pattern for settlements to be reached later this year by workers in the rubber, electrical, auto and other industries.

Until last week the government had felt the union would abide by the seven per cent standard which would include both wages and fringe benefits. The union, which won wage and benefit increases of more than 11 per cent a year in its current contracts, has asked that pension plan improvements be exempted from the guidelines. . .thus allowing a 14 to 15 per cent increase but calling it a seven per cent increase.

Obviously the government can't condone such a settlement and maintain its credibility as an inflation fighter.

Thus the coming weeks may be crucial to continued voluntary wage and price controls in any significant sense.

If the voluntary controls fail it is likely that the administration will ask for mandatory controls because allowing prices to rise without effective restraint would be disastrous politically. The danger in mandatory controls is that it only delays and does not cure. . .indeed, may aggravate. . the root causes of inflation.

Our best chance is to encourage all government and private interests to work within the voluntary controls. There is some reasonable hope that compliance could buy enough time for the economy to make the adjustment required for a long range, solid control of inflation. . .without excessive risk of depression.

Why No Hearings?

Up Ely way the residents have a sense of humor to help carry them through such tragedies as the winter of 1978-79. At least we think it is a sense of humor. Consider the following editorial in the Ely Echo:

Many citizens are becoming concerned that Northeastern Minnesota is getting short changed on the domed stadium controversy. They aren't holding any hearings up here. Now every time there is an issue affecting recreation in the BWCA, there has to be hearings in Minneapolis. After all, we are assured by the press, politicians all and sundry, that recreation in the Ely area is of concern to all citizens in the state.

Certainly, but the football stadium in the Twin Cities area is, too. There are a lot of Ely people, even some special busloads, who go down there to see the Vikings get beat. So how can they consider legislation about a Domed Stadium without holding hearings up here?

This does not mean the people here would disapprove of tax money being used to build a football stadium with a roof. On the other hand, it doesn't mean they would approve it, either. But certainly hearings are an important facet of the democratic process and what is fair for Minneapolis is fair for Ely.

So far we have contacted only one civic organization in town concerning the attitude toward using taxpayers money to build a Domed Stadium. We contacted the nationally-known Ely Committee to Save Minneapolis and St. Paul (ECSM & S.P.).

In a memorandum, which will be filed shortly with Governor Quie, the Committee states: "It is completely unfair that decisions are being made on a Domed Stadium for the Twin Cities area without hearings held in Ely, Section 30, Winton, Byer's "Y", Angora, Finland, and other civic centers in the northeast. There is one aspect of the Domed Stadium which so far has apparently been overlooked. In our research, we have noted that there are about 60,000 or so fans which might take in a football game.

"On the other hand, there are over a million active fishermen in this state who are limited to the healthful pursuit of fish only by the uncertainty of our northern weather. Now, here is our suggestion: Why not put a dome over the Boundary Waters Canoe Area so with a little heat inside we can fish all year around?

"Now just stop laughing for a minute, Governor, and consider this seriously. If we had a dome over the BWCA and a little heat inside to keep the lakes from freezing, we could have fishing trips and canoe trips all winter long. You stop to think how many millions of dollars leave this state every winter by people heading for Miami, Las Vegas, and other intellectual centers just because of the climate.

"If we had a heated dome over the BWCA, these people could be persuaded to stay in Minnesota and enjoy the pristine wilderness in a warm, congenial atmosphere. Furthermore, by just kicking up the thermostat a few notches, we could probably convert part of the area to a tropical climate and plant the shorelines with palm trees, import a few flamingos, and set up a Coconut Hilton North with attendant employment, income, tax receipts, etc.

"Anyway, we are certain you will shortly correct this oversight and hold hearings in the Ely area. We have a lot of other neat ideas to go along with the dome, but we will save them until you and the committee from the Legislature arrive."

On Reapportionment

Following editorial is from the St. Cloud Times:

Minnesota should avoid repeating problems of the past by creating a bipartisan commission to handle reapportionment of the Legislature in the future.

After the 1980 census, legislative and congressional districts will have to be redrawn to reflect any shifts in population. Reapportionment generally is a highly politicized and very controversial process that often ends up in the courts. Meanwhile, fair representation is delayed.

The Minnesota State Constitution grants the Legislature authority to apportion itself. Troubles in Minnesota and other states have arisen when the legislatures' majorities attempted to arrange districts to their advantages. Oftentimes strongholds for the opposition party are divided into portions of several districts, so that the concentration of votes for the opponent is weakened.

Minnesota has had difficulty with reapportionment in the past. After the Legislature was reapportioned in 1913, for instance, 40 years passed before it was even tried again. The State Constitution requires it every 10 years, however. During that time, it was estimated that 50 per cent of the Legislature was chosen by 35 per cent of the state's citizens. Reapportionment was not achieved until 1966, after a 1959 redistricting was declared unconstitutional.

With 1980 approaching, many minority party members have been concerned that their party could be gerrymandered out of existence through political maneuvering. Those fears surely were eased by their party's capturing of the governor's seat and half the seats in the House last week. However, we do not believe that reapportionment should be based on political considerations. We think the balance in state government should make it all the easier to come to an agreement to create a truly bipartisan reapportionment commission.

Common Cause of Minnesota is promoting such a plan. We support it. Similar plans have failed in the State Legislature earlier in the decade. It should not fail this time. The commission should be created before there is any chance for delay of reapportionment due to political haggling.

Borrowed Nonsense:

"Congratulations," said the psychiatrist to his patient. "You're cured!"

"Some cure!" lamented the patient. "I used to be Julius Caesar; now I'm a nobody."

Boss to New Employee: Social security? I don't take out social security. If you work for me you won't live past retirement age."

The teacher was attempting to expand the vocabulary of her young class members. "Will all those who think they are ignorant stand up," she said. Finally one little fellow stood up. "Do you think you are ignorant, Johnny?" the teacher asked. "No, Ma'am," he replied. "I just didn't like to see you standing up all by yourself."

The Truth About Nitrites

Our consumers depend on the pork industry to be able to preserve pork products, and prohibit contamination in cured meats by deadly botulism toxins, but the use of the industry's most dependable preservative, sodium nitrite, has been cited in a recent study as a cancer causing agent.

Sodium nitrite is an invaluable tool in the production of bacon, lunch meats, hot dogs, and other processed meats since it protects against botulism while at the same time giving cured meats added flavor and color. It is a naturally-occurring substance in vegetables, water, soil, air, and in some salt in its natural state. But, last year, a study by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology concluded that sodium nitrite causes cancer in rats.

This is no secret, but I think before we jump to conclusions, we must examine the role of nitrites in our everyday lives. Most fresh vegetables contain about one-half part per million nitrite with some as high as six part per million, and our bodies are also active producers of nitrites. The average person swallows 8 or more milligrams of nitrite daily in their own saliva, and this totals more than twice the amount eaten in cured meats. The intestines also produce 80-130 milligrams of nitrites daily, or ten or more times the amount received from saliva, and 20 or more times the amount received by eating nitrite cured meats.

It has been established that nitrites may turn into nitrosamines while in the body. Nitrosamines are believed to cause cancer under certain conditions, but they do not seem to be produced in cured meats during normal processing and cooking. However, some samples of bacon fried at very high temperatures have yielded a few parts per billion of nitrosamine. The amount is also reported to be equal to that found in beer.

The consumer has been instilled with an unreasonable fear that nitrites consumed from cured meats may cause cancer. I have doubts that the M.I.T. study has produced conclusive results. For example, the rats used in this study, were of a strain that is highly susceptible to cancer. The results showed that in the direct feeding study only 12.5 per cent of the nitrite fed rats developed cancer, compared to 8.4 per cent of the rats in the normal control setting. But it is this study, and these questionable results, that is endangering the pork industry.

Our current law states under the Delaney Clause of the Food Safety Laws that no additive shall be considered safe it it is found to induce cancer when eaten by man or animal. This law is terribly outdated. Analytical capabilities have improved vastly, and it is now possible to find cancer causing agents in almost everything we come in contact with in very minute amounts. But, under the law, even an additive that produces a few parts per billion would be banned immediately from the consumer market. I favor changing this law to protect the consumer, and the pork industry, from undue pressures and higher prices until further testing can be done. For this reason I support the Botulism Act of 1979, which is intended to place a moratorium on action dealing with nitrites for three years.

The average American receives 4 per cent of the nitrites in their body from cured meats, none of which may be harmful. If nitrites are banned for this minute portion, the consumer will see an inflationary increase in pork and cured meat prices at the market place, and the threat of food poisoning from botulism toxins will be increased because there are no substitutes for this preservative that has been used for over a thousand years. Pork producers will also be faced with the loss of their businesses because the demand for pork products could be drastically reduced. The government must allow the food science industry time to carefully examine the facts about nitrites before we move to phase out, or eliminate, this important preservative. Our consumers and the pork industry have every right to expect nothing less.

Horticultural Director Will Speak In Ada

Beautifying the northern Minnesota prairie town will be the topic of a talk and slide presentation by Glenn Ray, executive secretary of the Minnesota state horticultural soceity, on Saturday from 1 to 3:30 p.m. at Faith United church, highway 200 in Ada. The meeting is open to the public without charge.

State senator Roger Moe, state representative Tony Stadum, and members of the city councils in area towns have been invited to attend. A discussion period will follow the talk and slides.

Beautifying rural and urban landscapes has been a concern of the Minnesota state horticultural society since its founding in 1866. Currently it is sponsoring a garden state project in which two towns, Annandale and Pipestone, will be landscaped to serve as model gardened cities for other Minnesota communities. Funds for the project are provided by the Minnesota legislature.

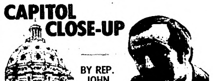
CAPITOL CLOSE-UP



BY REP. JOHN CORBID

By the time this column is printed, our deadline for first hearings of bills in most committees will have passed. Now, only new tax and appropriations legislation can be heard for the first time in their respective committees. And, we'll have to have some serious thinking about tax relief. . .following the first of this week's disappointing votes.

A property tax relief bill passed out of the tax committee came to a halt on the floor, when Republicans, who for years have criticized the DFL for being too late in the session with their tax proposals — decided now that the DFL was too early. This is the first year we've taken taxes in a logical sequence... but not a single Republican would discuss the content of the bill, and it failed on a 67-65 party line vote (68 votes were needed for passage).

The defeated bill included provisions for increasing the maximum homestead credit from the present $325 to $800; raising the maximum circuit-breaker refund from $800 to $1,000; increasing renter credit to 25 per cent of rent paid; raising benefits for senior citizens; enriching tax relief for farmers by increasing the number of farm homestead acres qualifying for a lower tax rate from 160 to 320 acres and increasing the agricultural mill rate differential; and raising the portion of a homestead or farm which qualifies for a lower tax rate.

This stubborn vote means we will have to rush through a catch-all tax package, watching out that big business and the railroads don't run away with all the state surplus money. It is my opinion that the citizens of Minnesota don't care which party gets the credit — they just want property tax relief. . .without it, taxes on property could rise by as much as 30 per cent. That's especially damaging in rural areas, where the high value of land does not reflect its ability to produce income, or the owner's ability to pay.

Equal opportunity for girls and boys in school athletics took a step backwards with the passage of H.F. No. 455. Under present law, a girl who is exceptional in a sport can try out for the school team if the school does not provide a girls' team in that sport. H.F. No. 455 allows schools to not provide the same opportunities — they would be able to tell that exceptional girl that because the school does not have, say, a girls' golf team, that she can just play softball instead. If this bill passes the Senate, and it appears to have support there, it will be gravely detrimental to young girls developing interests in a variety of sports; it will limit them to the traditional "girls" sports.

Elementary school sports which are now co-educational may also change under this new legislation. Schools would be allowed to have separate teams for each sex. . .administering this would be both costly and unnecessary. I voted against the bill for these reasons, and I think it's sad that Minnesota appears to be ignoring what other parts of the nation have seen as the right for all citizens to participate in sports and recreation of their choice.

Please feel free to contact me with your ideas on any of the issues that remain before us, especially what type of tax cuts you prefer. My address is 261 State Office Building, St. Paul, MN 55155.

DHIA Program To Be Expanded For More Herds

Dairymen who have been considering Dairy Herd Improvement association testing will soon get their chance. Pennington and Red Lake county associations are looking for new members to expand their organizations in Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake and parts of Polk counties.

For those dairymen interested there will be an informational meeting held on Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Steak Knife lounge in Grygla. Pennington DHI association directors Lowell Hamrick, Roger Mickelson, Gene Nelson, Roy Nelson and supervisor Jerry Hamre will be at the meeting to answer questions. County agents from Pennington and Marshall counties will also attend.

Dairymen interested but who can't get to the meeting that night are asked to call their county extension agent for information and details. An estimated 30 per cent of the area dairymen are already on DHIA testing.

"It is also estimated that herds of average dairymen on test produce about 4,100 pounds more milk per year than those of dairymen without DHIA records. That's a return of $17 for every dollar spent on this program," states Howard Person, associate Pennington county extension agent.

Additional benefits and costs of the DHIA program will be discussed in Grygla. All dairymen are urged to attend.

Soo Announces Income Gain Despite Winter

Soo Line railroad company produced net income of $2,145,000 in the first quarter of this year in spite of extremely adverse winter weather conditions throughout its operating area which increased operating expenses and delayed the movement of traffic, Leonard H. Murray, chairman and chief executive officer, has announced.

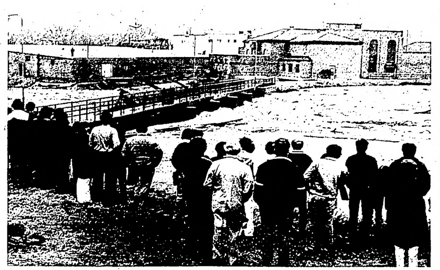
Revenues for the first quarter amounted to $58,471,000, an increase of 7 per cent over last year's first quarter. Net income of 28 cents per share was down 59 per cent from last year. Railway expenses increased by 20 per cent due to the severity of weather conditions and higher cost levels.

Interest income and other income-net increased by $1,483,000 before income taxes, principally due to higher rates of interest on temporary cash investments and gains realized from land sales.

Total carloads of freight handled during the quarter were down 5.4 per cent. There was an increase of 13 per cent in grain car loadings while other major traffic categories showed decreases in volume. Movement of traffic during the quarter was reduced due to equipment and locomotive shortages which were the direct product of the intensity of the winter weather. The Soo had to decline a substantial amount of tonnage available to it in the first quarter.

Heavy snows and cold weather throughout the territory in the first quarter increased expenses in virtually every aspect of operations. Operations in the important Chicago terminal were particularly hard hit, resulting in delays in the interchange of traffic to connecting lines and in the return of empty cars for further loading. Delays in the Chicago terminal caused congestion on other parts of the railroad as well.

Soo's traffic increased substantially in March over January and February and continues strong in April. The problem in meeting the demand for freight equipment continues with nearly every type of freight car in short supply. Soo has 10 new 2,000 horsepower locomotives scheduled for delivery in May and 10 more scheduled for delivery in July which will assist in expediting the movement of traffic over its lines. With weather now returning to normal, Soo expects traffic demand to continue at a satisfacotry level for the balance of the year.



PART OF THE CROWD which lined the banks of the Red Lake river near the power plant dam to watch ice move through the flood gates is shown in the above photo taken about 6:30 p.m. Thursday. Some of the viewers had followed progress of the ice downstream as it caused jams in several areas during the afternoon. The dam was roped off at both ends to prevent people from standing on it as the ice slammed against the structure.

Arts Festival For Handicapped Begins April 23

"A Very Special Arts Festival" showing how handicapped children and adults can become involved in the visual and performing arts will kick-off today (Monday) at Moorhead state university and culminate May 11 in an exhibit and demonstration of what the handicapped can do.

The program, called the Red River Valley "Very Special Arts Festival," is part of national and local handicapped awareness week activities in May. It's intended to make people aware of the barriers that handicapped face and the abilities they command.

Arrangements for the festival begin April 23 with a kick-off day of speakers and demonstrations. The program, from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in MSU's Comstock Memorial union, is open to anyone but particularly for parents and teachers to show them how the arts can help and be helped by the handicapped.

As part of that day's events, Peggy Welti, who chairs the Minnesota arts and handicapped committee and is executive director of CLIMB, (creative learning ideas for mind and body;, Inc., of St. Paul, will speak on the whys and hows of involving the handicapped in art. Also speaking, Robert Chalmers, executive secretary of the Mayor's advisory council for the handicapped in St. Paul, who will discuss attitudes and perceptions of the handicapped.

The rest of that day's activities will include slide shows, demonstrations by the handicapped, workshops and group discussions.

Following the kick-off, from April 24- May 10, local artists and educators will explore ways of involving handicapped children and adults in the arts by working with a selected group of them in area schools and community centers. These sessions will be documented on film and still photographs and will be part of the "Very Special Arts Festival" May 11.

That festival, scheduled from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in the Center for the Arts at MSU, is free and open to the public. Handicapped children and their parents are especially invited to take part in the demonstrations and arts projects that day. Festival activities for children will include drawing and painting, music, sculpture, pottery, dance, drama and mime and juggling.

The festival will also include exhibits of works in progress and finished pieces along with demonstrations of how art activities can be adapted for the handicapped. Videotapes, photos and discussions on how the handicapped can benefit and be benefited by the arts will be presented through the festival.

For more information about the kick-off day and festival, contact Norman Buktenica at 236-2297.

The festival is being sponsored by the Fargo and Moorhead public schools, the Minnesota and North Dakota "Very Special Arts Festival" groups, MSU and local and regional artists.

Sign-Up For Grain Program Ends April 30

Producer sign-up for participation in the 1979 wheat and feed grain program is going well. During 1978, nearly 80 per cent of the 227,000 normal crop acres in Pennington county were enrolled in the set-aside program.

Persons in the program have substantial benefits at no cost. These include guaranteed target prices, disaster protection if unable to plant or if the yields are low and the privilege of taking a low interest loan on the harvested grain.

Forms are available in the Pennington county ASCS office. The final day for sign-up is April 30.

As of March 21, the interest rate to be charged on all new facility loans increased to 10½ per cent. All loans approved and outstanding before that date will retain their old interest rate, most of which are at seven per cent. These loans are available to farmer-producers who have the need for additional on-farm storage, and can be repaid in seven annual installments over an eight year period. The county committee can approve loans of up to $25,000. The maximum loan to any producer is $50,000, and this requires approval of the state committee in St. Paul.

The 1978 crop of wheat, barley, oats, and corn will not be eligible for entry into the three year reserve program. This means that all 1978 loans will have to be settled on or before the maturity date. Producers with 1978 wheat under loan have the option to extend their loans for six months. Storage will not be aid, and interest at seven per cent will continue.

All producers in Pennington county who have oats in the three year reserve program have been notified that the release level has been reached. During the week of March 12, the national average market price of oats reached $1.29, which is 125 per cent of the national loan rate of $1.03.

Any of these 99 producers who own the 617,633 bushels of oats now have the option of being released from reserve agreement upon payment of the loan and accumulated interest. If the national price remains at $1.29 or better, the storage payment of 19 cents per bushel per year will stop as of April 30, 1979. In the event, the market price falls below the release level, there will be no interruption in the storage payments.

Set-Aside For Wheat Offers Good Return

Taking part in the wheat set-aside program could potentially provide higher returns on diverted acres than if the acres were planted to the grain, says University of Minnesota farm management specialist Paul Hasbargen.

"Deficiency payment of 50 cents per bushel to growers who take part in this year's set-aside would probably more than cover the returns they could have gained by planting that diverted acreage," Hasbargen says. Deficiency payments could be as high as 70 cents per bushel under current law, but growers must set aside 20 per cent of their planted wheat acreage to be eligible.

For 1978 participants, the deficiency payment was 52 cents per bushel, says Howard Carlson, state executive director of the agricultural stabilization and conservation service (ASCS). Deadline for sign-up at county ASCS offices is April 30.

"Wheat farmers may want to hold their grain in storage a few months after harvest," Hasbargen adds. "If in the set-aside program, they would be eligible for a commodity credit corporation storage loan at seven per cent interest. Current commercial interest rates are about 10½ per cent."

State Challenges U.S. Control Of BWCA Waters

State of Minnesota will sue the federal government in an attempt to reaffirm its jurisdiction over waters inside the boundary waters canoe area (BWCA), according to commissioner of natural resources Joseph Alexander.

Alexander said that until the passage of the recent BWCA wilderness act by Congress, the U.S. Forest Service — the federal agency which manages the BWCA — had never asserted control over the 150,000 acres of lakes and streams in the area.

Instead, the state regulated activities on lakes and streams while the forest service regulated activities on federal lands.

Alexander emphasized that this cooperative relationship had worked well for many years.

He said, "State authority has in the past proven crucial in protecting the area from destruction. It was the state, not the federal government, that opposed plans for hydroelectric dams in the area.

"Likewise, it was the state that successfully fought to prevent mineral exploration and mining in the BWCA."

Alexander concluded, "The question here is clearly one of states' rights. I am not questioning the need to protect and preserve the BWCA. However, I am seriously questioning the wisdom of relying solely on the federal government to achieve this goal."

Question Effect Of Magnetic Water Devices

Better Business Bureau of Minnesota issued a consumer alert recently warning consumers to beware of questionable claims for magnetic water treatment devices.

Ron Graham, BBB president said one of the devices is sold under the name Bon Aqua for $89.95 and consists of a magnet encased in a three inch square plastic box. By attaching the device to a water pipe, the Bon Aqua is said to create a magnetic field which alters the condition of water passing through the pipe.

BBB says the Bon Aqua is being sold in Minnesota by a large number of independent distributors whose claims for the device range from "try it and see what happens" to blatant unfounded claims. The bureau estimates that thousands of the units have been sold in Minnesota during the last several months.

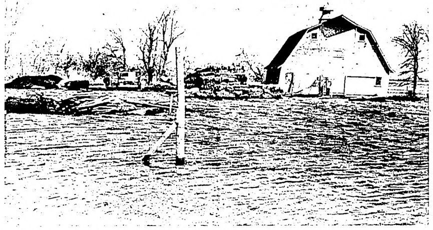
Graham said some distributors have claimed the device will soften water, eliminate water odor, reduce staining, increase sudsing of soap, cause water to boil faster, make ice cubes quicker, reduce chlorine needs in swimming pools, and save energy.

"Actually," Graham said, "there is no concrete scientific proof that the Bon Aqua has any effect on water. BBB has requested proof from several distributors who say the claims are based on personal testimonials of those who have purchased the device. Distributors say they offer a 90-day money back guarantee, and that most customers have been satisfied with the unit."

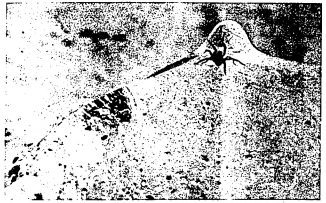
BBB said it has received no complaints from Bon Aqua customers, but, the bureau believes consumers are entitled to scientific proof for the claims made.

BBB does not test products and has not evaluated the performance of the Bon Aqua or other magnetic water treatment devices, but reputable firms are expected to voluntarily provide proof of their claims. Until such proof is provided, the BBB said it is asking Bon Aqua distributors to withdraw their claims and consumers to be very, very cautious.

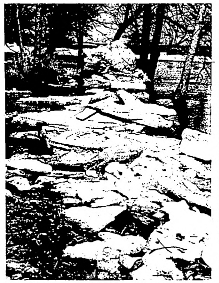
Better Business Bureau of Minnesota summed up its review of Bon Aqua this way, "either the device represents a significant scientific breakthrough in water treatment, or... its promotors are proving that customers who pay $89.95 for a magnet will fool themselves into believing it really works!"



FLOODED BARNYARD can be seen on the Les DeBriyn farm near the Red Lake river several miles southeast of Thief River Falls. Flood waters surrounded all of the buildings on the farm when this photo was taken Thursday morning. Ice jams in the river appeared to cause most of the flooding.



LIFE GOES ON despite the excitement caused caused by the flood threat in the Thief River Falls area. This tiny spider, shown approximately twice life size, cooled its feet on an ice floe washed up on the bank of the Thief river as the ice slowly melted away.



SOME OF THE ICE in the Red Lake river which didn't get as far as Thief River Falls is shown along the bank of the river several miles east of the city. Note the large chunk of ice set on edge against the tree in the background of the photo, evidence of the force of the swollen river.

MN. Awarded Nutrition And Training Grant

Minnesota is to receive over $400,000 of the $25.9 million in nutrition education and training funds the U.S. department of agriculture (USDA) is making available to states for fiscal year 1979.

The nutrition education and training program enacted in November, 1977 entitles state education agencies to receive grants based on a rate of 50 cents for each child enrolled in a school or child care institution. The minimum amount a state can receive is $75,000. The funds announced are being provided to states for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1979.

Monroe Woods, midwest regional administrator of the USDA's food and nutrition service explains, "Through the nutrition education and training program, states provide children, teachers and school food service personnel with training that emphasizes the important relationship between nutrition, good food and health." Woods added, "The training is designed to help them become better informed, more knowledgeable consumers."

Apportionment notice announcing availability of funds is scheduled to appear in the federal register of April 6. For more information on nutrition education and training programs in Minnesota, contact Barbara Kalina, Minnesota Department of Education, 550 Cedar Street, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101.

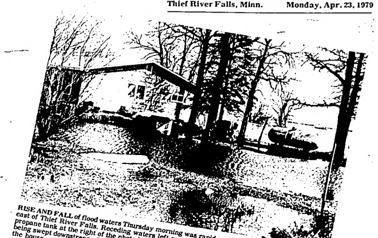
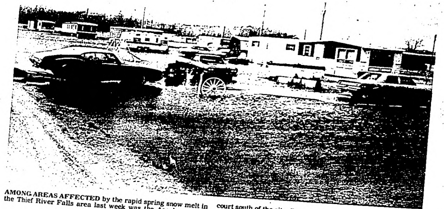
AWESOME POWER of the rampaging Red Lake river was shown Thursday when huge chunks of ice were pushed ashore in the Sherwood Forest area in the northeast section of Thief River Falls. This ice gouged into the lawn and caused damage to a stone wall built as a summer project several years ago by Vern Isaacson.

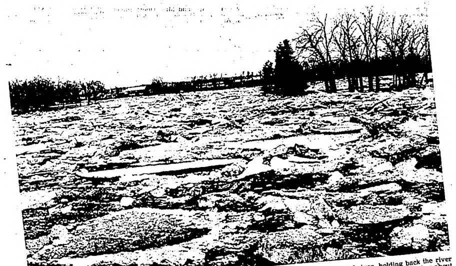


RISE AND FALL of flood waters Thursday morning was rapid around the Donald Grochow home east of Thief River Falls. Receding waters left an occasional melting chunk of ice behind. The propane tank at the right of the photo had been chained to a large oak tree to guard against its being swept downstream. Ice floes damaged a heavy netting fence located between the river and the house.

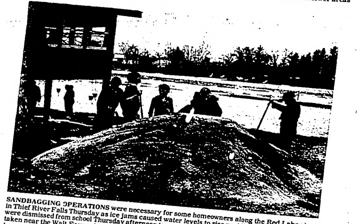
ALL THE EXCITEMENT about flood waters in the Thief River Falls area on Thursday didn't make much of an impression on this pooch in the Aaseby Trailer court. While water surrounded him on nearly all sides, he chose a dry portion of the roadway for a sunny siesta.



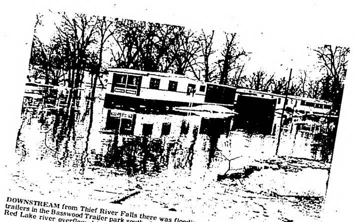
AMONG AREAS AFFECTED by the rapid spring snow melt in the Thief River Falls area last week was the Aaseby Trailer court south of the city. Driveways for a number of trailers were covered by the water which moved overland into the lower areas of the court.



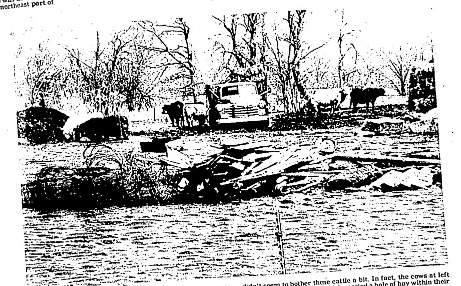
ICE AND DEBRIS ranging from tree trunks to boat docks jammed tight in the channel of the Red Lake river Thursday afternoon. Ice remained solid in the Red Lake river from a short distance above the power plant dam to above the Eighth street bridge confluence with the Thief river, holding back the river flow and causing upstream flooding. This photo was taken about 12:30 p.m. in the Sherwood Forest area in the northeast part of the city.



SANDBAGGING OPERATIONS were necessary for some homeowners along the Red Lake river in Thief River Falls Thursday as ice jams caused water levels to rise rapidly. High school seniors were dismissed from school Thursday afternoon to assist with sandbag operations. This photo was taken near the Walt Forney home. Many compliments were heard for the work of young people, law enforcement officers and others who responded to the need and provided assistance.



DOWNSTREAM from Thief River Falls there was flooding on Wednesday of last week. These trailers in the Basswood Trailer park south of Thief River Falls were surrounded by water as the Red Lake river overflowed its banks.



BEING MAROONED on a small high point of ground near the barn at the Les DeBriyn farm southeast of Thief River Falls didn't seem to bother these cattle a bit. In fact, the cows at left benefitted from the flood which carried a bale of hay within their reach.

Tennis Team Is Outstanding

Lincoln high school tennis team has to be regarded as one of the best — if not the very best — Thief River Falls athletic squad in recent memory. In coach Whitey Olson's tenth year as coach of the Prowlers he has an enviable line-up that features top notch singles performers Bill Jury and Mitch Rustad, both of whom he considers among the top 15 players in the state.

They're joined by the likes of Bill Michalek and Tom Bjorkman off last year's fourth place state tournament team, and are complemented by Bill Holmes who saw some varsity duty last year and varsity newcomers Mark Collins and Mark Lundin in the current line-up used by Olson.

As a sophomore-dominated team the Prowlers were outstanding in 1978. They're even better this year as juniors. Michalek if the only senior on the squad. Lundin is a sophomore. Like last year, whatever success the Prowlers encounter this spring they're expected to publicate in 1980.

That 1979 success could include another Region 8AA title and maybe even a trophy finish at the state tournament. It won't be easy, however, with St. Cloud Tech blocking the route to the region title.

Thief River Falls' talent hasn't gone unnoticed. After opening the 1979 season with a perfect 12-point first place performance in a quadrangular tournament at Brainerd, the Prowlers were praised by veteran coach Bud Schmid of the host Warriors who said, "I would have to rank Thief River as one of the better teams in the state. They have fine talent, great depth and a fine coaching veteran in Whitey Olson."

Only Thief River Falls athletic team in recent years to have comparable talent would be the 1974-75 Northland community college basketball team that finished third in the MJCAA state tournament with a 24-1 record after being ranked among the top ten nationally with a line-up that included David Dickey, Ralph Fitts, Burnie Stephens, Preston Curtis, Frank Ridley, Tom Johnson, Joe Brown and Bill Whitney.

Coleraine Fires Coach

Mike Barle, whose strong Greenway-Coleraine high school hockey team was upset by Thief River Falls 4-3 in front of a large sports arena crowd this past winter, has been fired as coach of the Raiders.

Barle, a banker in his first year as head coach after serving in the Coleraine youth program, told Mike Gill of the Duluth News-Tribune that "downtown quarterbacks wanted me out of there." A member of Coleraine's 1967 state championship team, Barle was hired last spring to replace Paul Rygh who reportedly resigned after a petition to oust him was instituted in the middle of the 1977-78 season. Thief River Falls coach Wendell Grand served as an assistant under Rygh before taking over as coach of the Prowlers.

Tom Bradley, a member of the Coleraine school board, told the Duluth newspaper, "I thought we had a great season (13-7-1, second in the tough Iron Range Conference), but you can't convince anyone around here that we did. As far as I'm concerned, the people of Greenway feel since we didn't beat Grand Rapids, we had a losing season."

Miscellaneous

+ Lincoln high school completed its 1979-80 hockey schedule with the addition of Fargo South. The Prowlers will meet the Bruins in Fargo next winter.

+ Surgery performed on long-time Bemidji Pioneer sports winter Cliff Morlan uncovered cancer on the pancreas. He's under a strict treatment, but still writing for the Pioneer after a hospital stay.

+ Roger Christian of Christian Brothers Hockey Sticks in Warroad slipped on apatch of ice and broke his hip, requiring surgery at North-western Hospital here in Thief River Falls. The former Olympic gold medal winner and the only member of the Warroad Lakers to have his jersey retired in 32 years of operation, will be laid up two or three months.

LHS Baseball Opener Once Again Delayed

Rain today (Monday) forced a third postponement of the 1979 Lincoln high school baseball season opener. The Prowlers were scheduled to play at Moorhead this afternoon — a game set back from Friday because of the weather.

Earlier the Prowlers' original April 14 opener at Red Lake Falls was postponed because of snow cover on the Eagles' diamond. No new date has been announced for that game.

Thief River Falls is scheduled to play its annual split doubleheader at Roseau Thursday when the Prowlers play the Rams at 3 p.m. and then take on Warroad at 5.

Home opener for the Prowlers is planned Friday when the Prowlers are scheduled to host Mount St. Benedict at 4:30 p.m.

Youth Baseball

Organizational meeting for the 1979 Babe Ruth traveling youth baseball program will be held Thursday at 7 p.m. in room 507 at Franklin middle school.

All parents of boys interested in participating in the 13-15-year-old program are asked to attend the meeting.

Last January the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources conducted surveys determining the 1978 hunting and trapping season's success. Questionaires were mailed to a selected group of small game hunters, trappers and deer hunters. They were asked to record the days spent hunting each species, and record their "take." Trappers also were to record the season catch for each specie.

Response was used to compare their findings with previous year's harvest of animals for purpose of evaluating the wildlife population. We feel this is very good conservation procedure practiced by the DNR.

Bounties

We feel no bounties should be paid to anyone for the removal (death) of wildlife, no matter the situation. We personally have seen packs of domestic dogs leave the town and join together in butchering calves and sheep. Game Wardens of that area knew this to be a fact. Yet many farmers had to be convinced it wasn't wolves. Some dogs were shot by the Wardens.

DNR Will Not Change Fishing Season Opener

Phones started to ring at the Department of Natural Resources headquarters in St. Paul last week. People wanted to know if the opening of the fishing season on May 12 was going to be changed because of the late ice break up.

Today the DNR officially announced that there will be no delay in the opening and the May 12 opener will go on as planned.

"We have had late springs in the past," said fish and wildlife director Charles Burrows, "and we have never found the late ice break up to require any change in the season opener."

He said areas where the cold spring has delayed the spawning run and where fish are concentrated will be posted as in past years.

Burrows said these will be small scattered sites and their closing will not interfere with fishing in the larger lakes and streams.

Northland Double Winner In Tennis

A pair of easy wins at Fergus Falls Saturday enabled the Northland community college tennis team to open its 1979 MJCAA schedule with a division-leading 2-0 record.

Northland beat host Fergus Falls 5-2, with both teams playing shorthanded. The normal college line-up of six singles and three doubles matches was reduced to five singles and two doubles.

Unbeaten in the doubleheader nightcap against Brainerd, Northland settled for a 7-2 victory in the scorebook when the Red Raiders fielded a complete team and picked up forfeit wins — their only points — at number six singles and number three doubles.

"They played well against the competition we faced," pointed out Northland coach Irv Smith who cited the improved play of Thief River Falls freshmen Chris Kays and Pete Lee and the continued steady performance of Mahnomen freshman Bernie Brandon, elevated to number one singles.

Northland, a 7-2 loser to Mayville State in its season opener earlier last week, lost a Wednesday match at Bemidji and a Friday match at Willmar to the weather.

Idle until later this week, the Northmen will travel to Brainerd Thursday for a 2 p.m. match, host Mayville Friday at 1 p.m. and complete at Hibbing Saturday at 12 noon.

Rustad Wins No. 2 Singles Title In Hibbing Meet

Mitch Rustad won the number two singles title and Thief River Falls shared second place with Virginia in the final team standings of an eight-team high school tennis tournament held Saturday at Hibbing.

Armstrong high school from the Twin Cities suburb of Plymouth won the event with 23 points, followed by Thief River Falls and Virginia with 15 points apiece, Hibbing 12, Ely 10, Grand Rapids 7, Brainerd 6 and Minneapolis Washburn 6.

Rustad was the Prowlers' lone champion, beating Tony Roy of Grand Rapids 6-1, 6-1; Mike Kasner of Hibbing 7-5, 7-6; and Bly Edwards of Armstrong 6-4, 5-7, 6-1.

Bill Holmes reached the finals in third singles as he beat Steve Jarri of Ely 6-3, 6-0 and stopped Ben Deutsch of Virginia 6-3, 6-4 before losing to Bill Nelson of Armstrong in the finals 7-5, 6-4.

In number one singles, Thief River Falls' Bill Jury drew eventual champion John Billgett of Armstrong in the first round and the Falcons' foreign exchange student from Sweden won 6-4, 7-6. Jury bounced back to beat Tom Laneo of Grand Rapids 6-1, 7-5 and Tom Marchello of Virginia 6-2, 7-5 to earn the consolation title.

Tom Bjorkman and Bill Michalek of the Prowlers were also consolation winners at first doubles, losing to a strong Johnson-Edelstein combination from Virginia 6-3, 6-2 before beating DeCastro and Marity of Washburn 6-3, 6-4 and knocking off Hanson and Nueman of Ely 6-1, 6-1.

In second doubles, the Prowlers' Mark Collins and Mark Lundin beat Moran and Cameron of Armstrong 2-6, 6-3, 6-4 but lost to Egau and Ephelotz of Brainerd 6-4, 6-4 and fell to Kersting and Litchke of Grand Rapids 6-4, 6-4.

"All in all, it was a beautiful day," noted Thief River Falls coach Whitey Olson. "It was a good day to play tennis. Just a little bit more here and there and we could have won the thing."

Thief River Falls will play East Grand Forks and Moorhead Wednesday in a triangular meet at East Grand Forks at 2 p.m. before hosting Crookston Thursday at 3:15 p.m. and entertaining Little Falls Friday at 4 in dual meet outings.

A BACKHAND return by Bill Jury of Thief River Falls cleared the net during Friday's triangular high school tennis tournament involving the host Prowlers, Fergus Falls and Bemidji. Jury plays first singles for the Prowlers.

Agricultural Program Aid To Pheasants

Wildlife officials at the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources say there is potential for a bumper crop of pheasants in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's "set-aside program." While the objective of this land retirement program is to hold down farm crop surpluses, it could produce a real "surplus" of pheasants, according to wildlife specialist Larry Nelson.

"The pheasant hey day of the late 1950's and early 1960's," said Nelson, "was a direct result of nesting cover provided by an early land retirement program known as 'the soil bank'. Under this program, land retired for 10 years was seeded to grasses and legumes. Pheasants flourished because of the tremendous amount of lush nesting cover."

Although long term land retirement program are more beneficial to ground nesting wildlife than annual programs, set aside acres can still be of great value, he declared.

Land enrolled in set aside this year can be seeded with small grain (oats, wheat), grasses and legumes.

Regulations require that the small grain nurse crop by clipped (destroyed) before it is mature. The remaining grasses and legumes may be left until 1980. At that time, if the set-aside program is still in effect, the same acres can again be enrolled without the land owner having to invest further money, time and fuel to work the land.

"The already growing cover crop would provide excellent pheasant nesting cover, erosion control and nitrogen fixation by the legumes," said Nelson, "and it goes without saying that every acre in set-aside saves energy — fuel, fertilizer, wear on equipment and other costs."

If the set-aside program were dropped, the field could be spring plowed or used for hay, he pointed out.

Farmers have until April 30 to sign up for the set aside program.

Interest has really picked up the last several weeks and we urge those who want particular sessions to apply now," Gasparini said.

Four sessions of the hockey school are June 3-9, June 10-16, June 17-23 and June 24-30. Hockey school fee for commuters, with noon lunch provided, is $98. Board and room students pay $148. AGASSIZ NATIONAL wildlife refuge personnel reports the deer herd at the refuge numbers about 1,630 animals after a relatively mild winter. The annual big game census, flown every winter, covered Agassiz and the Elm Lake, Eckvoll and Mudlac wildlife management areas.

Agassiz Deer Population Reported In Good Shape

Deer at Agassiz national wildlife refuge have survived the long winter of 1978-79 in relatively good shape, reports Joe Kotok, manager at Agassiz.

This winter was apparently not nearly as severe for the deer population as last winter, he said. Although the snow came early, it did not drift as badly early in the year. The snow was deep, but there was no icy layer to bury the food supply.

Refuge personnel found only one deer that had died of starvation and, although there were undoubtedly more, this would indicate that losses were much reduced from last year. Over 70 dead deer were found last year.

Annual big game census, flown every winter, showed a January deer population of 1,630 animals. This population figure includes Agassiz and the Elm Lake, Eckvoll and Mudlac wildlife management areas which are censused at the same time for the Minnesota DNR. The census is conducted in a Fish and Wildlife Service owned aircraft. Transects are flown west to east at ½-mile intervals across the refuge. The managers count all the deer that can be seen within one-eighth mile on either side of the aircraft. This number is then doubled to reach a population estimate.

This years population compares with a February 1978 population estimate of 1,260. Refuge managers do not feel that deer losses have been above normal in the past few months, and it appears that the population recovered quite well after the 1978 losses.

Agassiz refuge contracted for two different types of winter habitat work this year. The first was a contract awarded to Russell Zimpel of Plummer for 400 hours of bulldozer work. The dozers were hired to knock down and-or roller chop willow that had grown too tall and too old to be of any food value to big game. Next year the willow will resprout in these areas and provide a succulent and nutritious food supply for deer and moose. In addition, the trails made by the dozers were used extensively by the deer this year.

Second contract was awarded to Northern Tree Service of Pillager for the rental of two hydro-ax machines and operators. These machines are capable of shredding brush and saplings. They were primarily hired to improve upland nesting areas for waterfowl, but in many cases the habitat will also benefit big game. In total, the Fish and Wildlife Service spent approximately $28,000 on these two contracts for wildlife habitat improvement.

Free Fishing Licenses Are Made Available

Are you entitled to a free fishing license?

Could be, according to Bob Wells, license supervisor for the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

Wells said the department is receiving numerous calls these days from persons who have heard they may be able to obtain a license without cost or at reduced rate.

These are the facts, he said:

1. Residents of Minnesota under the age of 16 are not required to have an angling, spearing or netting license.
2. A citizen of Minnesota receiving supplemental security income for the aged, blind or disabled will be issued a fishing license without charge.
3. Minnesota residents serving in U.S. military or naval forces or reserves, stationed outside the state, may fish without a license when in Minnesota on leave provided they have their leave or furlough papers on their person.
4. A permanent license to take fish will be issued at the prevailing fee to any citizen of Minnesota 16 years or older whose parent or legal guardian furnished proof of mentally retarded disability to the county auditor or license agent. A permanent license is valid for the life of the holder.
5. A permanent license to take fish will be issued to Minnesota veterans having a 100 per cent service connected disability.
6. Residents of Minnesota who have attained the age of 65 may take fish by angling or spearing without a license, but must carry proof of age and residence on their person.
7. Residents receiving aid under the railroad retirement act of 1937 or who are former employees of the U.S. postal service and receiving disability pay may take fish by angling or spearing without a license.
8. Patients of a U.S. Veterans Administration hospital may fish without a license so long as they are patients.
9. Patients or inmates of a state mental or correctional institution may fish without a license subject to written consent of the superintendent of the institution.

Wildlife Group Offers 6-Day Nature Vacation

Singles, couples and entire families can spend their vacations this year in some of the best classrooms nature has to offer. The National Wildlife Federation (NWF), a nonprofit citizens conservation organization, is offering three conservation summits this summer in three mountainous areas of the country:

+Blue Ridge summit, Black Mountain, N.C., June 23-29.
+Adirondack summit, Silver Bay, N.Y., July 29-Aug. 4.

The six-day nature holidays feature informal classes in some 30 ecology-related subjects, such as fresh water biology, organic gardening, consumer and citizen action, nature photography, backpacking basics and astronomy.

NWF has designed youth programs at the conservation summits for children five through 15. Led by environmental educators, youngsters can learn about nature through a variety of activities — from treasure hunts to nature hikes — which are geared to their specific age groups.

For details about the Summits, including costs and accommodations, write to Conservation Summits, Dept. CS-27, National Wildlife Federation, 1412 16th St., NW, Washington, D.C. 20036.

UMC Provost Advocates New Gym Facility

"Many people throughout Minnesota have commiserated with me that our present gym is one of the worst physical education facilities they have seen in the entire state," Provost S.D. Sahlstrom recently told the 12 members of the education division of the House appropriations committee. Dr. Sahlstrom appreared last week before the legislative subcommittee at the state capitol.

During his presentation Sahlstrom concentrated on offering testimony to justify the approximately $3.4 million request by the University of Minnesota — Crookston (UMC) campus for a new indoor and outdoor physical education complex. Education division chairman Wendell Erickson (IR—Hills) and his legislative colleagues followed Sahlstrom's presentation with a number of questions related to the facility and its current and intended uses, accroding to the UMC chief administrator.

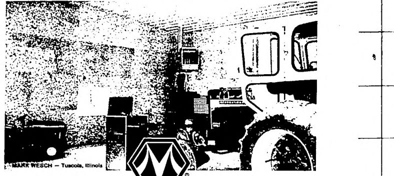
Last year the legislature approved the college's long-standing request by providing money to develop working drawings for a new building and for planning several outdoor athletic fields. An allocation of $142,763 was earmarked for that purpose.

With preliminary design work by the architect well along toward completion, UMC is now asking for funds for construction of a physical education classroom and recreational facility and other campus improvements, with a price tag of $3,426,311 for the whole indoor-outdoor sports package.

"Legislators seem very receptive," Sahlstrom observed, "when I point out the great need for additional space at Crookston. The scope of activities taking place in the present Knutson Hall is particularly impressive when one hears that the building was opened in 1930 for the use of high school students at the Northwest School of Agriculture. In those days enrollment at the school was approximately 300. Today we are trying to schedule classes and athletic events for almost 1,100 college students at UMC in a building with the same capacity and the same limitations it has had for the past 49 years."

In his remarks to the education division the UMC provost also explained that a larger structure would be of support to Crookston area school systems as well as to residents and schools throughout northwestern Minnesota.

"Right now the facilities are too cramped to provide enough space and time for our own high volume of intramural and intercollegiate athletic activity for both male and female students," Sahlstrom told the attentive legislators. "With a more adequate facility, the college could broaden its program of service to northwestern Minnesota communities and school districts and still have enough room for UMC recreational and athletic contests," Sahlstrom concluded.



Shop to make winter profitable

Mr. Wesch says: Last year at this time I purchased a Morton Shop with their special Energy Performer insulation package for the following reasons: 1st — I wanted quality construction and a strong warranty for my money. 2nd — the insulation package allows me to heat the building at low-cost. 3rd — it enables me to use the wintertime for equipment inspection cleaning and general maintenance which eliminates unnecessary downtime.

Now's the time to buy for profitable seasons ahead. Contact the nearest Morton Sales Office listed below today!

Legislative Report

Marv Hanson

District 1 State Senator

A recent trip by ag commissioner Mark Seetin to Japan and China was the focus of attention at the Capitol this past week. Questions were raised about the effectiveness of the promotional tour and charges of misconduct were raised. This promotional visit to the far East by personnel from the Minnesota state agricultural department was paid for by the state, and the Senate ag committee held a hearing this past week to examine more closely our promotion programs.

Rural members of the state senate are supporting an increase in the Minnesota ag department promotional budget. There is no doubt that for us to increase our sales of ag products we must have the trade missions and strong promotional efforts. Our state has a strong reputation in the world and national market place, and we cannot afford to see that reputation diminished.

The hearing did raise some questions for the effectiveness of the present programs, especially showing a lack of direction for the promotional efforts the department dies. For that reason the senate finance committee has decided to split the promotional side of the ag department's budget into two phases this year. The department will receive the first phase for the first year of the biennium; however, the second phase for the second year will not be received until a substantial and detailed plan for ag promotion efforts has been completed by the department and presented to the legislature.

I believe that a result of this will be even better and stronger ag promotional programs for our state. And by keeping Minnesota agriculture strong and strongly promoting our ag products we will be keeping state economy strong.

Last year the legislature defined agricultural lands as land being used to raise agricultural products or lands enclosing domestic livestock. Being a farmer, I thought it was pretty clear. However, I subsequently learned that the department of natural resources was using an old interpretation that once the crops have been taken off, the land is no longer to be defined as agricultural land.

With that interpretation the department excluded plowed or fallow fields or areas which were in stubble from agricultural lands. I don't understand why the department felt it had to interpret the statute that way, but it did. And so, this year the new trespass legislation specifically includes as agricultural lands which are plowed, fallow or contain harvested crop residues. This measure will give farmers clear and explicit protection and insure their property rights.

Our family farm security loan program in Minnesota is the first to be instituted by a state in the United States, and others are looking at our state on this program we have begun. The state senate recently passed changes in the eligibility limits in our program. By changing the eligibility limits we would expect that many more beginning farmers will qualify for participation.

The programs provide for a guarantee to the seller, and it helps the beginning farmer with his interest payments. That help is eventually repaid, but is made by the state in the first years so that the beginning farmer is not squeezed too hard on his cash flow. Inflationary pressures have confronted many of our new farmers and these changes in the eligibility will help them in purchasing farm land so that they can begin their farming careers.

If you have questions or comments on these issues or other matters, write me at Room 23J, State Capitol Building, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155, or call (612) 296-4835. I would appreciate hearing from you.

MSU Special Ed Program Gets $50,000 Grant

Moorhead state university's two newly developed special education programs for teachers of the handicapped have received a second $50,000 grant from the U.S. office of education. The first, a start-up grant was given to the university last spring.

The programs, "Early Childhood Handicapped" and "Vocational and Career Education," are part of a new emphasis in special education at Moorhead state called a developmental - life - span approach to teaching the handicapped. It's aimed at helping the handicapped adapt to situations and jobs from early childhood through adulthood.

"This new direction," says Dr. Norman Buktenica, director of special education programs at the university, "is an elaboration and broadening of our existing special education program. It recognizes that persons with handicaps require varying degrees of support throughout their lives."

For example, he said, persons without handicaps are expected to change careers or occupations two or three times during their life because of economic and social changes. The handicapped, however, are more vulnerable to these changes and need early and continued help in adjusting to them.

Both the early childhood and the vocational-career programs, Buktenica said, have developed under close contact with the public schools with arrangements for training student teachers in local classrooms.

Because of the new programs and direction, Moorhead state graduates with bachelor's and master's degrees in special education are expected to increase from a current average of 80 a year to over 110.

Buktenica said that student recruitment has been stepped up in an attempt to encourage students who are handicapped to apply for admission to the program. Recruitment will also be aimed at teachers who may be interested in special certification or graduate degrees in special education.

The $50,000 grant was issued through the bureau of Education for the handicapped, a division of the U.S. office of education that has been awarding grants to the Moorhead state special education program for 13 years. Some support for students has been included in this year's grant.

For information about the new programs, contact Buktenica at 236-2297.

CO. BOARD PROCEEDINGS

April 23, 1979
Official Proceedings
Board of County Commissioners
Pennington County, Minnesota
April 10, 1979

Pursuant to adjournment, the County Board met in the Commissioners' Room in the Courthouse in Thief River Falls at 9:00 A.M., April 10, 1979.

Members present: Hoffman, Grabanski, Koop, Stenberg and Tasa. All present.

The Board conferred with Engineer Olson and Shop foreman, Ray Mosbeck relative to problems the Board feels have developed within the Highway Department. It was charged that a general feeling of dissention was present within the Department because of personal attitudes and job associated problems which were aggravated by the excessive snow and road conditions.

Discussion continued for an hour with the conclusion that the operation should revert to management by the Engineer and his Department heads rather than the present situation where the Commissioners are being called about problems real and imaginary and their attempting to handle them as Board members. The Engineer indicated a general meeting of the Highway Department was being called for 4 P.M., Tuesday, April 17, 1979.

The minutes of the meeting of March 20th were read and approved as read.

Moved by Tasa seconded by Stenberg that the Road Committee and the Bridges and Culvert Committee inspect roads, bridges and culverts at 9:00 A.M., April 27, 1979. Motion carried.

Moved by Koop seconded by Grabanski that the Engineer and Auditor be authorized and instructed to advertise for bids for County wide graveling, for Petroleum Products and for Equipment rental for the 1979 season with bids to be called and opened at 2:00 P.M., May 8, 1979. Motion carried.

Engineer Olson reported on the results of a call for quotations for professional services for Engineering and design of the widening of the First Street Bridge. Various proposals were reviewed and upon motion by Grabanski seconded by Stenberg the firm of Stewart & Walker was selected at a fee of a flat $12,000.00. Motion declared unanimously carried.

Commissioner Tasa introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

WHEREAS, The County of Pennington has applied to the Commissioner of Transportation for a grant from the Minnesota State Transportation Fund for the reconstruction of County and Township Bridges: County LO227 over County Ditch 32, County LO255 over County Ditch 43, County LO259 over County Ditch 68 and Township LO300 over Judicial Ditch 13.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the County of Pennington does hereby affirm that any cost of the bridge in excess of the grant will be appropriated from funds available to the County of Pennington and that any grant monies appropriated for the bridge but not required, based on the final estimate, shall be returned to the Minnesota State Transportation Fund. The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Koop and upon vote was declared unanimously adopted.

Commissioner Tasa introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

WHEREAS, The County of Pennington has applied to the Commissioner of Transportation for a grant from the Minnesota State Transportation Fund for the reconstruction of Township Bridge LO292 over Judicial Ditch 18.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the County of Pennington does hereby affirm that any cost of the bridge in excess of the grant will be appropriated from funds available to the County of Pennington and that any grant monies appropriated for the bridge but not required, based on the final estimate, shall be returned to the Minnesota State Transportation Fund.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that whereas Federal monies are being used to participate in the cost of the bridge, grant monies as matching funds shall be transferred directly to the agency account and that the records of the County of Pennington shall so state. The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Koop and upon vote declared unanimously adopted.

The Board then conferred with Peter Bergquist of the A.M.C. Staff who is representing the Board in negotiations with the organization recently formed by individuals in the Law Enforcement Center, the Deputy Sheriffs and Dispatcher-Jailers. No action taken by the Board.

Jacqueline F. Helms presented an application for transfer of an Off Sale County Liquor License along with the Sunday License from Allan Berndt, the present owner and operator of Trapper 'n Trader in Goodridge. J. F. Helms and Richard J. Middaugh are proposing to purchase the Trapper 'n Trader which is located in Goodridge Township just out of the City of Goodridge. Sheriff Richards and Attorney Olin conferred with the Board in the matter. Moved by Stenberg seconded by Grabanski that transfer of the Licenses be approved subject to special restrictions prescribed by the Sheriff relating to operation of a restaurant. Motion declared unanimously carried.

At the request of Ray Johnson who administers the Shoreland Zoning Ordinance for the County the charge for the percolation test, that must be conducted by Mr. Johnson in order to prescribe the size and limits of the sewer system of the buildings being built in the strip along the river under the Zoning Ordinance, was increased to the sum of $30.00 per test, upon motion by Tasa seconded by Grabanski and declared unanimously carried.

In Memoriam

In memory of our dear son, Michael John, who died two years ago today:

Two years have passed since that sad day
The one we loved was called away.
God took him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts, he liveth still.

ELABORATE DISPLAY was presented by the Canadian scouting groups participating in the Voyageur Trails district boy scout exposition in Thief River Falls Sunday. The Seven Oaks district scouts from Winnipeg put up this colorful carnival booth and participation ran high throughout the afternoon show. All of the Canadian entries won blue rinbbons when judged against a pre-set standard.

County Soil Survey Awaits Dry Fields

Pennington county soil survey party will continue mapping the soils of Pennington county as soon as field conditions are suitable. Party leader, Rod Heschke, and party members Mike Oja and Jim Schulzetenberg hope to begin mapping in the latter part of April.

The survey will get some additional help from area soil scientists Don Barron and Ward Aas. "The amount of time we spend on the Pennington survey depends largely on the amount of soils information requested by the other counties in the area," Barron said.

This past season, soil mapping was completed in the western part of the county to a line about four miles east of the Red Lake river. Also completed last season were randomly selected quarter section plots comprising four per cent of the county. In total, about 43 per cent of the county is presently mapped.

Mapping will begin in Silverton township this spring, progressing to Smiley, Wyandotte, Cloverleaf, Kratka, Mayfield and, pending favorable fall weather conditions, parts of Goodridge, Highlanding and Deer Park townships. A one-mile strip along the east border of the county will also be mapped this year to accurately join the soil types of the Red Lake Indian reservation which borders Pennington county. The reservation has a soil survey in progress.

Pennington county soil survey is a cooperative effort by the U.S.D.A. soil conservation service (SCS) the Minnesota agricultural experiment station (MAES) and Pennington county. According to Heschke, upon completion of this field season, about 80 per cent of the conty will be mapped with the remainder scheduled for completion by October of 1980.

A report will be published containing detailed soil maps of all the land in Pennington county. The state of Minnesota is currently engaged in a program to map the soils of every county in the state by 1990. This will be done on a cost sharing basis with the federal, state and county governments contributing funds. In this area, Norman county has a published soil survey. Kittson county will have a published soil survey available within the year, and Pennington county is scheduled for publication in 1981.

The published report will include physical characteristics of each soil and the information is intended for many different users. It can help land-use planners determine the suitability of an area of land for such uses as housing, recreation, on-site sewage disposal systems or sanitary landfills.

A homebuyer or developer can use the information to determine and evaluate soil related problems which could affect homesites. A farmer or someone interested in buying or renting a parcel of land can use the information to estimate the potential crop and forage productivity of its soils. These are a few of the many uses the soil survey report will have, Oja said.

KING AND QUEEN of the Pennington county 4-H club carnival, held last week were Greg Foley and Michelle Henrickson of the Mavie 4-H club. They became king and queen of the carnival when the Mavie club booth was selected as the winning booth at the carnival. Each club participating in the carnival selected candidates from among members 13 years of age or younger. Judging of booths was done by county 4-H ambassadors. Proceeds from the carnival are used to help finance county 4-H club activities.

4,500 At Scout Exposition Sun.

Approximately 4,500 persons viewed the annual Voyageur Trails district Boy scout exposition in Thief River Falls Sunday, according to Bill Bloeman, general chairman for the district show. The exposition consisted of approximately 30 different booths, each demonstrating a different aspect of scouting, cubbing and exploring.

Morris Owen, chairman of the judging committee, stated that the exposition exhibited high quality booths. Each booth was judged against a standard. Assisting Owen with judging were Quentin Jones, Oscar Elshaug, Elling Iverson and Hartley Peterson, all of whom have had many years of scout experience.

Earning blue ribbon awards were Troop 56, Roseau; Troops 63, 59 and 199, Thief River Falls; Seven Oaks Beavers, cubs and scouts from Winnipeg; and Pack 199 cubs and webelos, Thief River Falls.

Earning a yellow ribbon were Pack and Troop 50, Warren; Pack 58, Newfolden; and Pack 79, Karlstad.

Not in competition but participating in the show were the Thief River Falls Girl scouts, Order of the Arrow and Esther Sevre, hobbyist.

Chairman Bloeman expressed his thanks to all of the units for participating, to the various subcommittee chairman and members and to all set-up and clean-up volunteers. He gave a special thanks to McDonalds, Borsheim Printing, Thief River Falls Times, KTRF, city of Thief River Falls, Miles Olson, Wally Larson, Pete Sullivan, county fair board, Bridgeman's, Hartz wholesale, curling club, American Legion club, Keebler Cookies, Lampert Lumber company and Zion Lutheran church for assistance in special ways.

Board Takes Whacks At School Budget Reduction

Another whack at cost reduction was taken by the Thief River Falls board of education at its meeting Monday evening with the result being a total adjustment of $167,227 in the 1979-80 budget. With this additional package of cuts and revenue items, the district has pared the budget to the point where use of only $150,291 in fund balance is projected for the coming year.

A continued review of budget is planned for the next meeting of the board on May 15 — the same day as the annual school election. At that meeting the board will also receive a report from a construction firm on the structural condition of Knox elementary school. That inspection and evaluation was authorized by the board at its Monday meeting.

Also scheduled for the May 15 meeting will be a review of the kindergarten program. Faculty presentation of a request to return to half-day scheduling throughout the school year was given to the board Monday. This year the kindergarten program was changed to full day, every-other-day sessions to reduce approximately $15,000 in transportation expense.

Cuts made by the board Monday included $41,100 in reductions and income adjustments for the board and central administration, $15,500 in elementary, $12,550 in middle school, $27,577 in Lincoln high school, $4,400 in food service, $12,100 in buildings and grounds and $54,000 in transportation.

Elementary cuts included summer school music, elimination of a half-time reading instructor position and $7,650 in general budget reduction.

Middle school changes included elimination of summer school music, personnel reduction of $7,000, general budget cuts of $2,400 and miscellaneous cuts of $1,200.

High school reductions included summer school music, two-fifths phy ed position, $4,900; one-fifth science position, $1,800; baseball, $3,900; home economics extended contract, $180; phy ed transportation, $2,000; textbooks, $350; general supplies, $500; field trips, $250; assistant hockey coach, $989; assistant boys basketball coach, $666; assistant boys and girls tennis, $900; general athletics, $900; and general budget, $8,442.

Listed as board and central administration reductions were appraisal, $14,000; community education, $9,300; professional and technical service, $6,000; rental lease, $1,600; printing and binding, $820; dues and membership, $200; advertising, $200; superintendent travel, $100; office travel, $100; general secretarial salaries, $500; board miscellaneous, $500; and city directories and yearbooks, $230. Projected are $3,000 income from miscellaneous revenue and $4,550 from the adult agriculture program.

Transportation cut-backs involve transfer of $18,000 in expense of vans to capital outlay rather than operations, reduction of driver time and route reduction and other internal adjustments in-

Youth Center, BN Depot Are Council Topics

Removal of the Burlington Northern depot in order to prepare a site for the senior citizens highrise was among the topics of discussion at a regular meeting of the Thief River Falls city council held Tuesday, April 24. The city had earlier put the building up for sale on bids but received none.

Pennington county historical society representatives Marv Enerson, chairman, and Inga Geving were in attendance to express the historical society's interest in moving the building to the Pioneer Village site and Jim Kremer was present to voice his interest in some of the antique items within the building if the city intends only to tear it down. Quotes were available from Ken Bakke and Reiman Equipment Rental for removal of the building and city planner Jack Quinlivan reporteed on estimates he had received from movers.

There was such a great difference in the estimates from the movers, $8,000 and $19,000, that the council could not give much credence to either estimate. Bakke's quote for removing the building totaled $7,500 including $4,400 for tearing it down, $1,600 for taking out the basement and $1,500 for filling the basement site with sand. A similar quote from Reiman estimated $4,000 to tear down the depot, $4,000 to take out the basement and $1,500 to fill the site with sand for a total of $9,500.

Speaking for the historical society, Enerson indicated that the board had estimated

He explained that MCCL does not oppose family planning and contraception but does oppose the giving of tax money to family planning agencies which provide abortions.

He elaborated on "...how difficult it is for a grass roots organization like MCCL to make its views known when the press seems bent on distortion and continually attacks MCCL saying it is against contraception.

"How do you get the true facts to the people when the press is biased? Many times they admit after the fact that

The mother of the bride was attired in an off-white qiana pantsuit trimmed in lace. The groom's mother wore a green floral gown. Their corsages were white silk roses.

Honor guests at the wedding were Mrs. Kenneth Pederson, grandmother of the bride; Godfrey Carlson, grandfather of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Chet Nessen, godparents of the bride.

A reception in the church fellowship room followed. The event was hosted by the bride's father and served by the women of the congregation. Presiding as host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Jarshaw. Mrs. Gary Clow registered the guests and Mrs. Jim Suronen served the punch.

volving personnel.

Summer school programs, which have been conducted over the years as a break-even proposition through state reimbursement, were targets for elimination Monday evening. The board voted that no transportation be provided for summer school in 1979.

Elementary summer school schedule was reduced to reading for grades 1-5, developmental math for grades 1-5, special learning disabilities program for grades 1-5 and the 3 R's (reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic) for grades 3-5.

All that remains of the secondary summer program are math and its applications, for grades 6-12, and remedial field science, communications and social studies for grades 6-12.

Policy for leave of absence without pay was approved, election judges were hired for the May 15 school election, Bonnie Kluver's resignation as girls assistant track coach was accepted, a request for maternity leave was approved and effective date for Greg Stauss' contract as long-term substitute was set at March 12.

Adjustments were made in rental rates for space in the school district service center with increases of approximately 10 per cent approved.

Bids were accepted from Interstate bakery for bread, hamburger buns and coney buns with four bakeries entering bids. Bridgeman's was given the contract for school milk with the only bid received and Gary's Rainbow bakery was given the contract for sweet rolls and doughnuts.

Advertising for bids was authorized for a complete food service at the area vocational-technical institute and Northland community college joint commons.

Administration was authorized to work with the city for the development of four test cells at the AVTI aviation mechanics site. Authorization was given to the termination of contract with John Kingbird, custodian, according to specifics of the labor agreement between the district and Teamsters union and to the use of Franklin swimming pool by the Thief River Falls amateur athletic union (AAU) swim club. the moving expense at not over $10,000. The building would be used at the Pioneer village as a museum for machinery and cars. If the cost of moving the building exceeded the $10,000 Enerson felt the historical society could not come up with the money unless the city would make a contribution of funds or in-kind services. It was suggested by Jim Kremer that if the city would have to spend approximately $8,000 just to have the building torn down they could contribute that money to the historical society to be combined with the $10,000 that organization has to have the building moved to the Pioneer Village.

It was the feeling of the council members that official quotes had to be obtained from the movers before a final decision could be made. However the council did state that if the building were to just be torn down they would have city crews accomplish the work rather than accept a bid from the outside. A decision must be made in the near future since the structure must be off the site by June 1.

Also in attendance at the Tuesday council meeting was Mike Barry, director of the Thief River Falls T.A.S.K. Youth Center, who informed the council that the youth center board of directors recommended the closing of the youth center because of declining interest. Barry also expressed his gratitude for the opportunity the council had given the youth to operate the center and stated that the board felt the remaining fund of approximately $1,600 should be held for future youth who might want to undertake a similar venture. Furnishings in the center will be sold with the money used to pay off approximately $400 of outstanding bills. Council followed the recommendations of the youth center and also requested a closing financial report.

A letter from Schumann Bros., Inc., contractor who painted the new water tower in 1978, was discussed by members of the council. The letter was a request from Thomas Schumann for payment of an additional $8,207.50 for work and materials required for the job which he had not anticipated in his bid of $16,500. The council had previously paid Schumann 90 per cent of the bid, $14,850, but he would not accept the remaining 10 per cent pending the settlement of his claim for additional funds.

Job specifications for the painting indicated that the interior of the water tower had been examined in 1975 and at that time the paint had worn off approximately 30 per cent of the surface. Schumann claims that to him this meant, when he made his bid in 1978, that 70 per cent of the surface still had paint on it and such was not the case. The city however holds that it would be obvious that in three years time conditions would have changed and Schumann logically should have understood this. Cost difference here is in the more expensive surface preparation required in an unpainted area.

Schumann also maintains that the specifications indicated that he only had to apply paint to a thickness of 10 mils to all surfaces. Believing he would only have to apply one to two mils on approximately 70 per cent of the surface to bring it to ten mils, Schumann says that because the interior of the tank was in worse condition than The specs indicated he had to purchase more paint than anticipated in his bid to complete the job satisfactorily.

The city holds that not only did the specifications not say that 70 per cent of the tank was still painted they also did not say the contractor would only have to bring the painted surface to a thickness of 10 mils, they said that 10 mils of paint had to be applied to all surfaces.

In his letter Schumann also indicated that he had engaged an attorney to represent him in the matter. The council, after considerable discussion instructed the city attorney to respond to Schumann stating that the council feels that the job specifications were clear, that they do not intend to pay him any amount beyond what was bid and that if he would like to submit a bill for the remaining 10 per cent of the contract amount they would be glad to pay that sum.

In other business the council instructed the city eningeer and sanitation committee to respond to inquiries from the Pennington county board in regard to the city's views on the sanitary landfill situation. The council still wishes the county to find a suitable site in Pennington county for a landfill.

Following planning commission recommendations the council granted a side yard variance of 9 feet to Peterson Lumber Co. and instructed the housing and redevelopment authority (HRA) to pursue a study of the rental housing situation in Thief River Falls. Jack Quinlivan, city planner, indicated that it was expected that a committee would be formed from HRA and planning commission members which would review potential certification of rentals, collectable fees and possible voluntary compliance of landlords with the uniform building code and the city housing code.

Discussion was held regarding the possible reorganization of the park and recreation department in light of growing responsibilities and a proposed chain of commend, prepared by director Mike Mongoven, was examined. It is suggested that additional supervisory positions be established in the department but the matter was referred back to the park board for additional study and a recommendation.

Turned back to the airport committee for further discussion was a proposal for a preliminary study for construction of a cross strip runway at the Thief River Falls regional airport. Cost of the study would be approximately $16,000 with the city and state paying on a one third - two thirds basis, respectively. Ultaimate city share if the project was undertaken after the study would be 10 per cent. However airport director George Singer had earlier expressed some doubt as to the need for the construction and council members felt the committee should review the matter.

Council also approved the placement of a plaque in the tourist park as a memorial to Gus Frahm, park attendant who died in January of 1979; approved the blocking off of LaBree Ave. from 2nd St. to the drive-in teller exit north of 3rd St. May 4-5 for a sports show; and approved progression raises for Yvonne Klegstad and Dana Klos.

MCCL Head Critical Of Press Reports

they miscovered a story, but then they refuse to correct their error or even give equal space to the correct facts.

"Once the damage of a misleading story is done there is no way to correct it."

When asked by conventioner why it is that the tactics being used against pro-life legislation seem so vicious this session, LaLonde answered, "This year we are hitting the abortion establishment where it hurts, in the pocketbook. They know that without direct or indirect government aid for abortions they will go under. And not only will they go under in Minnesota but they will go under nationwide. They know that people are getting tired of seeing tax dollars spent for the slaughter of innocent babies. Finally, they know that if they are stopped here they can be stopped anywhere."

In addition to LaLonde's talk, workshops were held on films and their impact, working with the news media, pro-life resources and poster and banner-making.

In the workshop on films and their impact, the participants discussed a film of a case in which a retarded baby was allowed to starve to death at an eastern hospital.

The participants in banner-making and news media workshops worked on banners and news releases.

In the pro-life resources workshop, Mary Schmidt, MCCL, state education director, reviewed the materials and information available to MCCL chapters and to the public.

The Sky-Lite kitchen band entertained at the "brown bag banquet" and organizers said that the number participating was greater than the number they had anticipated.

Supports Area Designation As Disaster Area

Congressman Arlan Stangeland of the Seventh district and Minnesota Governor Al Quie examined by helicopter flood damage in the areas of Fargo-Moorhead, East Grand Forks and Crookston on Friday.

Congressman Stangeland said, "The people who live in these flooded areas are suffering a tremendous amount of damage, and I support Governor Quie's request for federal assistance to these portions of the district."

Governor Quie has asked President Carter to declare the counties of Clay, Wilkin, Norman, Polk, Marshall, Kittson, Roseau, Pennington, Red Lake, Mahnomen, Becker, Crow Wing and Aitkin as a disaster area, thus making them eligible for federal aid.

"The cost to clean-up these flooded areas will be extremely high, and I think for the residents effected to receive the necessary assistance, in order to bring their lives back to normal, the federal and state agencies will have to coordinate their efforts closely."

Szymanski Added To 1,000-Point Club

It was reported here last week that Dave Hanson and Art Johnson, the two all-time leading scorers in Lincoln basketball history with 1,088 and 1,012 points, respectively, will become members of the prestigious Minnesota 1,000-point high school basketball club. However, Hanson, who set his scoring marks from 1955-58, and Johnson, who played for the Prowlers from 1951-54, will not be included on the list compiled by Bruce Strand of the West Central Daily Tribune in Willmar until next spring because their names were submitted too late for last week's 1979 publication.

There were 44 names added to the 1,000-point club this year, increasing the total to 441 since the late Lefty Ranweiler began to compile the statewide list for the Willmar newspaper in 1958.

That was the year that Norm Grow of Foley, averaging 36 points per game, finished a remarkable high school basketball career with 2,852 points — a state record that has gone unchallenged over 21 years. Second place Bob Bruggers of Danube is about 500 points behind with 2,364. And such awesome centers as Mark Olberding of Melrose, now an NBA regular with San Antonio, and Lake City's 7-2 Randy Breuer both finished more than 1,000 points behind the 6-5 Grow.

Twenty-four boys and 18 girls were added to the 1,000-point listing this year. The boys' list jumped from 387 to 411 with the addition of 13 of this year's seniors and 11 previous graduates who hadn't been reported before — including Lon Szymanski, a 1965 graduate of Goodridge high school who scored some 1,400 points for the Huskies. This year's 1,000-point graduates include Breuer; Mike Heller, St. Thomas Academy; Mark Wackler, Howard Lake-Waverly; Greg Downing, Duluth Central; Bruce Kaupa, Woodbury; Dave Roen, Lake Park; Todd Oakes, Spring Grove; Mike Kingery, Atwater; Ben Coleman, Minneapolis Central; Dan Moore, Elgin-Millville; Dave Henessey, St. Louis Park; Jerry Williams, Marshall-University; and Jim Fiecke, Winsted Holy Trinity.

Paul McDonald of Chisolm and Frank Wachlarowicz of Little Falls are two of the more familiar performers added to this year's listing.

The list of girls expanded from 12 to 30 this year, including Shelly Oistad of Fertile-Beltrami with 1,287 points. She joins Georgine Troska of Goodridge who scored 1,148 points as the only Region 8A girls on the list that is headed by New York Mills junior Janet Karvonen with 2,284 points. Four of the top six girls on the list are underclassmen, including Kelly Skalicky, an Albany sophomore with 1,342 points — a remarkable figure, but still trailing a 1,498-point total accumulated by Karvonen after her sophomore season.

With Oistad and Troska included, there are now 36 Region 8 players included on the 1,000-point listing. Hanson, Johnson and Roseau's Lonnie Lofstedt who scored 1,082 points before graduating in 1978, will be included in next year's listing.

Virg Sonju, who played at both Finlayson and Kennedy, heads the list of Region 8 scorers with 2,008 points — one of just six boys who have scored over 2,000 points in the state. Jim Jensen of Bemidji graduated last year with 1,763 points to rank second to Sonju in the Region 8 figures.

Renville holds the distinction of qualifying the most 1,000-point scorers — 11, including nine boys and two girls.

NCC Offense Ranked Tenth In NJCAA

Statistics announced this week by the national junior college athletic association (NJCAA) revealed that Northland community college earned a top ten ranking offensively this winter.

In fact, the Northmen, who finished the 1978-79 season with a 16-7 record, were ranked tenth in the nation in offense with an average of 92.3 points per game.

Hiwasse (Tenn.) junior college led the NJCAA offensive charts with a 99.8 points per game scoring average.

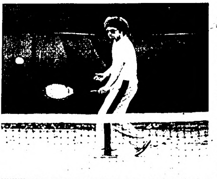
TRF Babe Ruth Baseball Team Parents Meet

All parents of boys ages 13 to 15 who are interested in playing baseball this summer are asked to meet Thursday at 7 p.m. in room 507 at Franklin middle school.

The meeting will center around the organization of the Babe Ruth traveling team program.



UNIVERSITY OF Minnesota-Morris senior Keith Breiland of Thief River Falls is concentration personified in this UMM action photo from last Thursday's match in Morris in which the Cougars bested Northern State 8-1. Breiland, who plays at No. 2 singles for the Cougars, is now 5-2 for the season.

Poor Weather Plagues Lincoln, Northland Spring Sports Teams

Weather continues to raise havoc with the Thief River Falls spring sports schedule — both at Lincoln high school and Northland community college.

Postponed earlier this week were Lincoln track meets at Roseau Monday and at East Grand Forks Tuesday, along with a Lincoln baseball game at Moorhead Monday.

And some changes have already been made on the rest of this week's schedule. A Lincoln tennis match at East Grand Forks today (Wednesday) has been replaced by a trip to Moorhead, and a Lincoln track meet here against Crookston Thursday has been dropped in favor of a meet on Roseau's all-weather track that afternoon.

Busy Lincoln tennis team will also host Crookston Thursday at 3:15 p.m. and will entertain Little Falls Friday at 4.

Fourth attempt by the Lincoln baseball team to open its 1979 season will be made Thursday when the Prowlers plan to play Roseau at 3 p.m. and Warroad at 5 in a split doubleheader originally scheduled for Roseau but not planned for Badger. Thief River Falls is also scheduled to get its home season underway Friday with a 4:30 p.m. game against Mount St. Benedict. A third attempt to play Moorhead will be made Saturday at 10 a.m. at Moorhead.

Season opener for the Lincoln golf team is slated Saturday, a 9 a.m. invitational meet at Fergus Falls.

Lincoln girls track team, idle since an early season indoor meet at Crookston April 2, will be at Bagley for a 4 p.m. meet Thursday.

On the Northland scene, weather-delayed season openers for the women's softball and men's baseball teams are planned this week. The Northwomen are slated to play at Brainerd today (Wednesday) and at Grand Rapids against Itasca Saturday in 1 p.m. doubleheaders. The Northmen visit Brainerd Saturday for a 12 noon twinbill.

Archery Club Award Banquet Held Friday

Target league regular season title went to the Buck Busters whose members included Rick Bruggeman, Curt Johnson and Dave Mugaas. Tournament championship went to the Bear Busters whose members included Dana Klos, Dean Carlson and Tom Molskness.

Bowhunter league regular season title was won by the Game Getters whose members included Wally Sjaaheim, Larry Forsberg, Pat Passa and Robert Filipy. Tournament trophy went to Arctic Cat II whose members were Mike Lorentz, Tom Olson, Tom Dunrud and Martin Fallon.

Individual target league honors included high point freestyle — Rick Bruggeman, 299.91, and Tom Lykken, 297.44; high point barebow — Dana Klos, 266.75, and Dave Mugaas, 266.16; and most improved — Dean Carlson, 254-296.

Individual bowhunter league honors included high point freestyle — Les Nelson, 289.00, and Jerry Amundgaard, 279.50; high point barebow — Tom Olson, 253.83, and Jeff Imgrund, 243.75; and most improved — Mark Olson, 160-263.

Curt Johnson was proclaimed as the 1979 sandbagger of the year.

Northland Baseball Team Opens Against Brainerd

An abbreviated 1979 Northland community college baseball season will get underway Saturday for the Northmen who will travel to Brainerd for a 12 noon Northwest Division doubleheader.

That's one of just six playing dates for coach Chet Engelman's Northland squad this spring, although all six outings are seven-inning twinbills — all against Northwest Division opponents Brainerd, Fergus Falls and Crookston on a home-and-home basis. The Northwest champion will serve as the host team for the 1979 MJCAA state tournament, a four-team affair planned Sat., May 26.

"We just hope to get some of our season in," mentioned Engelman whose squad has been confined to two sporadic weeks of indoor practice because of the weather — first the snow and now the rain, "and at this point I wouldn't bet on it."

Should the Northmen begin play this week — they were already weathered out of a scheduled twinbill at Fergus Falls — they'll be facing a Brainerd team that is considered a division favorite. The Red Raiders overwhelmed Crookston 10-0 and 16-1 Saturday in the only Northwest Division games played to date.

Responsibility for stopping the Red Raiders, and the Spartans and the Trojans, will rest on the shoulders of a four-man Northland pitching staff that looks to be the team's strong point. The pitchers include right-handed sophomores Mike Carriere (Middle River) and Brian Peterson (TRF), along with left-handed freshmen Bruce Williams (TRF) and Vince Parker (Inkster, Mich.).

"Our pitching could be respectable," acknowledged Engelman. "Whether our hitting comes through is another question. It's hard to tell until we can get outside."

Mark Thorstad (TRF) will do most, if not all, the catching this spring for the Northmen, with Keith Charbonneau (Pembina, N.D.) providing back-up help.

The infield will likely feature Williams at first base and Peterson at shortstop whenever they're not pitching, along with Charbonneau, Doug Engelman (Rosemount), Jerry Erickson (TRF), Morice Hendricks (Inkster) and Lyle Johnson (TRF).

Outfielders include Brad Kosel (TRF), Dale McConachie (Perham), Brian Thomas (Inkster), Karl Chromy (Park River, N.D.), Craig Fast (Warroad), Dave Samuelson (TRF), Lawrence McKenzie (Northome) and Parker.

Northland is scheduled to open its brief home season Tuesday with a 12 noon doubleheader against Fergus Falls. The Northmen are supposed to play their home games on their new diamond behind the school.

"We might be alright," guessed Engelman, "but we're not as tough as the rain or the snow."

Northland Baseball
(All 12 noon doubleheaders) Sat., April 28 — at Brainerd; Tues., May 1 — Fergus Falls; Fri., May 4 — at Crookston; Mon., May 7 — at Fergus Falls; Wed., May 16 — Crookston; Sat., May 19 — Brainerd.

TRFAHA Will Meet Tonight At Franklin

Wrestlers From Finland Will Meet Region 8 Foes

International wrestling arrives in the area Tuesday when a cultural exchange team from Finland visits Fertile to wrestle the Falcon wrestling club beginning at 7 p.m. in the Fertile-Beltrami high school gym.

The Finns will arrive in Fertile Tuesday afternoon from New York Mills where they will compete Monday. They will stay in Fertile with host families until noon Thursday when they'll leave for Grand Rapids and further competition.

The dual meet will be wrestled under international freestyle rules which are somewhat different than Minnesota high school style, but perhaps more entertaining from the fan's point of view.

Members of the Falcon wrestling club include a mixture of high school and college wrestlers from northwestern Minnesota. The tentative Tuesday line-up is as follows:

105.5 — Todd Ranz, freshman, Fertile-Beltrami.

114.5 — John Cyr, eighth grader, Oklee, 1979 Region 8A champion at 98 poinds.

125.5 — Either Lee Abrahamson, junior, Fertile-Beltrami, third place finisher in the 1979 Class A state tournament; or Brett Urness, junior, Fertile-Beltrami.

136.5 Paul Cyr, head wrestling coach at Fertile-Beltrami high school.

149.5 Brian Wilborg, Bagley and St. Cloud State University.

198 — Steve Guenther, senior, Waubun, 1979 Region 8A champion at 185 poinds.

220 — Brent Strand, Oklee and the University of North Dakota, fourth place finisher in the North Central Conference at 190, state runner-up at heavyweight as a high school senior.

Unlimited — Jerry Larson, Roseau and the University of North Dakota, a member of the Minnesota cultural exchange team that toured Finland last summer.

Top wrestlers on the Finland squad include Harri Uusimaki, a Finnish senior champion at 62kg; Jouko Knuutila, 1976 Scandinavian champion, a five-time Finnish champion and a champion in the 1977 Chicago junior tournament at 82kg; Hannu Kinrunen, four-time Finnish champion at 90kg; and Ilkka Korhola, two-time silver medal winner in the Finnish championships at 100kg.

Tickets, priced at $2 for adults and $1.50 for students, will be on sale at the gym. Doors will open at 6 p.m. The meet will be preceded by a welcome from the mayor of Fertile and the traditional exchange of gifts by the wrestlers.

Lakers Beaten In Western Finals Sunday

Warraod Lakers' bid for a berth in the Canadian intermediate hockey Hardy Cup finals fell one game short as the Manitoba Assiniboine Hockey League champions lost to host Quesnell, B.C. 7-5 Sunday in the Western Canadian AA tournament championship game.

Thief River Falls' Tom Goddard scored once as Warroad began its Western Canadian appearance with a 7-6 overtime victory over Asquith, Sask. Thursday. The Lakers beat Quesnell 8-6 Friday and knocked off Alberta 9-2 Saturday when Goddard scored twice before losing the championship game rematch against Quesnell.

The loss snapped a 19-game winning streak for the Lakers who finished the season with a 49-8 record.

Meanwhile, Quesnell will advance to the Hardy Cup finals against Eastern Canadian champion Muncton, New Brunswick.

Northland Softball Team Opens Today

Weather permitting, the Northland community college women's softball team was scheduled to open its 1979 season today (Wednesday) with a 1 p.m. doubleheader at Brainerd.

Coach Deb Jacobson's Northwomen host Rainy River Monday if a suitable field can be found for the planned 1 p.m. twinbill. Northland is supposed to use its new diamond behind the school this spring, but Jacobson joked, "We're going to have to drag it with a boat."

Biggest problem facing Jacobson is the lack of pitching. "We have no pitchers with any experience," she noted.

The 13-member Northland squad includes sophomores Bev Horachek (Goodridge), Jean Dziengel (Stephen), Cheryl Larson (Newfolden), Karie Melvie (TRF) and Julie Buresh (Waubun), along with freshmen Tami Sorenson (Baudette), Chris Charlebois (Minot, N.D.), Vernell Grafstrom (Roseau), June Hanson (Roseau), Jane Daniels (Fosston), Arlene Knutson (Newfolden), Marilyn Anderson (Fosston) and Karen Sparby (Grygla).

Goodridge sophomore Georgine Troska, who would normally be a member of the team, is serving as student manager after suffering a foot injury during the 1978-79 basketball season.

Northland, tentatively scheduled to play a 14-game slate, will compete against Itasca and Brainerd for two available Northern Division berths in the May 17-18 state tournament at Normandale community college in Bloomington.

Northland tennis team travels to Brainerd Thursday for a 2 p.m. match, hosts Mayville State Friday at 1 p.m. and visits Hibbing Saturday for a 12 noon outing.

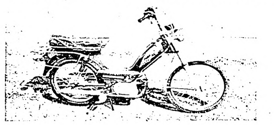
Indian Four
AMERICA'S FIRST FOUR-STROKE MOPED



A four-stroke engine means no mixing of gas and oil. You can fill up at the gas station just like a car. The Indian Four is the only moped that runs on gas alone. And it gets more miles per gallon because it runs on gas alone. See the Indian Four for safety, value, true economy. And, above all, for the engineering and mechanical guts that made Indian one of America's proudest names on wheels.

Any way you cut it... it's a snap with a SNAPPER!

That's because a SNAPPER is a top quality, superior performing machine which is easy to maintain and will deliver years of dependable service. They're designed to get your work done faster and to perform more functions than their names suggest. Before you buy a mower or tiller, compare the quality and performance features of a SNAPPER. You'll find SNAPPER is worth more because it does more.

SNAPPER walk-behind mowers can broadcast, vacuum, and with inexpensive attachments, can bag, shred or mulch. SNAPPER extra "High Vacuum" riders can broadcast, bag and vacuum cuttings, leaves, litter, even pine cones, during high moisture conditions. SNAPPER tillers convert to walking garden tractors which can plow, cultivate or doze soil or snow.

To Hold Paper Drive Saturday

Newspaper collection will be held on Saturday in Thief River Falls and St. Hilaire. Persons with newspaper to be collected are asked to tie it in bundles or place it in boxes at the curb. Persons using plastic bags for paper to be donated are asked to tie a white string or cloth around the bag so that it will be picked up rather than left on the assumption that it contains garbage.

"Moving Up" To Be Held Sat. At Our Saviour's

"Moving Up", an evening of special events for young people in grades nine through 12, will be held Saturday at Our Saviour's Lutheran church in Thief River Falls.

Remind Farmers Of Deadline For 1979 Set Aside

"It is of critical importance that all farmers be aware that Monday, April 30, is the last day for sign up in the 1979 set aside program," reports Harold Kalsness of the Pennington county ASC committee.

"We do not expect the deadline to be extended," he said, "and we hope every farmer in Pennington county is aware of the benefits available in the program."

Among the benefits cited are financial disaster protection in the event a farmer is not able to seed his crops this spring or if he has a low yield due to flood, draught, hail, etc. He is guaranteed target prices of $3.40 for wheat, $2.40 for barley and $2.20 for corn and will be entitled to a low interest loan on his harvested grain next fall.

"These benefits are at no cost to the producer," reports Kalsnes. "To be eligible, only two things are asked of the farmer: (1) His planted acreage must not exceed the established crop base for his farm, and (2) he must have the required set aside acres."

"Farmers who sign an intnetion to participate are free to change their minds at a later date. They are under no obligation to participate in the set aside program if conditions during seeding indicate to them they would be better off out of the program. There is no risk in signing now even if there is a chance that they will not comply with program requirements," Kalsnes said.

"The risk is in not signing at all by April 30. Those farmers who are not signed up by the cut off date will not be given another opportunity for participation in the 1979 program."

Pennington county ASCS office is located on Dale street in Thief River Falls. Office hours are 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Spring is a season of warm sunshine, fields of flowers, lingering twilight and gentle breezes. Spring is tender and romantic. It is a wonderful time to be alive.

This delightful season draws us like a magnet to the magic world of the great outdoors. Flowers begin to bloom in all their radiance, and birds sing once more. There's an assurance in the air itself of fresh, new hope.

Spring is also a time when we're more receptive to thoughts of the eternal mystery of life. It's a special time to marvel at God's supreme plan for each of us and for all of His creation.

This week discover a new sense of wonder of the divine power that sends us a bright, new spring year after year . . . in church.

Dust Makes The Difference

A microscopic speck of dust can make the difference between the success and failure of a system in space or on the ground.

That's what was learned during the space programs of the 1960s, and it's what spurred the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to develop its "clean room" concept, common in many industries today.

High technology firms like the Verbatim Corp., Sunnyvale, California, the largest manufacturer of digital, data-recording "mini-magnetic media," is particularly concerned about the importance of an absolutely dust-free environment in its manufacturing facilities.

One particle of dust on its magnetic disks, cassettes or cartridges can cause the loss or confusion of valuable data. That is why Verbatim builds each product in a clean room to avoid contaminants.

A white-robed semiconductor technician checks for that microscopic speck of dust that can make the difference between success and failure of a system.

Tax Decision Is A Hot Potato

Following editorial is from the Pope County Tribune:

Most state real estate taxpayers are probably somewhat puzzled by the impact of a decision by the Minnesota Tax Court made several weeks ago, a decision that could have a variety of effects on real estate tax bills.

The tax court overturned the concept of limited market value basically because it discriminates against new property and buildings.

Taxes are computed in a complicated manner but most taxpayers can get some idea of the effect by pulling out their tax statements and looking at the numbers in the upper right hand corner of the statement. There are three numbers, market value, limited market value and assessed value.

The market value, in theory at least, reflects the market value of the property and the assessed value is a percentage of market value (the percentage varies with the type of property). The limited value is less than the market value and represents attempts by the legislature to keep the rise in property taxes below the increasing value of property.

For example, a house with a market value of $25,000 may have a limited market of $15,000. The assessed value, upon which taxes are based, is derived from the limited value. That value is allowed to increase by a specific amount each year until it matches the market value. Rapidly increasing property values, however, have meant the two numbers are getting farther and farther apart.

The owner of a new home, however, by the act of his purchase, sets new market and limited market figures very close together. A new home (if one could still build one for this figure) could have a market of $25,000 and a limited market of $25,000 or slightly less. While the properties could be of equal value in the marketplace, the taxes on the newer home would be significantly higher because of the limited market value clause on the older home.

If the tax court ruling is allowed to stand it will not mean a windfall for taxing units; it will mean a shift in taxes between those now paying them. Taxes on older homes will go up some, taxes on newer homes will probably drop. Because of the larger number of older homes in our area, the effect might not be great.

The ruling might also mark a shift in urban and rural tax balances. Farm land in Pope county has risen in value faster than residential dwellings. A change to market value and an elimination of limited market value might mark a shift in tax burden to rural areas.

When the effects of the ruling become more widely known the legislature is likely to be besieged by taxpayers on a scale similar to that which led to drastic changes in school financing in 1971.

This is 1979, however, and the bailout in 1971, the income tax, is not available from a political standpoint. The trend is to reduce income taxes, not increase them.

The state no doubt hopes the decision will be overturned by a higher court; it would save everybody a lot of headaches. No doubt many property owners feel the same way, especially in our area.

But some solution has to be found for the original problem — that owners of newer homes and new owners of property pay more taxes in relation to market value than do owners of older homes of same market value. Failure to rectify that situation will make it even harder for people to build new homes, business and farm buildings. . .the very things that soften real estate tax burdens on existing property owners.

One way or another the ball will bounce back in to the hands of the legislature, but with taxes as sensitive a subject as they now are, the legislators are more likely to view the arrival as a hot potato, one so hot nobody will want to touch it.

One Woman's View

The following poem by Mrs. Ray Schneider of rural West Salem, Wis., appeared recently in the "Dairymen's Digest":

My Friends all think I'm crazy,
They simply cannot see
Why Women's Liberation
Doesn't mean a thing to me.

They say my innate talents
Are going down the drain
And being just a housewife
Is an insult to my brain!

They say my life is static
And I ought to break away—
Be involved with worthy projects,
Or get a job with pay.

They never stop to realize
I'm one of those who find
That managing a household
Ins't such an awful grind.

True, I never see a paycheck,
So I'll never get a raise—
Sometimes I go alone for days
Without a word of praise.

Yet I always have the feeling
That everything I do
Makes home a little nicer
For the folks I'm closest to.

And though it may sound corny,
I'm as happy as a clam—
Doing what comes naturally
And being what I am.

How Large Is Too Large?

Following editorial appreaed in "The Land", a farm-oriented newspaper published in sourthern Minnesota:

We worry about the family farm, despite the seemingly unruffled prosperity of this area. It's hardly a new concern, but it disturbs us that we are not coming up with new solutions.

Oh, we have the family farm corporation, but the farms, though family-oriented, grow larger and larger. We are fortunate in Minnesota to have a law to control outside investment in farmland, but elsewhere the family farm has not fared as well.

There is a question that goes unanswered. When is large too much?

Part of the reason for the expansion of farms has been efficiency, but can we continue to benefit from such practices?

The use of big machinery and modern farming practices has been a setback to soil conservation. Surely practices that could lead to the eventual loss of the very basis of our production are not supportable.

Growth has meant greater indebtedness. It is a worrisome burden to the family and pushes cost of production higher, giving the farmer less flexibility in a changing market.

Though he was denounced for his statement, what Bob Bergland said in Washington a few weeks ago it true — there is an element of greed in some of the expansion we see.

To what purpose?

That we push ourselves so near our limits that crops go unharvested when the weather does not cooperate?

That the price of land will continue its upward spiral so that we worry whether our own sons will have the opportunity to farm?

That our production becomes of shameful quality?

Farmers here pride themselves on a premium crop, but we have seen the quality of many types of products, including food items, decline under the duress of mass production. We lament because we can no longer find a "real" chicken at the supermarket.

For every farmer that can swing a loan to finance a land purchaase against his current holdings, there are more who cannot. We say that it's the poor managers that go out of business, but it's more than that, it's the fellows that never had a chance. Are we here to live out some sort of Darwinistic struggle that will leave the victors isolated in the lonely countryside without the services of a healthy rural community?

Do you realize what a rarity an independent operator has become? In the United States, only five per cent of the labor force is self-employed. Discounting the agricultural community leaves mighty few others to be making it on their own, and a goodly share of those are the small town businessmen that you support with your trade.

Our democracy was built on the incentive of the independent working man. What are we left with if we cease to have independent endeavor?

These dark thoughts rudely invade the placid whiteness of winter. We haven't done so badly here, have we? No, perhaps not. But we have only to look beyond the state line or beyond next year. We are changing, that is certain. The very landscape has been transformed in the past 20 years. Is our path so much different than that of the West and South where corporate agriculture has led to farming on an immense scale?

There's no looking back, no stopping, but we can break out own furrow. This is a long winter in which to consider the options for the family farm and there will be more days on the tractor seat come spring. We don't have an answer, but we believe answers exist. It will take the collective effort of all of us to come up with creative solutions.

Japan Protects Rare Species

Although the Japanese live on small and crowded islands they treasure the many natural beauties of their land. The Government carefully enforces the various laws designed to protect the environment. A recent survey reviewed the nation's natural assets; as a result some 20,000 cases (locations or species of animals) qualified for administrative protection. Among these are the Japanese cranes. This rare species inhabits the Kushiro District of Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost island. Nearly 300 of these unusual and beautiful birds live in the protected area.

World's Children Need Food To Survive

Children do not live by bread alone. But they cannot live without it.

According to United Nations' statistics, between 12 and 13 million men, women and children died last year because of malnutrition or related causes. Most of them were children. Hundreds of millions more survive on a near starvation diet, living out their lives in misery.

Food is only part of the solution. The people, these children especially, need pure water resources, health guards, education. Their parents need job opportunities, a chance to change the level of their lives and grow.

One humanitarian agency that is devoted full time to helping the poor and needy overseas is Catholic Relief Services. It is a completely voluntary American agency that works in 86 countries. Last year it touched the lives of an estimated 18 million men, women and children. In 1978 CRS supported more than 1,800 development projects to help people help themselves.

The hunger problem must be attacked on two levels. Catholic Relief Services must continue its immediate food assistance to prevent outright starvation. At the same time longer range efforts to get at the root causes of poverty have to be made so that people in the future can provide their own food and improve their lives independently.

This approach of Catholic Relief Services acknowledges the truth that man—children in a special way—cannot live by bread alone.

Catholic Relief Services needs your help. It depends on its annual appeal, made once a year in all the Catholic churches of the country, to provide a worldwide program of service and hope. You can share in this great humanitarian work by contributing to the 1979 Annual Appeal of Catholic Relief Services in your community or by sending your contribution directly to: Catholic Relief Services, 1011 First Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022.

News About Pain Relief

CARING FOR A CHILD'S FEVER

Fevers and colds are an inevitable part of childhood. While there is no way to avoid all fevers and colds, an ounce of prevention helps. Encourage your child to eat a balanced diet and get plenty of sleep. Outdoor exercise in warm, but not confining, clothing helps keep your child vigorous and healthy.

If your child does get a cold, with the accompanying runny, sniffling nose and fever and aches, proper care and some pampering should make the child well again in a few days. Keep your son or daughter resting and comfortable, and away from other children.

Take your child's temperature morning and evening, or more often if he or she seems particularly restless, uncomfortable or develops unexpected symptoms.

In bed, cover the child lightly—no covers or a single sheet is best. Don't bundle up the child even if he or she feels cool.

Give lots of cool, clear liquids. Popsicles, water, ice, sherbet and carbonated beverages are good. Milk may cause stomach upset.

Give medication to help bring the fever down. The two most commonly used fever reducers are aspirin and TYLENOL® acetaminophen. Both are equally effective in reducing fever and relieving pain. But, acetaminophen rarely upsets the stomach and does not build up in the body possibly causing problems the way aspirin can.

Call your doctor if the fever is high, if it persists, or if the child's symptoms suddenly change.

Cancer Answers

"Cancer Answers" is a weekly column sponsored by the Red River Valley Medical society, the Red River Valley unit of the American Cancer society, and the Thief River Falls Times. Questions may be mailed to the editor, Thief River Falls Times. All questions will be answered, and those of a general interest will be published in "Cancer Answers."

Dear Cancer Answers:

My husband has recently been treated for cancer. Now he refuses to eat anything cooked in our microwave oven because he thinks it might cause his cancer to come back. Is this possible? Do you have any information that might convince him that it is O.K. to eat food cooked in a microwave? Do microwave ovens have any harmful effects?

Mrs. T.

Dear Mrs. T.:

The term microwave describes a type of eletromagnetic radiation; that is, a wave of electric and magnetic energy moving through space. Microwaves are a different form of radiation than x-rays. They don't have as much energy as x-rays, and they don't have the same effects on the body.

Microwave energy simply cooks food by causing the water molecules in the food to vibrate and produce heat. It does not make the food radioactive or contaminated.

Much research is underway to determine the effects of microwaves on human health. However there is no reason to believe that microwaves are cancer causing.

Accidental exposure to high levels of microwaves could result in burns, cataracts, or temporary sterility but this would be at exposure levels much higher than users of microwave ovens might receive.

Since October, 1971, all microwave ovens have had to meet performance standards set by the food and drug administration. These regulations set strict limits regarding leakage and require ovens to be equipped with two independent interlock systems.

If you would like further information, please call the Minnesota Cancer Information Service to request the pamphlet, "We Want You to Know About Microwave Oven Radiation." The toll-free number is 1-800-582-5262.

Dear Cancer Answers:

My neighbor recently had a mastectomy for breast cancer. She has just begun chemotherapy, and she is on a protocol. Could you explain what a protocol is and how it works?

Elaine P.

Dear Elaine:

A protocol is a formalized study program which specifies the planned manner of study or method of treatment to be employed for the particular disease or problem under investigation. Specifically, it outlines the amounts of drugs to be given the patient, how they are to be given (whether orally, by injection, in an intravenous solution, or by some other means), at what time intervals they should be given and other treatment considerations to be employed. The protocol also includes a schedule of diagnostic tests necessary to monitor the patient's progress or response to treatment.

Doctors set up treatment protocols based on knowledge and experience gained during years of animal and human research studies. The program is designed to assure that the treatment will potentially destroy the most cancer possible with the least possible damage to normal body tissue.

Some protocols are for treatment methods which have been used in treating cancer for many years. Others are investigational trials of relatively new treatments which have proved effective against cancer in animal research. The doctor will make a decision as to what type of treatment is likely to work best according to each patient's individual cancer and stage of disease.

The physician will explain to the patient what is involved in the treatment protocol which has been chosen. In the case of an investigational protocol, the patient will be required to sign an informed consent form. Treatment will then being, adhering strictly to the rules of the protocol. If a particular treatment is not proving effective against the patient's cancer or seems to be cousing serious side effects, the doctor generally will stop that treatment and use other potentially effective treatment programs.

Dear Cancer Answers:

Is there any connection between aspirin and cancer?

Kathy

Dear Kathy:

According to current information, aspirin alone is not thought to be cancer causing.

Several years ago a drug mixture containing aspirin, caffeine, and a preparation called phenacetin (APC) was implicated as a cause of human cancer through some clinical studies performed in Switzerland and Scandinavia. However, after testing the mixture in animals, the National Cancer Institute recently reported that under their testing conditions there was insufficient evidence to indicate that this drug miscure was cancer causing in rats or mice. The review committee recommended that APC be considered for retesting.

APC, an abbreviation often used for mixtures of aspirin, phenacetin, and caffeine, is a nonprescription analgesic preparation sold for relief of headache, muscular aches and pains, arthritis, and other common afflictions.

Dear Cancer Answers:

I'm a sign painter and was wondering if any of the paints I use could cause cancer. Is there any information available about the agents in paint?

Steve

Dear Steve:

If you use paints containing hexavalent chromium, there are some potential health risks. These include ulceration of the skin, inflammation of the air passages, allergic reaction, and lung cancer.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) has issued a standard regulating toxic substances in the workplace which includes hexavalent chromium. If you work with chromate pigments and paints (particularly in lead or zinc chromate forms), it would be wise to limit your exposure.

For further information there is a pamphlet called "Health Hazards of Chromate Pigments and Paints: Hexavalent Chromium." It includes information about the effects of hexavalent chromium on the body, employer's responsibility, protective measures, worker rights and responsibilities as well as tables on "Color and Mixture of Some Well Known Chromate Pigments" and "Chromates Used in Commercial Application". Call or write the Minnesota Cancer Information Service for a copy of this pamphlet. 1-800-582-5262. MCIS, 2750 Park Avenue, Minneapolis, MN 55407.

EYEWEAR SHOULD FLATTER FACE, HAIR, EYES

The shape of eyewear frames should flatter your face. A square-shaped frame will enhance a round face, just as a round frame will tend to soften the appearance of a square face. Remember that similar shapes will emphasize each other.

Colored frames and lenses should be chosen carefully, since the wrong tones can make an otherwise attractive frame appear unflattering. For example, a darker bridge will make wide-set eyes appear close together, PPG says.

Experts at PPG Industries, manufacturer of CR-39 monomer used to make optical plastic lenses, advise that a clear bridge with darker colors at the outside edge of the frame will make close-set eyes appear farther apart. If your nose is long, choose a frame with a darker, thicker bridge to shorten the appearance of the nose.

The top line of the frame should follow the natural browline. Frames that extend above or below this line give an awkward appearance.

Plastic lenses made of CR-39 monomer are easily tinted to a wide variety of colors that can enhance appearance by flattering your complexion and hair coloring. A soft tint will help conceal a thick lens if your prescription is very strong, and also will help to hide dark circles or tiny lines around the eyes.

Today's large fashion frames are especially suited to optical plastic lenses, which are about half the weight of glass and tend to be more comfortable to the wearer. PPG experts say even though very large frames are currently in vogue, they should always be selected to suit a particular face. For example, a tiny face with delicate features can be overpowered by a super-large frame.

IT'S YOUR MONEY!

GOVERNMENT SPENDING MAY TRIGGER REVOLT

The American middle class could be "in danger of being taxed out of existence," says S.I. Hayakawa, Republican senator from California and former president of San Francisco State University.

In an article written for Commitment, a publication of Abbott Laboratories, Sen. Hayakawa declares:

"Working Americans, on the average, pay out more than half of their income in federal, state and local taxes. The tax bite goes up every year, but the number of people supported by government also increases yearly. When we reach the point where there are more people receiving government benefits than people paying taxes, we will have crippled the middle class."

This is why he welcomes "this kind of revolution (Proposition 13). It may be the only way to save the American middle class from extinction."

To prevent this from happening, he says, government spending and reliance on government must be reduced and the nation must "return to middle-class principles of self-reliance and individual responsibility."

Sen. Hayakawa emphasizes his support of the tax revolt doesn't mean he believes the U.S. should ignore the needs of society. But he poses the question: "How far can a society go in the redistribution of wealth without changing the very nature of that society?"

Senator S. I. Hayakawa

The only way to reverse the trend toward increased reliance on government, he believes, may be "a revolt by middle-class taxpayers and a return to the middle-class values upon which this country was built."

SIP ALONG WITH THE SUNBELT TRIO

While some prognosticators of political trends have observed that the balance of influence in this country is shifting to the Sunbelt, other observers of drinking patterns predict that liqueurs and cordials will become increasingly popular as the key ingredients in mixed drinks.

Pairing the two trends, the purveyors of BENEDICTINE D.O.M, one of the world's oldest and most celebrated liqueurs, have come up with a delicious trio of Sunbelt-style drinks called the Sundowner, the Spinnaker, and the Yellowjacket.

Of course, if you already live in those blessed states where the sun shines year-round, these delicious BENEDICTINE refreshers will be so much frosting on your cake. But geography aside, a sunny state of mind is psychological. So wherever you live, just mix a pitcher of orange juice, put up your feet, relax and sip along with the Sunbelt Trio.

SUNDOWNER—
1 ounce BENEDICTINE
1 ounce gold or white Puerto Rican rum
4 ounces orange juice

Shake ingredients together, and pour over ice to serve.

SPINNAKER—
1 ounce BENEDICTINE
1 ounce gin
4 ounces orange juice

Shake ingredients together, and pour over ice to serve.

YELLOWJACKET—
1 ounce BENEDICTINE
1 ounce vodka
4 ounces orange juice

Shake ingredients together, and pour over ice to serve.

Senate Agrees To Boost 'U' M Budget

University of Minnesota administrators emerged from allocations sessions with the Senate finance committee education subcommittee recently with considerable less than the $50 million in budget increases they sought for the 1979-81 biennium.

But they appeared jubilant because the Senate allocations of $25.5 million in budget increases were nearly $7 million over House allocations and $9.3 million above Gov. Albert H. Quie's budget recommendations for the University of Minnesota.

The Senate allocated about $7.5 million in funds that were not in the House appropriations while the House approved $600,000 for items that were not in the Senate proposals.

Differences between the House and Senate funding proposals will be negotiated in a conference committee made up of members of the money committees of both houses.

Both the House and Senate agreed on a number of major increases for the university. They included:

— $1.9 million for replacing a federal program in the school of dentistry;

—$1.15 million for women's intercollegiate athletics;

— a $939,000 library supplement to cover increasing costs of books and periodicals;

—$600,000 for restoring state funding for the Mineral Resources research center, and — More than $1 million for covering deficits in accounts for workers and unemployment compensation.

Workers and unemployment compensation account was a major item in the university's request which was not included in Quie's budget recommendations. Quie and former Gov. Rudy Perpich had told state agencies to absorb these costs and inflation-related price level increases for supplies and expenses.

The Senate, however, allocated $1.9 million of the requested $11.1 million to cover inflation-related price level increases, an item which was a high priority in the university's presentations to the two committees.

But the item was allocated by the Senate only after subcommittee chairman Roger Moe, DFL-Ada, told university vice president Stanley B. Kegler to give up something already allocated in its place.

Kegler responded that he and university president C. Peter Magrath had agreed to give up $1 million that had been allocated for building improvements and $900,000 in new positions for programs in professional schools, and sciences and liberal arts.

None of those items had been allocated by the House and, Kegler said, they had been discussed with members of the House education division.

"Those positions are very important to us," Kegler said. "But both of those items, we believe, you're going to have some difficulty in conferencing and we think this (inflation item) is something that everybody can understand."

The price level increase money will give the university administration flexibility to allocate funds to those programs that need them most, Kelger said.

A bonus that the university received from the Senate subcommittee was the authority to keep about $1 million in income that would be generated through operating expenses charged to federal grants. Currently, such funds are used to reduce the amount of the state appropriation.

Other major items on which the House and Senate disagree include the amount of money the university should receive for instructional equipment, the operation of space in new buildings and a program of tutoring minority and other disadvantaged students.

The Senate allocated the total $1 million that Quie recommended toward expansion of a program to help disadvantaged students who would otherwise drop out of the university before completing their degree programs.

Some $1.1 million separates the Senate and House subcommittees recommendations on the amount the university should receive to operate space in new buildings that will be opened during the next two years.

The Senate subcommittee allocated the university's full $2.4 million request while the House group funded $1.25 million and told university officials to find the rest of the operating funds by cutting other areas.

The subcommittee approved the university's requested $1 million for the replacement of deteriorating equipment, an item for which Quie had also recommended full funding. The House division, on the other hand, allowed $500,000.

The Senate also approved $1.2 million for new instructional equipment which the university had requested and Quie had not included in his budget. The House division allocated $450,000 for this request, which includes journalism computers, science and engineering laboratory equipment and equipment for music and art.

The Senate subcommittee allocated $507,000 more than the House division for agricultural research and extension and $344,000 more than the House for allowing some foreign students to pay resident tuition.

The Senate group funded more than its House counterpart for outstate university campuses. The amounts by which the Senate exceeded the House were: Duluth, $64,072; Morris, $68,000; Crookston, $60,700; and Waseca, $143,888.

The House division, on the other hand, funded $39,688 more than the Senate group for the expansion of the medical school on the Duluth campus. The House division funded a $220,108 increase for the Duluth medical school.

Both the House and Senate groups agreed with Quie's recommendation against the university's request of $851,314 for new administrators in the office of student financial aid. The funding committees suggested that any new positions be paid for out of existing student aid funds under the assumption that new federal and other state aid programs provide enough student aid.

The House division funded an increase of $300,000 for services for handicapped students while the Senate subcommittee funded the university's full request of $477,100, which had been recommended in Gov. Quie's budget.

Neither the House nor the Senate subcommittees has acted on proposed increases in faculty salaries and social security funds. With these items added, the university's requested increase for the 1979-81 biennium totals $100 million.

Pet Care Corner

A NEW PET FOR YOU?

POODLE

What do most kids want more than anything? A pet of their own. When you feel they are ready to care for a puppy or kitten, these pointers can make its arrival easier on you, and on your home.

A kitten will usually housebreak itself if you provide a litter box in a convenient place. But a puppy needs to be trained. This can help:

Hang a small bell from the front door and make sure the children jingle it every time they take the puppy out. He'll soon learn to jingle it himself when he needs to go out.

Most animals shed to some degree, so your children should be encouraged to brush often, especially if their pet has a long, profuse coat. Regular grooming eliminates some of the "fall-out" but even well-groomed pets shed. Another problem: animals pick up odors outdoors, retain them in their hair or fur and bring them inside. Carpeting attracts and holds them, along with stray hairs, dirt and traces of pet waste.

Now there is a way to solve this problem. Simply spray Lestoil Deodorizing Rug Shampoo all over your rug. When this unique deodorizing foam is dry — in as little as 15 minutes — just vacuum it up. Your rug is clean and odor-free, your whole room smells fresh. That's because Lestoil Deodorizing Rug Shampoo doesn't just mask odors. Its exclusive deodorizing system actually counteracts them, even in damp weather when smells are most obvious.

The Lestoil pet experts have an answer for another common problem. To teach a cat to scratch his post, not the furniture, place the post in the room where he sleeps. Cats tend to scratch most when they awaken from a nap.

With a little planning, and a can of Lestoil Deodorizing Rug Shampoo, you can keep your pets — and your kids — out of the doghouse!

Hints For Homeowners

SAVE ON FUEL

If heating bills are draining your budget, start plugging up your leaks now. Not only will it help you next winter, but it will save on air-conditioning costs during summer months as well.

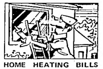
How much can you save? On heating bills alone, you may be able to save from 15 to 30 per cent just by weatherstripping and caulking windows. In fact, if every household were caulked and weatherstripped, the equivalent of 580,000 barrels of home heating fuel could be saved each winter day. Add that to what can be saved on air conditioning in the summer, and the yearly savings is staggering.

But there's nothing staggering about caulking. It's a relatively inexpensive procedure which even the unhandiest home handyman can do using a caulking gun loaded with a cartridge of sealant. To make sure you don't have to repeat the job in a few years, use the long-lasting silicone sealants.

Now there's a silicone rubber sealant that you can paint—keeping your house beautiful as well as energy efficient. This new silicone rubber sealant, developed by Dow Corning, will stay rubbery for 10 years or more and can be painted with any latex or oil-based paint to achieve a perfect and attractive match with the surrounding trim.

Combination screen and storm windows can also provide substantial energy savings. However, a sheet of clear plastic film, tightly taped to the inside of the frames, can be equally effective and considerably less expensive.

Drapes, shades and sliding screens also can help keep the heat and cold where you want them. Using both curtains and drapes is an efficient way to save energy costs because the air trapped between them is a very good insulator.



HOME HEATING BILLS CAN BE CUT by using weatherproof sealing around doors and windows.

On sunny winter days, you can help warm your house by keeping your shades and curtains open on the sunny side of the house to obtain as much solar radiation as possible. However, while lots of sun can warm a room considerably and reduce the demands on your heating system in the winter, that same sun in the summer can add to cooling costs. So summertime energy saving calls for keeping shades and curtains closed wherever the sun shines on windows to help keep things cool and comfortable.

The tricks are little, but more and more people are beginning to see that they can hold the line on rising energy costs with little sacrifice of personal comfort by using less energy more efficiently.

Great pigeongrass control and higher yields. That's what wheat growers who used STAMPEDE™ 3E herbicide in 1978 have to say about their experience. In addition, growers liked the fact that Stampede postemergence herbicide let them wait to see if they had a pigeongrass problem before investing in pigeongrass control.

So, if you find you have pigeongrass this spring join the satisfied users of Stampede 3E.

Check with your AGSCO, CENEX, or GRAND FORKS SEED dealer to see if Stampede herbicide is cleared for use in your state.

Stampede 3E is now available under Emergency Exemption (under the name Stam® F-34) for Pigeongrass Control in Hard Red Spring Wheat in some North Central States.

BOYS' STATE CANDIDATES and alternates from Goodridge and Thief River Falls were selected recently by a committee of American Legion post members, high school faculty and leading community citizens. Delegates to the 31st annual Boys' State program from Thief River Falls will be Mike Semanko, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Semanko, with Terry Drangstveit, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Drangstveit, chosen as the Goodridge delegate. Thief River Falls alternate for 1979 is Tom Bjorkman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Bjorkman, and Randy Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Duane Nelson, was selected as the alternate from Goodridge. The high school juniors are chosen on the basis of achievement for participation in the American Legion sponsored program. Terry Soine, Boys' State chairman for the local Ecklund-Holmstrom American Legion post 27, indicated that St. Olaf college campus in Northfield is the site for the Boys' State session to be held 10-16. Program objective is to give the delegates experience in the functions of city, county and state government.

Future Power Supply Is Concern For TRF Officials

Position of the city of Thief River Falls in regard to the marketing of power by the Western Area Power Administration (W.A.P.A.) after 1985 is the subject of a document being prepared by city officials for submission to the area W.A.P.A office in Billings, Montana.

Superintendent of utilities John T. Anderson, Mayor Bob Carlson and city clerk Jerry Wigness recently attended a meeting of W.A.P.A. customers at which future marketing of electrical energy was the major topic of discussion. At the close of the meeting customers were urged to review their particular needs and submit a position paper to the area office. A position statement drafted by Anderson for Thief River Falls will be discussed and finalized at an upcoming meeting of the city council.

Until October of 1977 all of Thief River Falls' power needs were supplied by the Missouri River Basin Power Systems through the bureau of reclamation. But in 1977 a limit was set on the amount of bureau power the city could purchase and since that time supplemental power has been purchased from Red Lake Electric cooperative through Minnkota power agency.

Thief River Falls is one of approximately 250 wholesale customers being supplied with power by the Missouri River Basin Power Systems which is now controlled by the Western Area Power Administration. Of the $104,000,000 worth of power generated by the eight hydro dams in the Missouri river system, 35 per cent goes to Minnesota, one of five states receiving power from the system.

The city's present contract with W.A.P.A. for firm load power will expire in 1985 along with the contracts of the majority of W.A.P.A.'s other customers. Therefore consideration is presently being given to how W.A.P.A. will market its electrical energy after the expiration of the contracts in 1985. Main considerations are market area, customers, type of products and marketing of future resources.

Alternatives in considering the market service area are to stay the same, expand or contract. Opinion the majority of present customers at the recent W.A.P.A. meeting expressed was that W.A.P.A. cannot supply the total energy needs of its customers in the existing market area and any expansion would merely spread the product thinner. However, contracting the service area was equally unappealing to those in attendance since it was felt that it would be impossible to exclude a present customer without causing some controversy. Users and W.A.P.A. officials generally seemed to favor keeping the market service area the same. Anderson's draft position stated this would be the "most logical solution and the easiest to administer."

In attendance at the W.A.P.A. meeting to request an increase in the number of customers served within the present marketing area were a number of representatives from communities not presently served. The communities, who turned down the bureau power when it was first offered, are within the geographical market area and would like to become firm power customers at some time in the future. Supplying service to those cities would involve approximately 50-megawatts of power.

However, Anderson's position, which is representative of the majority of present W.A.P.A. customers, is that the customer market should remain the same, again because W.A.P.A. is already unable to supply the total power need of its present customers. A possible exception to this restriction of service to existing customers mentioned in Anderson's draft paper is the supplying of power to some federally owned facilities such as the Grand Forks Air Force base.

After 1985 W.A.P.A. could market its power in four basic ways according to Anderson. The agency could market only peaking power. They could market peaking power and firm power. Power could be marketed on a loan pattern basis or on a restricted loan factor basis.

Thief River Falls is presently receiving both firm energy and peaking power from W.A.P.A. on a load pattern basis. According to 1978 figures supplied by the superintendent of utilities, Thief River Falls has an average load factor of 63.5 per cent, meaning that of a set kilowatt load which varies each month it utilized an average of 63.5 per cent of that power. The city had a high load factor of 73.5 per cent and a low of 54 per cent.

The load pattern for Thief River Falls on which power is supplied by W.A.P.A. was developed in 1977 when the agency felt a need to restrict power purchases of its customers and froze the supply level at what was used by the city at a specified time in 1977. Power needs beyond what is supplied by W.A.P.A. have been met by the purchase of supplemental power from Red Lake Electric.

Anderson indicates the city would like to continue to purchase power in the manner it is presently being supplied by W.A.P.A., however one of the four marketing methods being given serious consideration by W.A.P.A. is to supply power on a load pattern basis with a 62 per cent maximum load factor. With an average load factor of 63.5 per cent, it appears Thief River Falls would have to purchase additional energy if W.A.P.A. chose to market its power in this manner.

Additional resources, mainly peaking energy, could become available for market by W.A.P.A. through the addition of turbines to Canyon Ferry, Fort Peck, Garrison, Fort Randall and Yellowtail dams and through the use of a pumped storage technique. In pump storage off peak power is used to pump water from below a dam to a reservoir above the dam. The water is held there, and then released when it is needed to produce additional energy during a peak period.

In Thief River Falls' draft position Anderson voices strong support for the development of the dams and use of pumped storage to gain additional marketable power and expresses hope that the new resources will be marketed in a manner that would allow the city to purchase a fair share of them.

W.A.P.A.'s final plan for the marketing of its power after 1985 will be completed by July of 1980. Thief River Falls and the majority of W.A.P.A.'s other present customers are of the opinion that the present contracts should be extended until 1989 and that a study be undertaken to aid in decision making about the marketing of power after that date. This extension of present contracts would give W.A.P.A. ample time to plan future marketing and its customers sufficient time to secure an excess power contract.

Pennington In Top 15 For Oats Production

County statistics on Minnesota's 1978 oats production identify Blue Earth county as the champion in average yield and Otter Tail county as the champion in total production volume, it was announced recently by agriculture commissioner Mark W. Seetin. Pennington county ranked among the top 15 production counties.

Otter Tail county harvested over 6.9 million bushels of oats, almost 7 per cent of the state total, 98.82 million bushels. Otter Tail's volume was down by over 1.4 million bushels or 17 per cent below its 1977 production. State-wide oats production last year was down by 39 per cent.

Blue Earth county had the 1978 highest average yield, 75.3 bushels of oats harvested per acre. That was down by nearly 14 bushels from the state's record county yield of 89 bushels achieved in 1977 by both Blue Earth and Sibley counties.

Depressed grain market prices for oats, for the past two years at the lowest levels since 1972, made the farm value of the 1978 crop the lowest in six years. State-wide the 1978 oats crop, at $1.10 per bushel, was worth $108.7 million, for Otter Tail county less than $7.6 million, and the average per acre for Blue Earth county only $82.83.

Counties achieving the annual Minnesota department of agriculture "top 15" rankings for oats in 1978 are, in respective order:

Production: Otter Tail, Stearns, Roseau, Marshall, Douglas, Todd, Pope, Norman, Becker, Polk, Pennington, Fillmore, Morrison, Pipestone, Red Lake.

Average yield: Blue Earth, Martin, Jackson, Faribault, Roseau, Nicollet, Watonwan, Houston, Steele, Redwood, Freeborn, Cottonwood, Norman, Sibley, Dodge.

State DNR Chief Holmes Gives Views On Minnesota Wildlife Resources

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Protection of the resource is the number one goal of the Minnesota department of natural resources, according to Roger Holmes, chief of wildlife for the DNR. Holmes discussed the role of the department in a special Times interview while in Thief River Falls for one of a number of public meetings on hunting and trapping regulations recently.

"When you're in a regulatory agency and in the position of making decisions which control activities of the public, you're bound to aggravate some people," is Holmes' assessment of DNR's frequent position in the center of controversy.

"We are concerned with the management of our resources for the greatest use by the largest numbers of people — but always with the welfare of the resource in first position," he said. "We are charged with that responsibility by law, and it also is just plain common sense. Most people who are really concerned with the perpetuation of our wildlife resources are in substantial agreement."

Holmes said it is regard for the resource that has resulted in the controversial deer seasons of the past several years. High harvest figures, aggravated by severe winters with high natural mortality, had reduced the Minnesota whitetail deer herd well below the range carrying capacity. The seasons of the past several years were set to permit the maximum amount of hunting experience for outdoorsmen while limiting the number of deer taken to a more reasonable level.

"It is apparent from the meetings that we have held throughout the state that most hunters would like a shorter, any-sex deer season," Holmes said. "This corresponds with our expectations, but to follow the desires of the public totally in this case would be contrary to our role in preserving the resource. In the long run we feel that everyone will benefit."

Holmes noted that the department continues to support legislation which would assist land owners in helping wildlife through preservation and improvement of habitat and food plots. One bill being considered would provide for no taxes to be paid on wetlands held in private ownership and a tax credit of three-fourths of

NWRDC Water Committee To Meet In City

Water quality management committee of the Northwest regional development commission will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Thief River Falls to discuss, among other things, the Minnesota pollution control agency's proposed surface waters classification system.

The proposed system places the state's surface waters into four classifications—"A" (outstanding national resource waters), "B" (high resource value waters), "C" (intermediate resource value waters), and "D" (limited resource value waters). Portions of the Middle, Roseau, Wild Rice, all of the Red Lake rivers, Lake Bronson, Hayes lake and Lake of the Woods are proposed as class B waters.

No class A waters are proposed for northwestern Minnesota. All remaining waters in the area are proposed as class C waters.

According to Randall Johnson, coordinator of the NWRDC water quality management committee, "one of the purposes of the proposed classification system is to provide the state with more objective mechanism for the allocation of financial resources. Whether a decision regarding monitoring for water quality or implementation of best management practices, class B waters will be given priority over class C waters."

Johnson further explained "that classification as a 'B' water could lead to stricter management controls than for C or D waters as a result of the current statewide 208 water quality management planning effort."

In the case of the Red Lake river, Johnson indicated that "stricter point and non-point source pollution controls could potentially have an adverse impact on the economic development of the Northwestern part of the state as this river (Red Lake) passes through the region's three primary growth centers, not to mention the heart of the Red River Valley."

These concerns and others will be addressed by the WQM committee beginning at 8 p.m. May 2 at the Thief River Falls city auditorium building. Meeting is open to the public and interested persons are encouraged to attend. Persons desiring further information should contact Randall Johnson, at the NWRDC offices in Crookston (281-1396).

Stolaas Herd Top On DHIA Test For Feb.

Orlan Stolaas' dairy herd at Viking led the Pennington county dairy herd improvement association on average test for the month of February according to Jerry Hamre, supervisor. Stolaas' 37-member herd averaged 55.9 pounds of milk and 1.97 pounds of butterfat a day.

Second place herd in February was the Roy Nelson herd with an average of 54.4 pounds of milk and 1.96 pounds of butterfat. Other herds from the top ten were from the following farms with daily milk and butterfat production listed respectively: Ray & Roger Walter, 51.0 and 1.91; Marvin Koop, 50.9 and 1.83; Duane Krohn, 49.6 and 1.74; Myron Erickson, 49.3 and 1.95; Darrow Lundeen & Sons, 48.5 and 1.87; Robert Rausch, 47.9 and 1.69; Knute Nesland, 47.4 and 1.69; and Mylo Carlson, 45.8 and 1.81.

Hamre points out that herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd since the amount of milk or butterfat produced is averaged out over all the cows. This gives the farmer a record of his herd's earning power for the month. If many dry cows are included in the herd however, the average for the month may be low even if cows in production are high volume producers.

In February there are 28 DHIA herds on test and four o.s. Twenty-one cows completed records of over 600 pounds of butterfat in 305 days or less during the month including six cows from the Warren and Lowell Hamrick farm, five from the Gary Boughton farm, three from the Gene Nelson farm, two each from the Mylo Carlson and Duane Vatsaas farms and one each from the Chervestad, Roy Nelson and Duane Krohn farms.

You Can Earn More Now And Still Be Poor

Level of family income used to determine whether or not a person is poor has been raised an average of $460 by the U.S. department of labor to reflect increases in consumer prices over the past year.

The revised poverty-level guidelines for metropolitan area and farm families became effective April 1, based on the office of management and budget (OMB) recommendations.

The new income levels for nonfarm families living in the continental U.S. averages $460 higher than last year — for a farm family, $395 — reflecting the increase in living costs since the last criteria were set in April of 1978.

Income levels for families of one through six persons for the continental U.S. and the comparison table for 1978-79 are: in April of 1979, $3,400 for a nonfarm family of 1 and $2,910 for a farm family; $4,500 for a nonfarm family of 2 and $3,840 for a farm family; $5,600 for a nonfarm family of 3 and $4,770 for a farm; $6,700 for a nonfarm family of 4 and $5,700 for a farm; $7,800 for a nonfarm family of 5 and $6,630 for a farm and $8,900 for a nonfarm family of 6 and $7,560 for farm. In April of 1978 it was: $3,140 for a nonfarm family of 1 and $2,690 for a farm; $4,160 for a nonfarm family of 2 and $3,550 for a farm; $5,180 for a nonfarm family of 3 and $4,410 for a farm; $6,200 for a nonfarm family of 4 and $5,270 for a farm; $7,220 for a nonfarm family of 5 and $6,130 for a farm; and $8,240 for a nonfarm family of 6 and $6,990 for a farm.

Income limits for families of more than six persons may be determined by adding $1,100 and $930 respectively for the nonfarm and farm levels.

The limits will have limited application to federal, state and local employment and training programs under the comprehensive employment and training act (CETA). These levels will be modified by the bureau of labor statistics family income data for use by CETA administrators. The revised lower living standard income level will be issued for localities in a few weeks.

The eligibility requirements for CETA titles II B, II D, VII, and most programs funded under title IV, include the definition of "economically disadvantaged" containing provisions incorporating the income poverty levels and the lower living standard income levels.

The income guidelines or the lower living standard income level (whichever is higher) is to be used in determining income eligibility for CETA.

The labor department's employment and training administration (ETA) defines an economically disadvantaged person as one who is a member of a family that (1) receives cash welfare payments; or (2) has a family income that, in relation to family size and location, represents 70 per cent of the lower living income level issued by the department's bureau of labor statistics, or poverty levels established by the office of management and budget — whichever is higher.

Tax Relief Is Available For Flood Victims

Area residents with losses due to the flood may find immediate financial help by claiming a casualty loss on an amended 1978 tax return according to Gary Hoeft, district manager for H&R Block income tax preparation firm.

Persons living in the disaster area may immediately amend their 1978 income tax returns filed earlier this year to claim a casualty loss arising out of the disaster, Hoeft said.

However, two factors should affect a flood victim's decision whether to amend last year's return, or claim the loss on the 1979 return to be filed beginning January 1.

First, will the greater tax benefit be derived by taking the loss on last year's return or this year's?

Second, the tax picture should be compared with the need for immediate financial relief. If the immediate situation is critical, then a refund of last year's income tax would obviously be more favorable.

Additional information can be obtained without charge or obligation from any of the year-round H&R Block offices.

DNR Chief Gives View On State Wildlife

one per cent of the value of the land for wetland acreage. This bill is actively supported by the DNR.

The public is often critical of the department for its management of wildlife lands and Holmes admitted that much more can and should be done with such property.

"It's a matter of money to a large extent," he said. "We do have a program of share-cropping on our wildlife management areas with our share of the crop left as wildlife feed. More should be done along those lines.

"But I doubt that most people are aware of the development work that is being done throughout the state and just how costly that work is. We have a $3.9 million operating budget with about $300,000 spent for deer habitat work, $400,000 for waterfowl habitat improvement and $500,000 for betterment of wildlife areas. There is $80,000 available for work on private lands. A special Beltrami Island fund contains dedicated money for use in dozing, shearing and prescribed burning for habitat improvement. A controlled burn of several thousand acres in that area is projected for this year."

Holmes indicated that many people fail to take into account the size of the state and the magnitude of its wildlife programs when they complain about lack of habitat development. "Our people really get spread pretty thin and I think they do a great job with the money available to them. Your part of the state certainly gets its share of development funds."

The wildlife division chief said that the department is responsible for 45 different species of wildlife on which there are hunting or trapping seasons. Each must be considered separately as well as part of the total wildlife picture in the state.

"We depend heavily on our field personnel, both in the management and enforcement areas, to keep us informed of the conditions throughout the state. Regional meetings are held where our field personnel provide information and suggestions, and these are carried to state meetings where the information is taken into consideration before decisions are made."

Public meetings such as the current series held throughout the state have proved to be highly successful in the eyes of the department representatives.

"We have gone to hundreds of sportsmen club meetings in all parts of Minnesota over the years," Holmes said. "These meetings are probably a more efficient method of meeting and listening to the public and we have been impressed by intense interest generally shown by the people attending. We try to assess the motivation of people testifying at the meetings so that we can detect special interests. And frankly, we expected more hostility than we have encountered."

Holmes singled out northern Minnesota sportsmen and farmers for special praise in their response to the short feed supply for deer a year ago.

"They deserve a pat on the back for their actions," he said. "The response and cooperation was tremendous and we feel that they did a lot of good. Supplying and placing high quality hay where it was accessible under emergency conditions succeeded in turning the herd around from a starvation situation to survival."

While the department prefers having deer winter on natural browse and believes dozing trails and pushing down trees is important in that regard, it does acknowledge that hay feeding can be important in emergency situations.

"If people are to feed hay they should be consistent," Holmes said. "They should use high quality hay and should feed until the deer no longer require such help in the spring. To start feeding and then stop after deer have become dependent on it is worse than not feeding at all. Feeding also concentrates deer, adding to stress among the animals themselves and making them more susceptible to predators — including domestic dogs."

Holmes admitted that the department doesn't have all the answers when it comes to wildlife preservation and management. More dollars would help provide some answers and in some situations there will continue to be problems which have no solutions.

"We receive splendid cooperation from many land owners and we would hope to continue to work with these people for the good of the wildlife resource," he added.

Revenue Act Cuts Problems Of Home Sales

Age 55 or over and selling your home? Revenue act of 1978 has changed certain taxes on the gains from residential sales. The following questions and answers are provided by the Internal Revenue service to explain these changes:

Q—Is it true that I don't have to pay tax on up to $100,000 of gain on the sale of my home?

A—Yes. If you are at least 55 years of age you may exclude up to $100,000 ($50,000 in case of married filing separately) of gain on the sale of a principal residence after July 26, 1978.

Q—How long should I keep my home in order to qualify for this new exclusion?

A—To qualify, you must have owned and occupied the property as a principal residence for a total of three years out of the five year period immediately prior to the sale. However, a taxpayer age 65 or older who makes a sale or exchange before July 26, 1981 can elect to use a five out of eight year test.

Q—How many times can I take advantage of this exclusion?

A—Once. This tax break is a once in a lifetime exclusion.

Q—I am over 65 and on a prior year return I took the $35,000 exclusion on the sale of my home. Can I be eligible for the $100,000 exclusion?

A—Yes. The new law does away with the old law's exclusion of $35,000. However, those taxpayers who elected the $35,000 exclusion prior to the effective date of the new law may still elect the $100,000.

Q—I deferred the gain on the sale of a home by rolling over the proceeds into a new home. Due to employment reasons I sold and moved from this new home before I had lived there 18 months. Can I defer the gain on the sale of this home.

A—Yes. Under the new law, taxpayers will be able to defer the gain during the 18 month period of more than one sale provided the later sale was due to employment reasons.

Employment Is Up Again For Month Of Mar.

Employment continued to grow in March and unemployment was unchanged, the U.S. department of labor's bureau of labor statistics reported. The nation's overall unemployment rate was 5.7 per cent; it has been in the 5.7 to 5.9 per cent range for the past eight months.

Since March of last year, the number of jobless persons has declined by more than 300,000, and the unemployment rate has fallen by one-half of a percentage point.

Total employment — as measured by the monthly survey of households — rose by about 200,000 in March to 96.8 million. Over the past year, total employment has grown by 3.5 million.

Nonfarm payroll employment — as measured by the monthly survey of establishments — rose by 325,000 over the month to 88.2 million. Non farm payroll jobs have advanced by 3.3 million since March of 1978.

Both the number of unemployed, 5.9 million, and the unemployment rate, 5.7 per cent, remained at or near the levels which have been in evidence since August of 1978. Consistent with the overall rate, there was little or no over-the-month change in the jobless rates for adult men (4.0 per cent), adult women (5.7 per cent), or teenagers (15.5 per cent), nor have there been any significant movements in these rates since last August.

Total employment increased by nearly 200,000 in March, after registering strong gains in both January (460,000) and February (345,000). The employment-population ratio was unchanged at February's record level of 59.4 per cent. Most of the February-to-March increase occurred among adult women. Since March of 1978, employment has risen by 3.5 million and adult women have accounted for half of this gain.

The civilian labor force grew by 190,000 over the month to 102.7 million, 3.2 million higher than in March 1978. At 63.9 per cent, the civilian labor force participation rate was unchanged from February but was one full percentage point above its year-ago level.

Grain Stored In State Up From Last Year

Minnesota had 904.5 million bushels of corn, wheat, oats, soybeans, barley, flaxseed, and rye on hand April 1, according to the April 1 grain stocks report just released by the Minnesota crop and livestock reporting service. Total stocks were 15 per cent above the 786.2 million bushels on hand April 1, 1978.

April 1 stocks of corn were record high. Barley and rye in all storage positions were also above year-earlier levels but holdings of soybeans, oats, wheat and flaxseed were down. Farm storage of these crops rose 23 per cent agove last year to 683.8 million bushels and represented 76 per cent of the total stocks versus 71 per cent a year ago. Off-farm storage at 220.7 million bushels was down four per cent from the previous year.

Minnesota corn holdings of 571.1 million bushels were 34 percent above the previous April 1 record of 427.2 million bushels last year. The record high farm storage of 457.1 million bushels was 44 per cent above last year and topped the previous record set in 1972. Farm storage accounted for 80 per cent of the corn holdings compared with 74 per cent a year earlier. Off-farm stocks were up four per cent from a year earlier and the highest since 1962.

Wheat stocks of 104.5 million bushels fell 19 per cent below last year. Farm stocks at 72.7 million bushels were down 12 per cent and accounted for 70 per cent of the total versus last year's 65 per cent. Off-farm inventories were down 30 per cent.

Minnesota's oat stocks dropped nine per cent from a year ago. Farm stocks fell 17 per cent but off-farm holdings gained 34 per cent. Seventy-six per cent of the 89.1 million bushels were stored on farms compared with 84 per cent a year earlier.

Barley stocks of 51.7 million bushels were at their highest April 1 level since 1972 and topped last year by 17 per cent. Farm holdings rose 29 per cent over last year and were just fractionally below the record high April 1 holdings set in 1969. Growers are holding more barley, with farm storage repreeenting 67 per cent of total stocks compared with 61 per cent a year ago. Off-farm inventories were at their lowest levels since 1958.

April 1 flaxseed holdings of 2.7 millionbushels were 10 per cent below last year. Off-farm inventories slipped only two per cent but farm stocks were down 34 per cent. Farm storage comprised only 18 per cent of the total compared with 25 per cent a year ago.

Rye stocks gained 84 per cent from last year. Farm storage accounted for 35 per cent of the 2.4 million bushels on hand compared with 23 per cent a year ago. Farm stocks nearly tripled from last year's level while off-farm holdings were up 55 per cent.

Crop residue left on the soil surface will reduce wind erosion.

Rep. Anderson Favors Wetland Tax Credit Law

Last Friday the House tax committee passed a bill that would grant a wetlands property tax credit to any owner of wetlands during the year for which he applies for the credit, according to Rep. Irv Anderson of International Falls.

Local units of government would be reimbursed from the state general fund for taxes lost by the exemption of privately-owned wetlands from property taxes, he said.

"The purpose fo the bill is to preserve Minnesota's wetlands," Anderson added. "Wetlands are a prime nesting grounds for waterfowl and many other species. Their protection will help to ensure a healthy duck population and to maintain a stable ecological community."

The bill limits the credit to lands with the following characteristics:

(1) Land which is mostly under water;
(2) Land which produces little if any income;
(3) Land which is preserved in its natural condition;
(4) Land on which drainage is lawful, feasible and practical to provide land for agricultural uses; and
(5) Land which is adjacent to wetlands but not suitable for agricultural purposes due to the presence of wetlands.

The amount of "wetlands credit" for each qualifying acre preserved will be the average level of estimated market value of tillable land in the township of the qualifying wetland, Rep. Anderson noted.

"Independent consultations with personnel of the Minnesota department of natural resources, U.S.D.A. soil conservation service, and the bureau of fish and wildlife suggest that no more than 500,000 acres of privately-owned wetlands could possibly be eligible for this project. The heaviest potential for usage of the wetlands could possibly be eligible for this project. The heaviest potential for usage of the wetlands credit would be in the prairie pothold region of west central Minnesota," he said.

"The bill will be heard in the House appropriations committee. I am hopeful that the bill will be enacted into law so our state's valuable waterfowl habitat will be protected."

Fisher Man Is Selected To Go On Russia Tour

Minnesota wheat council member Ed Ross, Fisher, MN., has been selected to represent spring wheat during an inspection tour of Russia's principal wheat producing areas, according to an announcement by Terry Fladeland, council producer-chairman.

Ross, outstanding farmer and business executive in the Crookston-Fisher area, also represents the wheat council on the Great Plains Wheat, Inc., board of directors. GPW is an overseas market development organization headquartered in Washington, D.C.

Other members of the inspection team include Larry Panasuk, who will represent foreign agriculture service of USDA, Washington, and Bill Drummond, area extension agent, Jamestown, North Dakota.

This is the first time a Minnesotan has been selected for an assignment of this calibre.

The inspection session starts July 13 with a briefing in Washington, D.C., and will conclude with a debriefing in Washington August 7. The purpose of the trip is to estimate the 1979 spring wheat crop in Russia.

In Russia, the group will travel about 5,000 miles, accompanied by officials of the U.S. Embassy in Moscow and a Russian interpreter.

Everett Shoemaker, ASCS office manager for West Polk county, reports that Ross has been a participant in the large area crop inventory experiment (LACIE) for a number of years.

The team was put together by Donald J. Novotny, acting director, grain and feed division, FAS, who wrote Jerry Rees, executive vice president of the national association of wheat growers: "Your willingness to coordinate the development of the nominees for the 1979 team is appreciated." The Minnesota association of wheat growers contracts with NAWG and worked closely with Rees in the selection of Ross.

"This is further recognition of the activities of the Minnesota wheat council," Fladeland said.

TRF Lands Section 8 Tournament

Thief River Falls sports arena was selected Wednesday by the Region 8 committee meeting in Detroit Lakes as site of the 1980 Section 8 high school hockey tournament.

Quarterfinal games will be played here Fri., Feb. 29, and Sat., March 1. Single semifinal games will be played Mon., March 3, and Tues., March 4, with the championship game planned Fri., March 7.

First two rounds of post-season play will follow this year's pattern that featured the fifth through 16th place regular season Section 8 standings finishers squaring off through sub section competition at the site of the higher percentage team. The four survivors will join the top four regular season finishers who will be seeded into the Section 8 tournament.

It'll be the seventh Section 8 or Region 8 tournament hosted by Thief River Falls since the sports arena was completed in 1970. Previous tournaments were played here in 1971-72-73-74-75 and 1978.

East Grand Forks hosted the prestigious event in 1976, 1977 and 1979. However, East Grand Forks officials were not present at Wednesday's meeting.

Dave Harris of Alexandria, executive secretary-treasurer of Region 8AA, reported that income from revenue-raising activities on the regional level was down about $10,000 from last year's figures at the present time. A large share of that total (about $5,000) is traced to hockey, and inclement weather is blamed for the poorer attendance at the 1979 Section 8 tournament held in East Grand Forks, compared to the 1978 attendance in Thief River Falls.

With hockey followers already tabbing Thief River Falls as the 1979-80 favorite in Section 8, there's little doubt the sports arena's approximately 3,000 seating capacity will be taxed at tournament time.

Prowlers, Jury Ranked In Tennis

First state-wide ranking of Minnesota high school tennis teams and players of the 1979 season announced last week spotted Thief River Falls No. 4 in the Class AA team ratings and placed the Prowlers' Bill Jury No. 5 in the Class AA individual listing.

Edina East led the top 12 Class AA team rankings, followed by Minnetonka, Edina West, Thief River Falls, Northfield, Alexander Ramsey, Hibbing, Armstrong, Virginia, Minneapolis Roosevelt, Austin and Waseca.

St. Cloud Tech tennis coach Bill Ritchie is conducting the polls this spring that are based upon advice from coaches throughout the state who vote for players or teams they encounter during the season. Only two or three votes are announced each spring.

Curiously, Ritchie's St. Cloud Tech team, expected to offer Thief River Falls' it most serious challenge in post-season Region 8AA competition, is not listed in the rankings. The Prowlers will have a chance to look at the Tigers Saturday when both teams will be involved in the eight-team St. Cloud invitational tournament.

Staples, scheduled to be here, along with Roseau, for a triangular meet Tuesday beginning at 2 p.m., is rated No. 2 in Class A, trailing only a powerhouse Blue Earth team. The Cardinals' Tom Easthouse, a senior, is rated No. 5 in the Class A individual listing.

Tuesday's number one singles encounters between Jury, Easthouse and Roseau's Andy Odegaard could produce some fine tennis.

Larry Peterson Resigns At Roseau

Larry Peterson, a 1967 Lincoln high school graduate, has resigned as head basketball coach at Roseau to accept a similar position at Appleton, it was announced Thursday by Roseau high school athletic director A. J. Kramer.

Peterson fashioned an impressive 70-39 record in his five years as head coach of the Rams, capped by an outstanding 16-2 regular season record last year — best in the school's history.

Roseau basketball teams are 35-8 over the past two years when Peterson's Rams spoiled Thief River Falls' season openers 69-62 here in 1977-78 and 58-57 at Roseau in 1978-79.

Appleton is a Region 3A school of 258 students in southwestern Minnesota.

Miscellaneous

+While Northland community college was trying to open its weather-delayed 12-game 1979 baseball season Saturday, Palm Beach (Fla.) junior college carried the No. 1 ranking in NJCAA baseball with a 46-8 record — as of April 11.

+Steve Brekke, who scored 1,032 points while playing high school basketball at Strandquist and Warren, has indicated he will attend Bemidji State University. "We're extremely pleased to hear that a well-rounded player like Steve is going to attend Bemidji State," said BSU coach Dave Hutchins. "He has all the ability and physical assets to figure into Bemidji State's basketball plans." Brekke and Thief River Falls' Steve Enderlein, who is going to attend the University of Minnesota-Duluth, were considered the top area recruits for Northland community college basketball coach Chet Engelman.

Prowlers Sweep Tennis Opponents During Week

It was a good week for the Lincoln high school tennis team. The highly regarded Prowlers blanked Moorhead 5-0 Wednesday, handled Crookston 4-1 Thursday and shut out Little Falls 5-0 Friday to hike their dual meet record to 4-0.

Leading the way for the Prowlers was the number one doubles combination of Bill Machalek and Tom Bjorkman. Like nearly everybody else they were unbeaten during the week, and they did it in impressive fashion.

"I thought first doubles, except for a few spots, played well," confirmed Thief River Falls coach Whitey Olson. "They're starting to play better together. Personality-wise they get along well on the court."

Michalek, the only senior on the team and the Prowlers' captain, and Bjorkman, a junior, have been playing together since April 10 when they were the only losers in a 4-1 victory over Crookston. They've showed steady improvement since then. They brushed off Dave Kreps and Bart Kosen of Moorhead, Kelly Brown and Paul Sullivan of Crookston and Mike Tilleman and Chip Zyvolosky of Little Falls in straight sets.

"They've been improving," acknowledged Olson. "It takes a little while. The key to doubles is total concentration, and thats why they've been successful."

Junior Bill Jury, the Prowlers' number one singles performer, did not play Friday against Little Falls because of a sore arm. Although the problem isn't considered serious, he's not expected to be in the line-up today (Monday) when the Prowlers play at Detroit Lakes. However, he will probably play Tuesday when the Prowlers host Staples and Roseau in a 2 p.m. triangular. The Northwest Athletic Conference meet is scheduled Thursday at East Grand Forks and the busy week concludes with an eight-team tournament at St. Cloud Saturday.

Olson doesn't mind the hectic pace. "At this point we need court time, and we're getting it. And what we also need is hot weather to get in good shape." That's something he hasn't had to date.

In Jury's absence, Mitch Rustad and Bill Holmes moved up the singles ladder, with junior Chris Simons making his 1979 debut at third singles against Little Falls. He was a 6-3, 6-2 winner over Darrel Gohl to continue a perfect week for Thief River Falls singles players.

Little Falls followed a pattern used by several teams this spring to avoid the Prowlers' obvious strength in singles by using its top two players at number one doubles. However, as opponents are finding out, that strategy isn't producing many points, and in fact, Olson says those maneuvers "Have really helped" to speed the development of Michalek and Bjorkman.

PLAYING SECOND singles, Thief River Falls' Mitch Rustad was a 6-2, 6-0 winner over Crookston's Jeff Melsa during a dual high school tennis meet Thursday in Thief River Falls. The Prowlers beat the Pirates 4-1.

Deadline For Moose Permits Is June 15

Minnesotan's who would like to apply for the moose hunt this fall have until June 15 to get their applications mailed to the Department of Natural Resources.

Charles Burrows, director of the division of fish and wildlife, said application blanks and instructions will be available May 1 from county auditor's offices and from most license agents. Applicants must be Minnesota residents.

Applications can also be obtained from the department's license center at 625 North Robert street, St. Paul and from the main headquarters of the NDR in the Centennial building. Other sources include area field offices of the DNR's enforcement and wildlife branches, the six department regional headquarters located in Brainerd, Bemidji, Grand Rapids, New Ulm, Rochester and St. Paul (fish hatchery, 1200 Warner road).

Burrows said the instructions for application must be read carefully since improperly completed forms will have to be rejected without notice.

He said particular attention should be given to the various opening dates and the special restrictions that apply in four boundary waters canoe area (BWCA) hunt zones and Agassiz national wildlife refuge.

He also emphasized that persons who were issued hunting licenses for either the 1975 or 1977 moose seasons are not eligible to apply this year, but hunters from earlier seasons are eligible.

He warned that a person may make only one application for a moose permit. Those who submit more than one application will have their names thrown out of the drawing along with the names of the other members of the hunting parties who applied with them.

As in the previous four moose hunting seasons, applications must be made in parties of four. A total of 685 hunting parties will be selected at random by computer. Since each hunting party comprises four persons, 2,740 hunters will be able to participate in the season.

Burrows said the license fee is $100 per party of four.

By law, 20 per cent of the permits will be allotted to owners or operators on agricultural or grazing lands in the northwestern moose hunting zones.

Darkness Interrupts Doubleheader . . .

Rams, Walks Beat TRF 9-7 In Baseball Opener

Lame duck Lincoln high school baseball team began its 27th and final season Thursday with a pair of losses at Badger. The Prowlers lost the first game of a scheduled split doubleheader to Roseau 9-7 and then lost the nightcap against Warroad to darkness.

Thief River Falls battled back from what had been a 7-2 deficit with a four-run fifth inning that produced a temporary 7-7 tie. However, the Rams, beaten 6-0 on a one-hit, 14-strike-out pitching performance by Bemidji's John Noga earlier in the week, came up with single runs in the bottom of the fith and sixth innings for the victory.

"For being outside for the first time I'm not too disappointed," commented Thief River Falls coach Charlie Cornell. "Defensively we played well — only one error."

Thief River Falls started with a 2-0 lead when back-to-back game-opening errors on balls hit by Jeff Ulrich and Paul Drees were followed by walks issued to Jeff Kosel and Murray Dicken for one run, and an infield out produced the second run.

Roseau tied it in the second inning when the Rams were issued four of their 13 walks and Branden Shank stroked an RBI single.

A parade of 11 Roseau batters in the third inning broke the game open as the Rams combined five hits and three walks for five runs. One-out back-to-back doubles by Lonnie Vatnsdal and Chip Ammerman started things and a two-out-two-run single by Aaron Broten capped the uprising.

A bases loaded passed ball provided Thief River Falls with a run in the fourth. The Prowlers' fifth featured a two-run triple by Dicken that was followed by a triple by Scott Sabo who then scored on a suicide squeeze bunt by Scott Langlie to tie the game at 7-7.

Thief River Falls' only error led to Roseau's go-ahead run in the bottom of the fifth, scored on a double by Joe Magnusson. A lead-off walk and consecutive singles by Sank and Craig Vacura gave the Rams an insurance run in the sixth.

Ammerman checked the Prowlers on just three hits, but struggled with eight walks. Langlie, the third Thief River Falls pitcher, was saddled with the loss. A makeshift mound played a big role in the game's 21 walks, pointed out Cornell.

Thief River Falls led Warraod 6-2 after four innings when the second game was called because of darkness — short of the required 4½ innings needed for a complete game. Sabo and Dave Odegaard homered against the Warriors.

Northwest Athletic Conference and Region 8AA Sub Region 4 opponents await the Prowlers this week.

HALF OF Thief River Falls' number one doubles team, Bill Michalek played at the net here during Thursday's high school tennis match against Crookston on the Northland community college courts. Lincoln Golf Team Opens Season At Fergus Falls Saved from the budget cut chopping block, the Lincoln high school golf team tackles the 1979 season with a line-up centered around senior Charlie Boyer and juniors Wade Hoppe, Bob Fitzgerald and Dave Geatz.

"We should hold our own this year," mentioned Thief River Falls coach Jack Boyer. "I look to have a good season. We'll—be scraping for the prizes."

In Charlie Boyer, Hoppe, Fitzgerald and Geatz, Jack Boyer has the makings of a strong golf team. However, they'll have to be complemented by another golfer or two to make the Prowlers a solid contender in the team standings. Top Prospects for those spots are Tony Loeffler, Tim Imgrund, Jeff Imgrund, Mark Isaacson, Jim Hellie and Jon Onkka.

Thief River Falls opened its 1979 season Saturday by participating in the 16th Otter invitational at Fergus Falls. The Prowlers placed fourth in the 21-team event won by Detroit Lakes with a 310, followed by Fergus Falls 318, Alexandria 322 and Thief River Falls 324.

Rest of the finishers included Fargo South with a 328, Crookston 332, Bemidji and Mahnomen 335, Fosston 329, Ada and Little Falls 337, Fargo North 338, Perham 339, Fargo Shanley and Moorhead 348, Bagley 349, Wahpeton 350, Park Rapids 353, Barnesville 372 and Pelican Rapids 379.

Mark Erickson of Ada shot a 74 for medalist honors, one stroke ahead of Scott Steinbach of Bagley.

Thief River Falls scores included Geatz with a 79, Hoppe and Fitzgerald 81, Boyer 83 and Tim Imgrund 85.

"We're going to have problems all the way through," admitted Jack Boyer as he looked ahead at the schedule. "If we count five (scores) we'll be right in there. If we count three, we'll be in trouble," he said, hoping the Prowlers' depth will carry them past top area competition like Bemidji, Moorhead, Detroit Lakes, Brainerd, Crookston, Fergus Falls and Fosston.

Jack Boyer says one of the biggest problems the Prowlers must overcome is their own tendency to over swing. "You don't have to knock it 300 yards," he explained. "If you keep it on the fairway, it's all chipping and putting; that's the name of the game. There's no trouble for the kids to get into on our course, so we get the kids with the wild swings. If we had a few trees for them to work around we could be pretty darn tough year in and year out."

Thief River Falls' nine regular season invitational meet outings will conclude with the Prowlers' own invitational Mon., May 21. The Region 8AA meet will be staged Wed., May 23, at Park Rapids.

TRYING TO put away a point against Crookston Thursday afternoon, Thief River Falls' Tom Bjorkman, paired with Bill Michalek at number one doubles, sent the shot back into the net on the Northland community college courts. For the most part, though, Bjorkman and Michalek were most impressive in beating Kelly Brown and Paul Sullivan 6-2, 6-4. The Prowlers beat the Pirates 4-1.

Northmen Lose Twice In Season-Opening Twinbill

Northwest Division favorite Brainerd had its hands full in a 5-1 first game victory but breezed to an easy 12-2 second game triumph in handing Northland community college a season-opening doubleheader loss Saturday in MJCAA baseball action at Brainerd.

Northland coach Chet Engelman wasn't discouraged by the losses in Northland's first venture outdoors this spring. "I feel, all in all, it was a decent day," noted Engelman. "We played quite well in the first game; we didn't make many mistakes at all. The second game wasn't so good; errors hurt us there."

Cooperation is needed from the weatherman, but Northland is scheduled to open the home portion of its brief 12-game 1979 season Tuesday with a 12 noon doubleheader against Fergus Falls on the new Northland diamond located behind the school.

Brainerd 5
Northland 1

Held to just two hits by Northland pitcher Mike Carriere through four innings, Brainerd opened the fifth with three consecutive hits to load the bases and went on to score four runs that produced a 5-1 opening game triumph.

It was the 7-8-9 batters in the Brainerd order that did the damage in the fifth as Mark Grater dropped a bloop single into left-center field; Bob Gessell put down a perfect bunt for a base hit; and Bob Nurnberger's short fly ball to center fell in for a single. Steve Mans then drew a run-producing walk from Carriere and Mark Garrison followed with a bases-clearing triple.

But even that fifth inning had its bright spots for Northland when centerfielder Brad Kosel cut down Garrison trying to score on a fly ball single by University of North Dakota transfer Tony Veith, a play that was followed by an inning-ending double play.

Northland scored in the sixth when Lyle Johnson and Doug Engelman singled, Bruce Williams reached base on a fielder's choice and Kosel singled down the left field line for the run.

Brainerd matched that run in the bottom of the inning with back-to-back one-out walks and an RBI double by Gessell.

Brainerd 12
Northland 2

After playing error-free ball in the opener, Northland's revamped second game line-up was charged with six errors in a 12-2 five-inning loss.

Two first inning Northland errors produced three unearned Brainerd runs.

The Red Raiders then struck for five runs on five hits in the third, highlighted by Mark Grater's two-run double.

It officially began a rout in the fourth when Brainerd scored four more unearned runs after a two-out Northland error.

Northland collected single runs in the fourth and fifth innings. In the fourth, Brad Kosel singled, stole second and scored on a base hit by Mark Thorstad. Lyle Johnson tripled over the centerfielder's head in the fifth, then scored on a sacrifice fly to deep center by Vince Parker.

A FORMER Middle River resident, Del Canty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Canty of Thief River Falls, caught this Utah state record 26-pound, 2-ounce rainbow trout recently at Flaming Gorge reservoir. Canty, now living in Leadvelle, Colo., is a familiar figure when it comes to big trout. He is considered to be one of the best lake fisherman with a fly rod, and was recently featured in a major article in "Outdoor Life" magazine. He uses a float tube, usually fishing in the evening, although he caught his mammoth record rainbow at 3 p.m.

NWAC, Quent Jones Track Meets Slated This Week

Two feature meets await the Lincoln high school track team this week. The Prowlers will compete in the Northwest Athletic Conference outdoor Tuesday at 2 p.m. at Fergus Falls and will stage their own Quentin Jones invitational Thursday beginning at 4.

Thief River Falls' weather-delayed 1979 outdoor season got underway Thursday when the Prowlers participated in a seven-team invitational meet at Roseau. Crookston edged Thief River Falls 103-96 for first place, followed by Warroad with 80 points, Roseau 79, Hallock 42, Karlstad 32 and Marshall County Central 1.

A one-two finish in the mile run highlighted the Thief River Falls performance as freshman Bruce Johnson ran the race in five minutes to edge senior Greg Ness who was a breath behind at 5:00.5.

Thief River Falls also came up with a victory in the 400-meter dash where Tom Brosseau ran a 55.1 and the Prowlers won the sprint medley relay when Tom Ose, Brian Culkins, Brosseau and Mark Larson ran a 3:53.8.

Seconds came from Jeff Osied who shared the runner-up spot in the high jump with a 5-8 effort and from the 440-yard relay team of Jim Thompson, Ose, Culkins and Jim Shirley in 48.23.

That 440 relay team was headed for a win when Shirley, the team's top sprinter, pulled a muscle on the anchor leg. He had a 10-yard lead with 10 yards remaining when the injry struck. He hobbled across the finish line just a shade behind a Crookston winner.

"I would have been very, very happy with the results if Shirley wouldn't have gotten hurt," noted Thief River Falls coach John John Kopari. "That kind of put a damper on the whole thing."

Thief River Falls received third place finishes from Oseid in the high jump, Shirley in the 100, Larson in the two-mile and the mile relay team of Osied, Johnson, Ness and Brosseau.

Fourths came from Thompson in the high hurdles and Brian Kjos in the two-mile.

Lincoln Girls End Schedule Drought

Lincoln high school girls track team, idle since participating in a season-opening indoor meet at Crookston back on April 2, ventured outside for the first time Thursday in a triangular at Bagley.

Park Rapids was an easy winner with 71 points, followed by Bagley with 50½ and Thief River Falls 34.

"Park Rapids is really tough," pointed out first-year Thief River Falls chach Tom Schafer. "They're ahead of everybody in everything."

Junior Connie Hedlund paced Thief River Falls with a pair of wins, running a 16.9 in the 110-yard hurdles and going 15-1¾ in the long jump.

Hedlund and Brenda Lund gave Thief River Falls a one-two finish in the long jump as Lund went 14-10. Lund also placed third in the high jump with a 4-5 effort.

Carla Nelson also had a second place finish for the Prowlers with a 28.0 in the 220-yard dahs.

Stacy Ehrenstrom earned a pair of thirds in the field events with an 83-7 effort in the discus and a 31-3 performance in the shot put.

Julie Easton ran a third place 13:29 two-mile and Lori Swanson ran a fourth place 6:21 mile to complete the Thief River Falls scoring.

"I was pretty happy considering it was the first time we've been on a track," mentioned Schafer.

Thief River Falls, weathered out of its scheduled home opener Tuesday against Lake of the Woods and McIntosh-Winger, will compete at Mahnomen Thursday at 4:30 p.m. The Prowlers will state their annual Thief River Falls invitational Tues., May 8, beginning at 4 p.m.

Sheets vs. Sabo . . .

Spuds Win 3-0 Pitching Duel

Pitchers Chad Sheets of Moorhead and Scott Sabo of Thief River Falls controlled the play Saturday as the Spuds beat the Prowlers 3-0 in a 10 a.m. high school baseball game played at Moorhead.

Sheets shut out Thief River Falls on three hits, striking out 12 and walking five. Sabo was equally effective as he scattered five hits, struck out 13 and walked six. Three of the Spuds' hits were of the infield variety and only one was what you would call "well-hit."

"Sabo pitched a helluva game," said Thief River Falls coach Charlie Cornell. "His curve ball was his best pitch, but he mixed them up well. He had Moorhead looking for the curve and then he would fire one past them."

Moorhead struck for two runs in the bottom of the first inning, thanks largely to four stolen bases and a two-out, two-run opposite field bloop double by Sheets.

The game's only other run crossed the plate in the fifth when Bucky Hajostek reached base on an infield single, came up with the Spuds' seventh stolen base of the game and scored when Dorsey finally tagged a Sabo pitch for a two-out, RBI single.

"It was a good ball game," explained Cornell. "We could have won it a couple of times."

Thief River Falls lost scoring opportunities in the first inning when Dave Odegaard's long drive that appeared headed for a home run was knocked down by an outfielder's glove for a double; in the fourth when Jeff Kosel walked and went to third base on an error; and in the fifth, when the Prowlers loaded the bases with no outs and had the number 2-3-4 batters coming up. That frustrating fifth ended on a fielder's choice and two strikeouts.

A 9-7 season-opening loser to Roseau Thursday, Thief River Falls will play at Crookston Tuesday and at Bemidji Thursday before returning to Moorhead to participate in a four-team tournament Saturday. "We're not ready to throw in the towel yet," said Cornell. "We'll be all right."

Thief River Falls' scheduled home opener against Mount St. Benedict Friday was postponed because of a wet diamond. The game was reset for Sat., May 19. The Prowlers are now scheduled to open at home Tues., May 8, against Red Lake Falls.

A Thief River Falls Babe Ruth baseball association will soon be formed at Wednesday's meeting with an election of officers. Registration of all boys interested in participating in either program will be held at the same time.

A GRADUATE of Lincoln high school and Northland community college, Terry Sullivan seemed to be wrapped up in his work as he played first singles Friday on the Mayville State College tennis team that faced Northland on the Thief River Falls courts.

Northland Tennis . . .

Brandon, Kays Are Unbeaten

First doubles combination of Bernie Brandon (Mahnoman) and Chris Kays (TRF) remained unbeaten, but the Northland community college tennis team lost two of three dual meet decisions last week.

Northland took an easy 8-1 victory out of Brainerd Thursday but lost its 1979 home opener by a 7-2 count to Mayville State Friday and lost a 6-3 verdict at Hibbing Saturday.

Through it all, Brandon and Kays continued to impress first-year Northland coach Irv Smith. "They really play well together," he said about his top freshmen who also serve as Northland's number one and two singles players.

Northland, 3-3 for the year, will host the Bemidji State University junior varsity Thursday at 3 p.m., entertain Willmar Friday at 10 a.m. and face Fergus Falls Saturday at 11 a.m.

Ontario Lake To Be Closed To Fishermen

Fishing in White Otter lake in the Atikokan area of Ontario will be closed from May 15 to June 15 this year, according to an announcement from the Ontario Minstry of Natural Resources.

Officials said the action was necessary because walleye and lake trout are being overfished in the popular lake.

The 23,522nd fan to pass through the Met Stadium turnstiles this season will put the Twins at the 20-million home attendance mark since coming to Minnesota.

April 15 — At 11 p.m. Officers, responding to a call, apprehended Michael and David McManus siphoning gas from vehicles in the Country Acres parking lot. During an investigation officers also found three bundles of shingles in the men's vehicle that belonged to Ranum Construction and had been stolen from a construction site. Both men were charged with theft under $100.

April 16, 6:58 p.m.: A car owned by Michael Nessen of Thief River Falls was parked facing east on 1st St. in front of Rantenan's Fix-It Shop driveway. Red Cross Aids Flood Workers With Food Vans

American Red Cross disaster relief teams have been feeding hundreds of people working on sandbag dikes along the Red river of the North, running from Fargo, N.D., north into Canada. Four feeding vans traveled to dike workers near Crookston, Fargo-Moorhead, Grand Forks, Halstad and Hallock. Four other Red Cross feeding vans were to be put into immediate use taking coffee and sandwiches out to the dikes.

In other parts of the United States, the American Red Cross is giving food, shelter and clothing to victims of tornadoes, severe storms and flooding, according to Dr. Charles Samuelson, chairman of the Pennington county Red Cross chapter.

Anyone in our area who wishes to donate to the American Red Cross for disaster relief can bring or send their contribution to Steve Stokke, treasurer of Pennington County Red Cross chapter, c-o Northern State Bank, Thief River Falls. The donor may designate a specific disaster area, such as East Grand Forks, Warren, etc., if he wishes and the donation will be used in that area.

Enrollment At Crookston Rises Seven Per Cent

Spring quarter enrollment jump of almost seven per cent has been reported for the Crookston campus of the University of Minnesota.

According to provost S. D. Sahlstrom, UMC currently has 930 undergraduates attending classes, which represents a 6.8 per cent increase over the number of students registered one year ago at this time. The enrollment surge is the second highest in the entire University of Minnesota system, based on figures recently released by UM officials.

Head count at Crookston reflects an almost even distribution of male and female students, with 488 men and 442 women presently enrolled. This balance of males to females in the UMC student population is in keeping with a university wide trend that now shows women accounting for 44 per cent of the total of 49,202 students enrolled on all campuses. At UMC the percentage of women in the student body has risen 11.8 per cent this quarter, compared with the 1978 spring academic term.

Overall, the university's enrollment of 49,202 is slightly ahead of the total compiled last spring, which stood at 48,896.

Gary Franson On Dean's List

Gary Franson, son of Mr and Mrs Victor Franson of Thief River Falls, was named to the Augsburg college dean's list for fall semester 1979, according to the Reverend Dr Charles S. Anderson, dean of Augsburg college in Minneapolis. Students named to the dean's list must have at least a 3.5 grade point average (G.P.A.) for the semester, on a four-point scale.

Host Families Sought For 250 French Students

Host families are being sought for two hundred fifty students from France who will arrive in Minneapolis July 16 for a four-week visit. The student exchange is sponsored by NACEL, a non-profit organization which has the official approval of the French government and is widely supported by French teachers in the United States and teachers of English in France.

Participation in the program involves sharing your home with a young French person age 13-19 from July 16 to August 13. The French program provides all insurance coverage and the individual participant will bring his or her own spending money. The only real obligation of the host family is a willingness to share its normal family life and to treat the French student as a welcome member of the family.

Primary purpose of the program is to provide the French student a "live-in" experience with an American family. It should provide the opportunity for the student to experience the American lifestyle, develop greater skill in speaking English, and establish lasting American friendships. It provides the American family an opportunity to broaden its horizons and learn first-hand about the French way of life.

Students are individually matched to families according to interests, activities, and special requests. More families are needed to host girls ages 16-19 and boys ages 13-19.

If you are interested in participating in the program write or call Mrs. Liane Mattson, 521 N. Main, Thief River Falls, Minnesota 56701, phone 218-681-5564.

Shrine Circus Postponed To May 7-8-9

Postponed because of flooding conditions in Grand Forks last weekend, the Kem Temple Shrine circus will be held Monday through Wednesday, May 7-9, according to local shrine officials.

There will be one performance at 8 p.m. Monday, performances at 4 and 8 p.m. Tuesday and at 4 and 8 p.m. Wednesday. Any tickets purchased or received for the original dates will be honored at the above performances.

Business and professional people of Thief River Falls again paid for free tickets for school children in the community. Pre-school children are admitted free of charge when accompanied by an adult. Adult admission at the door is $3.50.

MN. Water Plan Open To Public View, Comment

Water quality committee of the Northwest regional development commission, in cooperation with the Minnesota water planning board, will be holding a public meeting at the Thief River Falls city auditorium building, at 1:30 p.m. on May 23, to receive citizen comment on a draft version of the state water plan.

The water planning board, established by the legislature in 1977 to direct the preparation of a "Framework Water and Related Resource Plan for Minnesota," has scheduled fourteen such meetings throughout the state during the month of May.

Tom Kalitowski, chairman of the water planning board, stated recently that "the primary issue the plan attempts to address is how the state of Minnesota can best manage and utilize its water resources to assure the availability of an adequate supply of quality water to meet the competing beneficial needs of present and future generations."

The draft document contains over 85 recommendations relating to the following 12 major issue areas: water resources management, water quality, water-based recreation, water information and data, flood damage reduction, wetland management, water conservation, related land use, water supply and allocation, water research and education, water resources coordination and federal-state relations.

After receiving public review and comment, the water planning board will meet in June to adopt recommendations for submission to the Governor and the legislature.

Governor Quie has pronounced 1979 as 'The Year of Water Awareness in Minnesota.' Likewise, throughout its development, a key element of the water planning effort has been the maintenance of an effective mechanism for the receipt of citizen input. This mechanism called upon an advisory committee of each of the state's 13 Regional development commissions to provide input throughout the development of the plan. The upcoming public meetings offer citizens of the state an additional opportunity, not only to become aware of water issues and problems, but to participate in a process aimed at solving the problems.

Persons interested in receiving a copy of the draft plan should contact Randall Johnson, Northwest Regional Development Commission Office, 425 Woodland ave. Crookston, 56716, (218-281-1396).

Farm Fieldwork Just Underway In South Minn.

Farmers began fieldwork last week on well-drained soils in east central, south central and southeastern Minnesota, according to the Minnesota crop and livestock reporting service. Crop observers in these areas generally rate topsoil moisture supplies adequate on the lighter soils but surplus on the poorly-drained and low-lying areas.

However, in the northern half of the state and in the southwest district melting snow and spring rains are keeping fields too wet to work.

Soil temperatures are warming up to near 50 degrees in southern Minnesota except where soil moisture is excessive.

Minnesota farmers have seeded about one per cent of the state's expected spring wheat and oat acreage, and virtually none of the barley, well behind the five-year average but nearly equal to last year's pace.

With last week's warming temperatures, winter wheat and rye, hay fields and pastures began greening up in the southern half of the state but generally remain dormant in the northern half.

TRF Students To Be Honored At St. Olaf

Thief River Falls residents David Aas, a freshman, Michael Hvidsten, a sophomore, Kari Nelson, a junior and Thomas Nelson and James Peterson, seniors, are among the 1,006 St. Olaf college students scheduled to be honored for academic achievement during the annual honors convocation to be held Wednesday at 9:40 a.m. in Boe Memorial chapel on campus.

Robert H. Edwards, president of Carleton college, will give the convocation address.

All students who have attained at least a 3.2 grade average during their careers at St. Olaf will be listed in a special program for the day. An "A" average is 4.0. Also listed in the program will be those who have been elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honor society, and those who have received special prizes and academic scholarships during the last year. Students in the St. Olaf paracollege will not be listed, since the paracollege does not give grades as such.

Set Dates For Arts And Crafts Fall Workshop

September 25 and 26 are the dates set for the fourth annual North Country Arts and Crafts workshop this fall at Concordia Language Village near Bemidji.

Program is sponsored by the agricultural extension service offices of Beltrami, Clearwater, East Polk and Hubbard counties.

Craft classes will include applique quilting, cathedral window quilting, spinning, strawcraft, intermediate rosemaling, tole painting, coil basketmaking, sketching, pine cone craft, Klokkestreng, refinishing furniture, wood carving and calligraphy. The beautiful outdoor surroundings lend themselves to classes on bird appreciation and plant and tree identification.

Tuesday evening participants may choose between American history in patchwork patterns or Japanese flower arranging. The famed author of "Lutefisk Ghetto" Art Lee, has been requested back again by popular demand for the Night Owl session.

Advance registration will be required. Registration forms will be available at extension offices about Mid-August.

Some 16,900 disabled veterans are training — 13,000 of them in college — under the Veterans Administration vocational rehabilitation program. Since World War II, more than 825,000 ex-service personnel have trained under this or similar VA readjustment programs.

Kidney Transplant Works For Waller

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

"I never knew it could be so much fun to go to the bathroom," is the not entirely humorous evaluation made by Harry Waller of Thief River Falls following successful surgery to receive a kidney transplant. For Waller the new kidney means he no longer has to go to Grand Forks three times a week to have his blood cleansed on a dialysis machine.

Waller, 65, will be more than an interested observer when the Pennington county unit of the Kidney Foundation of the Upper Midwest holds its second annual fund raising auction Sunday afternoon in the Thief River Falls sports arena. He knows first hand of the assistance — actual life-giving help — that can and is being provided through the foundation.

The auction starts at 1 p.m. and will offer a huge list of donated new and used items which will be sold to the highest bidder. Auctioneers will be Andy Anderson and Dave Bruggeman and lunch will be served by the Jaycee Women. W. G. Maves, who has been organizing the sale and heading the group securing items donated for sale, said last year's sale was a six-hour event and the selection this year is even better.

There have likely been times in the last several years when Waller thought he would go to no more auction sales. His medical complications began with a ruptured appendix while visiting in the Thief River Falls area in July of 1976. He developed peritonitis — inflammation of the peritoneum, the transparent membrane lining the abdominal cavity and covering the visceral organs. Large dosages of antibiotics to arrest the infection and keep him alive are believed to have caused loss of kidney function.

Twelve days after his surgery in Thief River Falls for the ruptured appendix, he was transferred to Dakota hospital in Fargo. It was there he began undergoing dialysis as well as having additional surgery. He remained in the Fargo hospital until Nov. 4, 1976.

Once discharged from Fargo, he became an outpatient at United hospital in Grand Forks where he went three days a week to have his blood cleansed with the kidney machine. Most of the time he made the trip with Art Terrian of Thief River Falls who is still involved in the dialysis program there. For more than two months in 1978 they rented an apartment in Grand Forks rather than risk having bad weather make travel impossible.

SIMPLE PLEASURES like a slice of watermelon are among the things Harry Waller can again enjoy. While undergoing dialysis on a kidney machine for several years, he had to maintain his daily fluid intake at about two cups per day — including the moisture in foods he ate. Since receiving a kidney transplant October 8 of last year, he can now have the near normal fluid intake of about two quarts per day.

City Allocates CD Funds For Moving Depot

Destiny of the Burlington Northern railroad depot was decided in a special meeting of the Thief River Falls city council Tuesday when council members voted to allocate $5,000 of the proceeds from the sale of site C for relocation of the depot to the Pioneer Village site by the Pennington county historical society.

City planner Jack Quinlivan indicated to the council that Leonard Thompson of Karlstad has submitted the lowest of three quotes taken for moving of the building. Thompson's low moving fee was $12,000.

Speaking for the historical society, Marv Enerson indicated that the organization could come up with $7,000 if it were to delete its entire budget. His request, however, was for a city contribution of $8,000, the amount the city was previously told it would have to pay to have the structure demolished.

However, C.E. Reiman of Goodridge was also present to make an offer to the council to tear down the depot and remove the lumber for salvage only at no cost to the city. In light of this offer for free demolition, the council felt the most it could contribute to the relocation of the building would be $5,000. A resolution was passed designating $5,000 of the $33,000 of community development (CD) funds the city will receive for the sale of site C for relocation of the depot since historical buildings are an eligible use of those CD funds. It was also suggested that rest rooms might be set up in the building which would also qualify it as a park and recreation expenditure, another eligible use of CD funds.

The council acknowledged the fact that the historical society would still have to raise money for a foundation for the depot and to refurbish its operation budget and suggested that a request be made to the county board for a contribution.

Another topic of the special meeting was the bureau of mediation services hearing scheduled for today, Wednesday, at 9 a.m. Teamster's local union No. 320 has petitioned for clarification or amendment of the city' bargaining unit and the status

Hospital Week Focus On Cost Of Health Care

Nationwide campaign to contain health care costs will be the focus of activities at Northwestern hospital May 6 to 12 as the Thief River Falls institution observes national hospital week this year.

In the voluntary effort to contain health care costs, Northwestern hospital joins 6,400 hospitals around the country during national hospital week to call attention to the voluntary effort (VE).

The VE, established in late 1977, is a coalition of hospitals, physicians, health insurers, health industry suppliers and representatives from government, business and consumer groups. Aim of this coalition is to provide national leadership for an all-out assault on rising health care costs. The coalition recognizes that everyone must share in the responsibility for rising costs.

"The idea behind the voluntary effort is simple enough," states Norman P. Peterson, Northwestern hospital's executive vice president. "We believe that since we all do our share to raise the cost of health care, we can all do our part to hold down costs."

National goal of the VE is to reduce the rate of increase in health care expenditures by a total of four percentage points in 1978 and 1979. "And the VE is working," Peterson said. "Savings to the American people during 1978 reached more than $1.3 billion."

Bigger Speaks At Farm Meet Held In Oklee

Sam Bigger, Polk county extension agent, was speaker at the Minnesota Women for Agriculture meeting at Oklee April 27. Bigger spoke on recommended varieties of grain, telling the group how varieties get on the recommended list, their attributes, and which grains would be good for the late spring.

Bigger also spoke about the President's budget cuts in the research and extension budget. David Kabes, Red Lake county extension agent, was also guest.

The group will have booths at county fairs in the area and at the Euclid centennial this summer to promote understanding of the organization and its goals.

Possibility of a farm forum was discussed for early fall and the officers will check on a place and date.

It was decided to have regular meetings on the fourth Friday of each month. The May 25 meeting will be announced later as to place and program.

As members representing the farm minority, Women for Agriculture is dedicated to learning the facts about farm operation, farming problems and the legislative process. It is a non-profit, non-partisan group of people concerned about the future of the agricultural industry. of certain city employees including Pat Thompson, head of records at the law enforcement center, and Bob Jablinski, sanitation commissioner, will supposedly be clarified at the hearing. Both Thompson and Jablinski previously requested to be excluded from the union and ultimately dropped out.

The city is required to furnish the bureau of mediation with a list of all city employees and their employee classifications for the hearing. It was the suggestion of the labor committee and city clerk Jerry Wigness that the council also specify which employees it considers to be supervisory, confidential, essential and professional-administrative. These types of employees are exempt from union membership.

The council accepted a list designating 19 city employees as supervisory, four as professional - administrative, two as confidential clerical and the police and fire department personnel as essential employees. The list is to be used by Wigness in the hearing process as a general guideline of the council's classification of city employees. Local union steward John Johnson was present at the council meeting and stated that he had no objection to the list as prepared and was in general agreement with classifications of the jobs.

In other business, the council granted a gambling license to the VFW Cooties organization and accepted the highest of three bids for the sale of the city dredge. High bid on the dredge of $48,000 was received from Elwood Ehrenstrom of Thief River Falls. A matter involving quotes for curb and gutter at the new fire hall was tabled until the next regular meeting.

In accordance with the open appointments law, secretary of state Joan Growe is seeking applicants to represent the public on the following state agency:

Minnesota corrections board has one vacancy. There are two requirements which an applicant must meet in order to apply: Law requires that an applicant must be a member of a racial minority; second, an applicant may not be a member of the DFL party in order to comply with the statutory requirements for party balance. Applicants are not required to have specific academic or professional attainment, but they shall have knowledge or experience in corrections or related fields. Vacancy is a full-time, 40 hour week position. Member is expected to participate in an average of 15 days of hearings per month which are held at various correctional facilities around the state. This opening is for the position whose term ends January 1, 1980.

Board is the releasing and paroling authority for those persons convicted of felons who are confined to the State Prison, the State Reformatory, and the Correctional Institution for women.

Members of the board receive compensation in the same manner as other employees of the state. Members also receive reimbursement for all expenses paid or incurred in the performance of official duties. Appointing authority is the Governor.

Those eligible for appointment should contact the secretary of state's office by phone or letter for an application form. Application deadline is Friday, May 11, 1979.

Transplant Of Kidney Works For H. Waller

kidney transplant had been considered by Waller for some time. His heart and lungs were in good condition and he had no other medical complications. In preparation for an eventual transplant he underwent surgery August 26 of last year at Metropolitan hospital in Minneapolis for removal of his spleen. That surgery had him hospitalized for 11 days.

On October 1 of last year he was officially placed on the waiting list to receive a donor kidney. At 2 a.m. on a Sunday only eight days later he received a call asking him how soon he could get to Minneapolis to receive a transplant. A kidney was available in Ohio, the doctor said, and would be flown to Minneapolis if he wanted it.

"I told him I'd be there by noon," Waller recalls. "We called Minneapolis to make reservations on the North Central early flight and Winton (Harry's brother-in-law, Winton Knutson) took me to the airport. At 8:30 a.m. I walked into the kidney unit at the hospital in Minneapolis. They gave me a bunch of tests and the next morning about 6:30 I had my transplant operation."

Harry was in the intensive care unit for four days following surgery — the last two days because there was no other bed for him in the surgical unit. When a South Dakota man went home with his new transplanted kidney, Waller was moved to his bed.

On October 31, three weeks and a day from his surgery, Waller walked out of the hospital with a fully functioning kidney, implanted just in front of his left hip. For two weeks he stayed at a hotel in Minneapolis, returning to the hospital for daily check-ups. For the next month he stayed with a nephew, having check-ups every other day.

Frequency of check-ups was gradually reduced, and Waller came home to the Winton Knutson farm December 20, just in time for Christmas. He went to Grand Forks for weekly check-ups for a time and now is on an every other week basis. He isn't scheduled to go back to Minneapolis for evaluation until July.

With a functioning kidney Waller can live a nearly normal life. His fluid intake now can be about two quarts a day — compared to only two cups while he was in the dialysis program. He feels much stronger and is free from the "hangovers" which frequently resulted the day after dialysis treatment. This summer he will go back to his 320-acre farm near Devils Lake, N.D., which is being operated by his nephew, for an extended stay.

"Medicare and I have about $125,000 invested in medical costs," Waller said. His surgery and attendant hospitalization and check-ups totaled $24,600 and were fully covered by medicare. His dialysis treatments, after the first three months, were covered 80 per cent by medicare. Those treatments at Grand Forks are now $165 each. With testing and analysis work, the bill would run around $2,000 per month. The $125,000 figure was Waller's estimate for total costs since he had his original surgery.

"There isn't anybody who can pay those costs by himself," Waller said. "No working man could do it. Medicare will pay for kidney transplants in anyone over a year of age 100 per cent and dialysis at the 80 per cent rate. If my new kidney goes bad, they'll pay for one more transplant."

If the kidney transplant business needed a subject for a television testimonial commercial, Waller would be a prime candidate. "For anybody with my kind of problem," he said, "I would certainly advocate a transplant."

Hince Charged With Attempted Burglary Mon.

Attempted burglary charges were filed Monday against Craig Hince, an 18-year-old Thief River Falls youth, in connection with an attempted break-in at the Clark gas station at 220 Main Ave. S.

Law enforcement officials received a call from Tim Peterson of Winnipeg, Manitoba at approximately 1:50 a.m. Monday. Peterson stated that he and two friends were at the Union 76 station — which is located across from the Clark station — waiting for the owner to open the station so they could get some gas when they observed two people trying to break down the door at the Clark station with a heavy object. Officers responded to the call and apprehended Hince and a 17-year-old juvenile male in the area.

Hince made an appearance in county court Monday, was charged with attempted burglary and had a district court appearance scheduled for May 7. He was released on his own recognizance.

Search On For Members Of All American Band

Throughout Minnesota a musical search is underway for two talented high school seniors to represent their state in the 1979 McDonald's all-American high school band.

The 102 member Band — two musicians from each state and the District of Columbia — performs annually in the Macy's Thanksgiving day parade in New York City and the tournament of roses parade on New Year's day in Pasadena, Calif.

During the past few weeks, high school band directors across the country have been invited to nominate their most talented musicians to the band. Paul Lavalle, the band's director, and a selection committee of music educators, choose the final 102 from thousands of nominations. The 102 members will be announced in early October.

Sub Region 4 Has Strong Pitchers

Presence of John Noga in the Bemidji line-up appears to make the defending champion Lumberjacks an early season favorite in Region 8AA Sub Region 4 baseball this spring.

Noga and the Lumberjacks opened the 1979 season with a one-hit 6-0 victory over Roseau and he followed that with a near-perfect 4-0 no-hitter against Northwest Athletic Conference foe Fergus Falls Saturday that completed a doubleheader sweep for the Lumberjacks who beat the Otters 13-5 in the first game.

The hard-throwing Noga struck out 14 Rams and 11 Otters. He narrowly missed a perfect game against Fergus Falls when he nicked Bruce Mobraten with a pitch in the fourth inning. However, Mobraten was quickly doubled up on a line drive and Noga faced the minimum 21 batters in the seven-inning game.

It should be mentioned, though, that Crookston and Thief River Falls, weathered out of a Tuesday game, have strong pitching, too, that should make for an interesting Sub Region 4 tournament.

Thief River Falls, after losing to Roseau 9-7 in its opener, bounced back to play solid — if not winning — baseball in a 3-0 loss to Moorhead behind the left-handed pitching of Scott Sabo who struck out 13 Spuds and surrendered just five hits — only one solid blow and three infield hits.

Crookston got its weather-delayed season underway Saturday with a title-winning effort in a four-team tournament at Park Rapids where the Pirates beat the host Panthers 3-1 and blanked Glyndon-Felton, a nine-inning victor over Perham, 8-0. Senior left-hander Brent Stahlecker struck out 16 batters while giving up just three hits in the opener. Sophomore Brian Bachmeier matched Stahlecker's efforts with a two-hit shutout in the title game shortened to six innings because of darkness. He struck out 12.

Thief River Falls encounters Bemidji Thursday at Bemidji in the first of the spring's Sub Region 4 matches, but the Prowlers may not see Noga who is slated to pitch against Moorhead Friday. Likely starter for Bemidji tomorrow is left-handed Roger Degerman.

Whoever comes up with the edge during the regular season games will receive a first round bye in the 1979 Sub Region 4 tournament, scheduled to be played in Thief River Falls Wednesday and Thursday, May 23 and 24.

Miscellaneous

+Don Dicken, a 1973 Lincoln high school graduate and a standout performer on the Northland community college football team last fall, was listed as a starter at defensive tackle for the Moorhead State University football team Saturday in the Dragons' annual varsity-alumni football game.

+Crookston high school tennis coach Jim Myrold, following his team's 4-1 loss to Thief River Falls Thursday was obviously impressed by the Prowlers as he told Lori Mateer of the Crookston Times, "They're just so awesome. They're beating everyone."

LUNGING FOR a high shot at the net during Tuesday's high school tennis action in the Thief River Falls sports arena was the Prowlers' Mark Collins who was paired with Mark Lundin, shown giving back-up support, at number two doubles against Staples and Roseau.

Lincoln Tennis Team Is Easy Triangular Winner

Forced indoors by the rain Tuesday, the Lincoln high school tennis team collected its third multiple team meet title of the season with a triangular triumph over Staples and Roseau. The Prowlers did not lose a set in collecting ten points, followed by Staples with four and Roseau one.

Matches were played in the Thief River Falls sports arena and in the Northland community college gymnasium.

The meet featured number one singles performers Bill Jury of Thief River Falls, the fifth rated Class AA player in the state; Tom Easthouse of Staples, the fifth rated Class A player in the state; and Andy Odegaard of Roseau, the top Class A player in Region 8A.

Jury came out a decided winner with a 6-2, 6-2 victory over Easthouse and a 6-1, 7-5 victory over Odegaard. In the day's best match, Easthouse outlasted Odegaard 5-7, 7-5, 6-3.

Thief River Falls coach Whitey Olson had special praise for the play of junior Bill Holmes at number three singles for the Prowlers. Holmes easily handled Staples' Mark Moffett 6-0, 6-0 and Roseau's Sheldon Weston 6-2, 6-0. "He's playing more intelligent tennis every time he goes out there," said Olson.

Thief River Falls will compete in the 1979 Northwest Athletic Conference meet Thursday at East Grand Forks beginning at 9 a.m. and will participate in an eight-team invitational tournament at St. Cloud Saturday starting at 10 a.m.

Prowlers Tip Detroit Lakes 3-2 In Tennis

A revamped line-up did not alter the results for the Lincoln high school tennis team Monday in a 3-2 victory at Detroit Lakes.

Lumberjacks Extend Win Streak . . .

Larson Sets Two-Mile Record In NWAC Meet

Bemidji continued its domination of Northwest Athletic Conference track honors Tuesday with a championship performance in the 1979 NWAC outdoor meet at Fergus Falls.

The Lumberjacks finished the cold, damp day with 86 points, followed by East Grand Forks with 73, Fergus Falls 49 and Thief River Falls and Crookston with 28½ apiece.

It was the fifth straight conference outdoor title for the Lumberjacks who have also won back-to-back NWAC indoor crowns.

Bemidji came up with seven wins, including a meet record 6-4 high jump by Tom Campbell. Ray Rentz took the 300-meter hurdles in 42.53, Jay Sharpe won the 120-yard high hurdles in 15.29, Ron Wolfe ran the mile in 4:41.39 and Nelson Rotto claimed the 220 in 24.08. The Lumberjacks also won the mile and mile sprint medley relays.

In addition to Campbell's high jump, records also fell in the two-mile where Thief River Falls' Mark Larson ran a 10:03.58 and in the 440 relay where Fergus Falls' Brian Stavig, Brian Bruns, Chuck Simmons and Darwin Boe ran a 46.31.

The record-setting victory was especially appreciated by Larson who, along with Bemidji's Brian Kraft and Tom Joslin were credited with running a record-setting pace in the NWAC indoor at Crookston April 10 although it was suspected that officials miscounted laps and shortened the race. Kraft won that race in 10:07.8, followed by Joslin in 10:09.9 and Larson in 10:10.1 — which set a Lincoln high school record. Yesterday Joslin was second in 10:16.14 and Kraft was third in 10:16.42.

"No question about it, the highlight of the meet for us was Mark Larson's two-mile," said Thief River Falls coach John Kopari.

Larson's time bettered the NWAC record of 10:15 set by Thief River Falls' Brian Phelps in 1974 — the school mark Larson toppled earlier.

"It's kind of hard to realize just how good that time (10:03.58) really is until you think that a five-minute mile is considered pretty good and he ran two of those back-to-back," praised Kopari. "That takes the doubt away from that indoor time."

Another distance race — the mile — provided an additional highlight for the Prowlers when sophomore Bruce Johnson and junior Greg Ness finished a neck-and-neck third and fourth in 4:54.87 and 4:54.89, respectively, that was only a shade behind second place Scott Fettig of East Grand Forks who raced a 4:54.6.

"That was a super job by both of them in the mile," mentioned Kopari.

Thief River Falls will be idle for the rest of the week. The Prowlers were scheduled to state their annual Quentin Jones invitational meet Thursday but because of the poor condition of the Thief River Falls track that meet has been rescheduled for Mon., May 14. Thief River Falls is scheduled to host Roseau and Karlstad in a Monday triangular at 4:30 p.m.

Spartans Win 3-2, 2-0 Twinbill From Northmen

Northland community college baseball team lost what coach Chet Engelman called a "disheartening" MJCAA doubleheader at Fergus Falls Tuesday by close 3-2 and 2-0 margins.

"If we could have hit the ball it was a pair of easy wins," sighed Engelman whose offense didn't match the strong showing by his defense, headed by a three-man pitching staff that allowed just five hits in the twinbill. "Our pitchers pitched well," said Engelman of Mike Carriere, Brian Peterson and Vince Parker.

However, Fergus Falls' one-man pitching staff featuring Jim Hintzelman also pitched well. In a rarity, Hintzelman pitched a pair of complete game victories. On the other side of the coin, Parker was saddled with both losses.

The games were originally scheduled to be played in Thief River Falls but were switched to Fergus Falls because of the wet field conditions here. The Northmen, winless in two doubleheader outings, will play a 12 noon twinbill at Crookston Friday.

Northland will close its season with three doubleheaders at home as they host Fergus Falls Mon., May 7; Crookston Wed., May 16; and Brainerd Sat., May 19. All those affairs start at 12 noon.

An unearned run in the bottom of the sixth inning snapped a 2-2 tie as Fergus Falls won the first game 3-2.

A two-base error started the Fergus Falls sixth, followed by a sacrifice bunt that moved runner Jim Hintzelman to third. He scored on a wild pitch.

Northland owned a 2-0 lead at one time. The Northmen scored in the first inning with two out when Lyle Johnson walked, Mark Thorstad singled and Mike Carriere came through with an RBI single. In the fifth an RBI double by Brad Kosel scored Doug Engelman who had singled earlier.

Fergus Falls tied it with a two-run effort in the bottom of the fifth. Jack Appel walked to begin the inning, stole second and third and scored on a single by Steve Lange. A fielder's choice play and a two-out double to right-center field by Mike Evavold made it 2-2.

A two-out, two-run third inning double by Jack Appel provided Fergus Falls with a 2-0 second game victory and a doubleheader sweep.

The game-winning hit by Appel, only the second hit of the game for the Spartans, followed a walk and an error. Appel then drilled the ball down the left field line for the runs.

Itasca, Brainerd Rout Northland Softball Team

Out-scored 72-15, the Northland community college women's softball team opened its 1979 season in shakey fashion by losing doubleheaders to Itasca Saturday and to Brainerd Monday.

Playing Itasca at Grand Rapids, Northland lost 21-4 and 19-9. At Brainerd, Northland lost 20-0 and 12-2.

Despite the one-sided games, Northland coach Deb Jacobson found solace in the play of the Northwomen who have been confined to indoor drills. "Overall — not looking at the scores — we did some things right," she said. "Fielding-wise I was pleased. We had some good teamwork. They did some things that surprised me."

Northland will compete in an eight-team invitational tournament at Hibbing Friday beginning at 9 a.m. The field is expected to include Northland, Hibbing, Itasca, Vermilion, Rainy River, Mesabi, Anoka-Ramsey and Willmar.

Itasca — Northland

Itasca used 31 walks to rout Northland 21-4 and 19-9 in a pair of five-inning, 10-run rule games.

The Vikings spotted Northland a 2-0 head start in the opener before scoring seven times themselves in the bottom of the first inning. The winners added six runs in both the third and fourth to win 21-4. Itasca out-hit Northland by a mere 6-4 margin, but drew 18 walks and eight Northland errors. Losing pitcher Chris Charlebois collected half of the Northland hits and runs.

Northland challenged Itasca in the nightcap until the Vikings came from behind with six runs in both the third and fourth innings for a 19-9 decision. The hits and errors were even at 8 and 6 apiece, respectively, but 13 walks proved productive for the winners. Karen Sparby staked Northland to an early lead with a three-run double in a six-run Northland third.

Brainerd—Northland

A strong Brainerd team limited Northland to just four base hits in drilling the Northwomen 20-0 and 12-2.

Northland managed just two hits in the opener that was decided early when Brainerd sent 17 batters to the plate in the second inning and scored 13 runs en route to a 20-0 win. Brainerd complemented its 11 hits with 13 walks and five Northland errors. The winners played error-free ball.

In their longest game to date, Northland lasted nearly six full innings before losing pitcher Julie Buresh issued four of her six walks in the bottom of the sixth to finish off a Brainerd 10-run rule 12-2 nightcap victory.

Northland Golfers Begin Play Friday

Four returning sophomore lettermen and three freshmen will be competing for a place on the five-man golf team that will represent Northland community college this spring in invitational and tournament play according to coach Al Adams.

Returning lettermen are Scott Blankenfeld and Jon Ballingrud of Thief River Falls, Greg Johnson of Mahnomen and Jim Mickelson of Baudette. Freshman golfers trying for positions are Mike Olson and Kevin Wendt of Thief River Falls and Dave Hanson of Mahnomen.

The Northmen will open their brief 1979 season in an invitational meet at Fergus Falls. Adams will play all seven golfers in the first few meets even though only five players can represent Northland in the total team score. The five players who have the best average scores compiled during regular season tournament play will be selected for the five-man squad that will represent Northland in MJCAA state and NCCAA region tournament competition Tuesday and Wednesday, May 22 and 23 at Monticello.

"Because of the keen competition expected from the seven players out for the squad, Northland should have a better than average golf team," said Adams.

Hints For Homeowners

Grow Your Own Energy Savers: A Beautiful Investment

You probably never thought of trees, hedges or ivy as energy savers or that they could put money in your pocket. Research, however, has shown that these items, properly planted, can produce energy savings of ten to thirty percent.

Shade trees are major energy savers. On a sunny, 80° day, shade trees can reduce a home's inside temperature by as much as eight degrees! Natural cooling such as this means less hours or even days that your air conditioner has to operate. With today's utility rates, that can mean big dollar savings during the summer months.

Deciduous trees are best for year round energy savings. These trees, planted on the west and south sides of a home, provide good shade during the summer and then shed their leaves to allow the winter sun to warm the roof and walls.

In cooler climates, tall hedges and evergreens provide good windbreak protection. Planted on the north side, or the side of prevalent winter winds, these natural windbreaks prevent heat loss from the home. Research has shown fuel savings of up to 40-percent from properly planted windbreaks.

Vines provide good natural insulation. During the summer months, the leaves shield walls from direct sunlight while the air current beneath the leaves helps dissipate house heat. In the winter, vines form an insulating air layer which helps retain heat.

The American Association of Nurserymen suggests you consult your local nursery garden center for advice on what energy saving plants will work best for you. Saving energy through the wise use of living plants is not only a smart investment, it is also a beautiful way to improve your home landscaping. It's another expression of Green Survival.

New Way To Fight Noise

To help protect the public against unacceptable levels of noise, a new noise-measurement computer program has been developed.

Even before a factory is built, a new computer program enables the engineers to estimate how noise levels may be reduced by changing the layout of plants.

The program computes the volume of noise at a certain point using data on the source location, locations of soundproof walls in other buildings and the absorption rates of various obstacles. If required, the noise levels can be depicted in the form of sound isobar charts on a plotter.

The key characteristics of the program are to estimate the noise levels considering the diminution caused by obstacles in the path and to forecast levels of multiple noise sources at many points.

Titled "NOISE", the software package is designed to be run on large-scale SPERRY UNIVAC® 1100 Series computer system.

The program was developed jointly by Nippon Univac Kaisha, Ltd. (NUK), the Sperry Univac computer marketing joint venture in Japan, and Kawasaki Steel Corporation, one of Japan's largest steelmakers.

Previously noise surveys have proved to be too complex and voluminous to be handled manually. As a result most of the assessments have erred in either underestimating or overestimating noise levels. This has meant that industrial firms have either overspent to mitigate noise or have incurred additional expenses after completing their plants. The object of the NOISE program is to take a more scientific approach to the problem, to forecast noise influences on areas surrounding factories quickly and precisely so that more effective countermeasures can be taken.

The program measures and analyzes the energy of sound emitted from the source travelling through noiseproof covers, rooms and walls. The many factors effecting noise volume such as distances and obstacles in the way are taken into consideration in the computation.

Prepare yourself for another big jump in the price of energy.

Build with Stran now.

You might as well get ready for it. Energy costs continue to go up. And most forecasters don't see them ever coming back down to earth.

All that stands between you and a small fortune in energy costs is a well-insulated building that holds utility costs to a minimum. A building like Stran builds.

You see, Stran has factory-insulated wall and roof systems, including our famous Stranwall 70 system, that can cut heating and cooling costs in half, as compared to other methods.

Which is why some Stran wall and roof building products are specified for constructing refrigerated warehouses with temperatures held at −20 F or more. So we know how to keep you cool. Or warm, very efficiently.

As long as you're planning a new building, you might as well be prepared for the future. Give us a call. We'll show you why Stran buildings are looking better all the time.

Give Advice On Surviving In Tornadoes

Tornadoes are one of the nation's biggest killers among natural disasters and Governor Albert Quie has proclaimed May 6 through 12 as Tornado Awareness week in Minnesota.

"State residents should learn everything possible about how to survive tornadoes," urged Roy Aune, acting director of the emergency services division of the state public safety department.

"Be especially watchful during spring and early summer months which are the prime seasons for these violent, destructive storms," he said.

Tornadoes often develop in the spring when warm southern air masses clash with colder air from the north. But they may also strike throughout the summer, especially when warm afternoon air runs into the colder air of an approaching thunderstorm.

The familiar thunderstorm clouds — dark, heavy cumulonimbus — are closely associated with tornadoes. When tornado conditions exist, watch these clouds for any organized, rapidly-rotating motion. These rotating systems can descend to form the funnel-shaped tornado.

Some tornadoes drop from thunderclouds without showing a funnel shape. However, you can recognize these immediately when the spinning column of air touches the ground and starts swirling dust and debirs upward toward the thunderhead.

A tornado usually travels across the ground at 25 to 40 miles an hour, but the winds within may whirl at nearly 300 miles per hour. Tornado's path averages about five miles long and 300 to 400 yards wide, although some have cut swaths more than a mile wide.

Be aware of weather conditions to avoid being caught by surprise in a tornado. If high winds or dark skies indicate an approaching storm, turn on your radio or television and listen for weather bulletins.

Weather service may issue a tornado watch, an advance notice that conditions are right for tornadoes to form. Stay tuned for further reports and begin planning where you and your family will seek shelter.

Tornadoes usually travel from southwest to northeast, but can come from any direction. Watch any thunderclouds for signs of a rotating column or funnel shape forming. Also listen carefully, because tornadoes produce a distinctive roar, like a train rushing through a tunnel.

Tornado warning means a twister has actually been sighted. In towns, sirens will sound, and you should take shelter immediately.

If you can, go to the basement into the corner toward the direction from which the tornado is approaching. If possible, crouch under a table or workbench, but don't pick a spot with heavy appliances on the floor above.

If no basement is available, take cover under furniture in the center of the building on the lowest floor, preferably in a small enclosed room such as closet or bath. Leave northeast windows open, but make sure your shelter is away from all windows.

Avoid buildings with large roofs, such as auditoriums or gymnasiums, because loadbearing walls can be blown in. In these cases, you are better off outside, lying flat in a ditch.

Stay out of building corridors in line with the tornado's path because they can turn into wind tunnels with debris hurtling down the hall at high speed. However, interior perpendicular shafts often can offer good shelter.

Stay out of mobile homes whenever strong winds are forecast. If no community shelter is nearby, leave the trailer park and take cover on low protected ground.

If you are in open country and see a tornado, move away from the storm's path at a right angle. If there is no time to get out of the tornado's path, leave your vehicle and take shelter in a low spot, such as ditch or ravine, away from trees, power lines and poles.

After a tornado warning, stay under cover until the "all clear" is given. Only radio and TV broadcasters will give the "all clear" for severe weather. No sirens will sound.

Food Service Buyers Shown Cost Shortcuts

Representatives from several government agencies are meeting with food service workers in a series of workshops to discuss ways of cutting or "holding the line" on the cost of foods used in the national school lunch and breakfast programs. Currently, more than 536,000 Minnesota children, and 25 million children nationwide participate in one of several of the U.S. department of agriculture's (USDA) child nutrition programs.

According to Monroe Woods, Midwest regional administrator of the department's food and nutrition service (FNS), the department is concerned with helping control inflation in these programs. "When students purchase school lunches or breakfasts, they probably are unaware of all the hard work that goes into enabling them to purchase these nutritional meals at a fraction of the actual cost. By holding these workshops, we're hoping to show states how to reduce excess expenditures due to error, waste, and antiquated buying habits while still being able to provide nutritious meals without increasing the cost to students."

In a food procurement workshop recently held in Chicago, Ill., food service personnel were shown ways to save money, including how to increase their knowledge of the food market and how to better use equipment. Buyers also received additional information on illegal practices being used by some bidders and vendors. Woods says the department is very concerned with any fraud existing in the child nutrition programs. "We're out to make sure those food programs with the most substantial nutritional impact on our children can be supported and maintained with as little fraud as possible."

Woods indicates persons interested in holding food procurement workshops should contact their State agency. In Minnesota, contact Charles L. Matthew, director; Child Nutrition section; State Dept. of Education; Capitol Square Bldg., Room 509; St. Paul, MN., 55101.

Minn. Poultry Farmers Gross $258,522,000

Gross income of Minnesota poultry farmers from the production and sales of turkeys, chickens, and eggs is estimated at $258,522,000, it was reported recently by agriculture commissioner Mark W. Seetin.

That is Minnesota's highest poultry gross income since 1973, which stands as the all-time high at $265,643,000, according to the records of the state-federal crop and livestock reporting service of the Minnesota department of agriculture.

New highs are achieved for gross income derived from production and marketing of turkeys and chickens, while income from eggs fell to the fifth highest year on record.

Minnesota's world champion turkey producers grossed $162,177,000 or almost 63 per cent of the combined poultry farming income for last year. That was nearly $37 million or 29 per cent higher than for 1977, and topped the prior high of 1973 by $3.44 million or two per cent.

Chicken producers split 1978 gross income of $20,642,000. That was over $3 million or 17 per cent above 1977 and bested the prior high of 1976 by nearly $1.9 million or 10 per cent.

"Egg money" grossed by Minnesota chicken farms last year was estimated at $75,703,000. That was down by over $2.7 million or 3.5 per cent from 1977, and fell short of the 1973 high by nearly $15.2 million or 17 per cent. Minnesota's 1978 egg production, over 182.4 million dozen, was tenth highest in the nation.

Average prices received by Minnesota poultry farmers in 1978 for their contribution to consumer food supplies were 3.3 cents a pound for stewing and roasting chickens, 30.2 cents a pound for broiler-fryer chickens, 42.4 cents a pound for turkeys, and 41.5 cents a dozen for fresh eggs.

DTP Vaccine Held Back By Manufacturer

Six lots of diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis (DTP) vaccine are being withheld from distribution by the manufacturer, Wyeth Laboratories, following reports from Tennessee which questioned the safety of the vaccine.

Minnesota department of health reports that no vaccine from the affected lots has been distributed in Minnesota through public or private sources, although small amounts have been sent to eastern Wisconsin and Iowa. Department officials are stressing that there is no reason to be alarmed, or to halt DTP immunizations in Minnesota.

Questions about the vaccine arose following a study of 77 Tennessee children who were victims of sudden infant death syndrome (SIDS) between August, 1978 and March, 1979. SIDS is the diagnostic term applied to young children who died suddenly for no known reason.

DTP vaccine is routinely given to children in the age group most commonly affected by SIDS, and eight of the children in the Tennessee study were found to have died within a week after receiving the Wyeth vaccine. Further investigation is planned.

State health department officials here say the Tennessee findings, as reported, do not implicate the vaccine in the deaths. According to the department's calculations, which took into account the ages of the Tennessee SIDS victims and the schedules by which children are normally immunized for DTP, the number of recently immunized children in that group was not statistically unusual.

THE FOREST AND YOU

The Endless Bounty

This article has been prepared by Georgia-Pacific, the growth company interested in protecting our natural resources.

Many people enjoy forests for fishing, hunting and other recreation. Others simply like to view a huge tract of trees and marvel at one of nature's most beautiful creations. Still others see forests as watersheds; trees as producing oxygen; wood as a raw material. Whatever their point of view, all Americans rely on forests, often more than they realize.

Many people rely on America's forest directly for a livelihood. In 1976 the forest products industry—including wood, pulp, paper and furniture—employed an estimated 1.24 million people whose paychecks for the year totaled over $14 billion. They spent some of those paychecks for groceries. The grocers used some of the same money to buy clothes; the clothiers used a portion of the money they received from the grocers to pay the plumbers, and so it goes: each single paycheck spreading out to purchase a wide variety of goods and services.

THE MONEY a forester earns helps support thousands of Americans who never heard of him.

In addition, several million other people in thousands of companies earn their livelihoods selling products and services to the forest products industry.

Privately owned forests also provide millions of dollars worth of tax revenue. Part of these dollars go to the federal government. The rest help to support schools, fire and police departments, and other services.

THE TAXES paid by the forest products industry help support vital government services to people all over America.

Today, literally thousands of products are made from wood. Many products that we have come to consider necessities are derived from forests and it seems that new products are continually being developed from wood and wood by-products.

Even if you are not directly affected by the forest products industry, you still rely on America's forests. Fortunately, forests are a renewable resource, and that may be their greatest value. They can continue to provide man with the luxuries and the necessities of life, practically forever.

Must Show Extra Courtesy To Cycle Drivers

Motorcyclists are the most vulnerable motor vehicle drivers using state roadways and deserve extra courtesy from drivers of larger vehicles, according to the Minnesota department of public safety.

Minnesota accident studies show that cycle riders are five times more likely to die and three-and-a-half times more likely to suffer serious injuries than persons in any other motor vehicle.

Last year, crashes killed 106 motorcyclists in Minnesota, an all-time high. That's up 13 per cent over the 94 cyclist fatalities in 1977 and up 86 per cent from the 57 deaths in 1976. More than 80 per cent of the 1978 crash deaths were motorcyclists under age 30.

Drivers of larger vehicles should keep a sharp watch for motorcycles, urged the public safety department. The smaller size and narrow silhouette of motorcycles make them more likely to be overlooked or momentarily hidden by other traffic.

Also, the stopping capability of the average cycle is considerably better than the average car. To compensage, car drivers should leave an extra-large cushion of space — more than the recommended two-second interval — when following a motorcycle on the highway.

Tests indicate the average cycle can stop in 25 per cent less distance than the average car. The hazard is obvious. At highway speeds, a car following a cycle too closely can lead to a disastrous crash, especially for the cyclist, if both vehicles must stop suddenly.

Motorcycles are entitled to a full traffic lane, according to the law, just as any other motor vehicle allowed on state roads. To pass a cycle going in the same direction, other drivers must make a complete lane change before going around.

When passing, leave plenty of room between your vehicle and the cycle. At highway speeds, any larger vehicle passing too closely will cause air turbulence and buffeting that can throw the cyclist out of control.

Drivers of other vehicles should make a habit of looking all around for cyclists and then should signal well in advance before changing lanes, making a turn or coming to a stop.

When pulling up behind a motorcycle at a stop light or sign, don't stop too close. If the vehicle behind you fails to stop in time, the resulting chain-reaction crash may only shake up the car drivers, but could well demolish the cycle and seriously injure the cycle rider.

Slow down and live.

Cattle On Feed In Minnesota Down From '78

Cattle on feed in Minnesota feedlots totaled 340,000 head on April 1, according to the Minnesota crop and livestock reporting service. This level is 15 per cent below both January 1 and last year's numbers.

Placements during the January-March quarter dropped 45 per cent from the previous quarter, significantly greater than seasonal declines in recent years. Last quarter's marketings gained 28 per cent from the previous quarter, while other disappearance declined 12 per cent during the same period.

Farmers expect to market 172,000 head in the next three months, nine per cent below last year's actual marketings for the same quarter.

Cattle and calves on feed for the U.S. slaughter market on April 1 totaled 11.1 million head. This count dropped six per cent from April 1, 1978 but was four per cent above the number on feed April 1, 1977. With the exception of 1978 it is the highest April 1 number on feed since 1974. Placements during the January-March quarter totaled 5.88 million, down nine per cent from the comparable quarter last year but five per cent above the same quarter in 1977.

Other disappearance totaled 713,000, leaving net placements of 5.16 million. Marketings of fed cattle for slaughter during January-March totaled 6.77 million, just slightly below the record 1978 quarter marketings.

During the April-June 1979 quarter, cattle feeders intend to market 6.35 million head. This would be four per cent below the second quarter marketings in 1978 but three per cent more than 1977.

37 Advertising Cases Handled By Minn. BBB

Thirty-seven advertising cases were initiated or handled by the advertising review division of the Better Business bureau of Minnesota during the first quarter of 1979 (January, February, March). Twenty-two of these cases were resolved during the period and 15 were pending settlement at the end of March.

Of the 22 cases closed, 19 were resolved when the advertisers voluntarily agreed to modify or withdraw challenged claims, one case (Hi-Fi Liquidators of Eau Claire, Wis.) was referred to the attorney general's office, and one case was administratively closed because the advertiser went out of business. Another case was dismissed after the advertiser submitted an acceptable explanation for the challenged claim.

Because of the excellent cooperation of advertisers with this self-regulatory program, no new cases were referred to the Minnesota advertising review board (MARB) during the quarter.

The review board performs as the Minnesota advertising industry's appeal forum for advertising complaints from consumers, business or the BBB. The Better Business bureau performs as the initial investigative agent under the program. The MARB, since its creation as a joint enterprise of the BBB and the Minnesota advertising federation has reviewed and adjudicated 16 advertising cases. It is the only local advertising review board in the country known to be active and functioning successfully in the same manner as the national advertising review board (NARB) headquartered in New York.

Twelve of the settled cases for the reporting period arose from the BBB's own advertising monitoring activities, while six were business initiated and four resulted from consumer complaints. Primary causes of complaints involved claims of advertised misrepresentation and questionable comparative prices and savings claims.

A Well Maintained Mower Makes Lawn Care Easier

Your lawn may still be dormant, but it won't be long before spring starts that lush green grass growing again. You can make that grass cutting job easier, more satisfying, and neater if you get your mower ready before you start cutting. Here are some handy tips from the Simplicity Manufacturing Co., Port Washington, Wis., to help you get your mower in tiptop shape. Simplicity is an Allis-Chalmers company.

Before you start, read over your operator's manual. It will help you in checking, adjusting, and lubricating your machine, and give specific information on types of oil, grease, fuel, etc., that are needed.

First, thoroughly clean your mower. Loose, worn, or defective parts cannot always be seen through encrusted dirt. But before you ever do any work on cleaning on or near the underside, be sure the spark plug wire is removed and fastened away from the spark plug to prevent accidental starting.

Next, look for rusty patches and scratches on painted surfaces. Sand, clean, and paint them with a good rust inhibiting paint to prevent a small patch from growing into a large cancer.

Inspect your mower for worn or broken parts, check for and tighten any loose parts. Make sure all guards, shields, and covers are in place and properly attached, advises Simplicity.

Inspect and Adjust Controls

Controls and wheels must work well. On walk-behind mowers, be sure the handle is tight at the joints and properly adjusted. See that the levers to adjust wheel height are free and working easily. Check for loose wheels, as a loose wheel can be not only dangerous, but can make your mower wander off from the direction you choose to go, and give uneven cutting and scalping of your lawn.

On riding mowers, check wheels, axles and steering gear for looseness and improper adjustment. Firm control from properly adjusted steering linkage will make a good job easier.

Check tires for excessive wear or damage, such as deep cuts or breaks. Check for recommended air pressure because unequal tire pressure can cause uneven cutting and scalping.

Inspect, Service Engine

Now to the heart of your mower, the engine. Your engine is kept cool by a constant stream of cool air blown around your engine's cylinder(s) by a fan on the flywheel. The engine has fins, which help give off the heat from the engine to the air. But if grass and chaff are blocking these air passages, the engine can't get rid of its excessive heat, causing overheating, power loss, and eventually a ruined engine. So it's important to make sure that the air cooling system is clean and free from obstruction.

To do this, it may be necessary to remove the shroud surrounding the engine's cooling fins. Clean out all grass that may have accumulated in the fins and nooks and crannies. Dried grass and chaff are a fire hazard and cut down on cooling efficiency, says Simplicity.

Next, take out your engine's spark plug. Clean off all carbon and other deposits with energy cloth before setting the gap recommeded in your operator's manual. A dirty or worn plug can make an otherwise perfect engine run terribly. Replace the plug if it has worn electrodes, or a cracked or chipped insulator with a type recommended in your manual. Before putting the spark plug back in the engine, crank the engine over rapidly a few times to clean out any oil and dirt that may have accumulated in the cylinder. Set the spark plug gap according to the manual's recommendations.

Next, inspect the spark plug wire for cracks, cuts, or brittleness. A defective spark wire can rob the engine of the hot spark needed for smooth running at full power.

If you didn't do it last fall, drain all the old fuel from your mower's tank and carburetor. Fuel deteriorates with age and old fuel will leave gums and varnish in your engine and carburetor. If your mower has a fuel filter, clean or replace it. Then refill the tank with the type of fuel recommended in your operator's manual.

If your engine still has last year's oil in the crankcase, drain and replace it with the recommended oil. Dirty oil wears out engines. If you changed the oil last fall verify the oil level.

The air cleaner on your engine must provide it with clean air in sufficient quantity for smooth, efficient running. Clean or replace the filter element according to your manual if it is a "dry" type filter. If it is a "wet," or oil-filled filter, clean it thoroughly with a solvent and refill it with fresh oil, advises Simplicity.

If your mower has a battery, check the electrolyte level and add distilled water if it is low. Inspect the battery terminals and cable clamps, being sure they are clean and free of corrosion. If they are at all dirty, remove the clamps and clean both terminals and clamps with a wire brush. Replace and tighten clamps snugly, then coat terminals and clamps with grease or petroleum jelly to prevent corrosion.

Inspect the rest of your mower's electrical system for bad connections or worn or frayed wires. Replace any broken, worn or frayed wires and clean and tighten doubtful connections.

Check Drive Train

If your mower has a transmission, check the oil level. Check chains, sprockets, belts and pulleys for excessive wear and improper adjustment. Worn or poorly adjusted belts or chains perform poorly and make more work of mowing than you want. Be sure belts are clean and free from oil, which will cause slippage.

Check Blades, Housing

Check blades, making sure they are in top condition. But be careful: before working on the blade while it's on the mower, be doubly sure the spark plug is removed. A bent, cracked, or unbalanced blade is a very real safety hazard and using a faulty blade is an invitation for an accident. Dull blades don't cut your grass, they beat it to death. They require more power and do a poorer job, giving your lawn a scraggly appearance. Small nicks can be removed with a file.

You can check blade balance by putting a screwdriver through the center of the blade and balancing the blade on the horizontal screwdriver. If one side drops, it is heavier than the other. Grinding a little off the edge of the heavy side may correct the imbalance. If it doesn't, replace the blade with a new one.

Inspect your mower's housing for any cracks or dents that may spell trouble later on. Be sure that all shields are working properly. If you use a collection bag, see that it is clean and free from holes and tears and properly attached.

After you've gone over your mower thoroughly, grease or oil all points as recommended in your operator's manual. Pay particular attention to bearings, movable controls, and steering linkage.

Your mower should be ready now to tackle the toughest mowing jobs your grounds can give. Before starting your mower, however, make sure you are outdoors as exhaust fumes are dangerous.

American, Chinese Farmers Can Learn From Each Other

American and Chinese farmers can learn from each other, but the extent to which the People's Republic of China should adopt the United States' model for rural and agricultural development was a subject of recent scholarly debate.

The somewhat conflicting viewpoints on the topic arose as the University of Minnesota, Crookston (UMC) hosted the first in a series of conferences on the changing value system and transformations in agricultural production and marketing that have been instituted in rural mainland China during the past three decades.

Haui-chang Chiang, professor of entomology on the University of Minnesota's St. Paul campus, indicated that the Chinese are rapidly moving toward the adoption of increasing quantities of petroleum-based fertilizers and pesticides.

They've used animal wastes and human wastes for many thousands of years to keep fertility and texture in their soil. This is the way they keep production up. Now they realize that in order to increase production further, they must use inorganic fertilizers as well," Chiang noted. The famed researcher will be a member of a scientific team this summer that will meet with their Chinese brethren to postulate methods for controlling insects biologically.

Changes are necessary, he said, to get more meat and a variety of grains into the Chinese diet which contains the same foodstuffs as it did 30 years ago, at the time of the 1949 revolution when the Communists overthrew the Nationalist faction.

Another of the principal speakers at the sparsely-attended seminar, Halsey Beemer, staff associate for the Washington-based center on scholarly communication with the People's Republic of China, agreed that the use of commercial fertilizers will be necessary to increase food production.

"The Chinese have not been able to increase their per capita food grain output over the past 25 years or so, and they need desperately to do this if they're going to modernize their economy," Beemer said. "They have to stop importing vast amounts of wheat and they have to be able to provide better diets."

Beemer said that annual increases in grain harvests have barely kept pace with the growth in the Chinese population.

Donald MacInnis, director of the Midwest China study resource center in St. Paul, and another authority on present-day China who took part in the conference, said that the Chinese idea of mechanization in their farm fields is on a much smaller scale that that of the United States.

"Their basic machine is a 12-horsepower, two-wheeled walking tractor which is quite suitable for the small fields and the terraced hillsides and for adapting to other uses with a power takeoff for pumping water and threshing grain," explained MacInnis. "You couldn't possibly move heavy machinery onto that terraced hillside. The way that slope is contoured preserves the Chinese soil from erosion. They're highly aware of this and they're not going to do anything that might cause those terraces to crumble," MacInnis said.

The Chinese themselves seem to be arguing over the implications and consequences of adopting western agricultural technology, the China expert confided. "It appears that there's tension within China between some of the planners in the ministry of agriculture who would like to introduce large-scale farm operations, which would involve heavy machinery, and those down at the actual production level in the countryside who see dangers in that sort of thing," MacInnis concluded.

During one round of commentaries by panel members, the Rev. Duane J. Pribula, of Middle River, asserted that Americans should learn from the Chinese example of caring almost worshipfully for the soil rather than exporting the American commercial agricultural system, including all of its pollution problems.

"They have things to tell us and we have things to tell them about the instability we have created in the name of modernization. There's more to be learned in this matter than an exchange of foodstuffs and discussions of the gross national product," Pribula contended. Such environmental consequences of the American system as the compacting of the soil and the poisoning of land and water have not been adequately considered, he said.

Edward Pester, a farm leader from Fisher, responded that he sees his mission in life to increase crop production to help feed the world's hungry people. "It grinds my heart to hear people say that the American farmer is a poor steward of the soil," Pester said. "I dedicate my life to increasing food production in the hope that every child in the world will get food to eat," he went on to proclaim.

John Stitz, a college professor of ethics and farmer from Leavenworth, Kansas, said that he is also concerned about the Chinese move toward more agricultural chemicals, but, he added, they will be careful in their use of them. Stitz, also a featured speaker at the conference, based his assumption on personal observation during his several visits to China in recent years as well as his intimate knowledge of the long history of Chinese peasants toiling the land in the country's rural interior.

"As one Chinese farmer told me," Stitz related, 'We've used the soil for 4,000 years and we may have to use it for another 2,000 years. When I'm through with this land, it has to be better than it was when I started'."

CREATIVITY

Only man can create with his hands, making beautiful things from the substances that come from God's earth. Only man can truly reason. Only man can run the full gamut of feeling from joy and victory to despair and defeat.

We are complex creatures, because we can create and reason and feel. Sometimes it seems virtually impossible to bring our faculties into a sensible focus. Everything from unpaid bills to vital decisions affecting ourselves and our loved ones seems to be just a step ahead of us. We are eternally running to keep up, and often falling short.

No one ever said that we had to go it alone. The Church isn't a crutch but it is a sanctuary, a place where souls are healed. Have you been there lately?

'U' Doctors Repair Infant Girl's Heart

by U of M News Service

Melanie Poling of Minot, N.D., is an 18-month-old blond charmer with a winning smile. Her cheerful nature gives no hint of the trials she has endured. But her medical records — four thick books cataloguing her illnesses and treatments — indicate that the daughter of Ronald and DeLores Poling is no ordinary toddler.

Melanie was born, prematurely and in obvious distress, on July 19, 1977. An alert delivery room pediatrician noted immediately that the frail five-pound, one-ounce baby was having trouble getting life-sustaining oxygen. Alarmed, her doctors promptly transferred her to a neonatal intensive care unit in another hospital.

To DeLores Poling, who was recovering from the cesarean section delivery, Melanie's first precarious eight days of life "seemed like an eternity." Unable to see her little girl, who lay in an incubator two blocks away, she depended on her husband for reports. "'What does she look like?' I'd ask Ronnie," she said. "But he's only say, 'Just like a baby.'"

The spector of heart trouble was raised when doctors detected a murmur in Melanie's chest, but after two weeks she was sent home with parents in the hope that they would be able to increase her intake of formula and transform her into a plump armful.

But Melanie was rushed back to the hospital just over a month later when pneumonia invaded her delicate lunds, and breathing was, once again, a painful struggle for her. Although Melanie recovered fairly quickly, her doctors now recognized undeniable signs of heart disease and suggested she be examined by a pediatric cardiologist.

In the fall of 1977, the Polings made the first of what would be several trips to University of Minnesota hospitals in Minneapolis.

Melanie was tested to determine why she was, in the medical idiom, failing to thrive. Results of an electrocardiogram, chest X-rays, an echocardiogram, and cardiac catheterization revealed that she was suffering from a relatively rare condition known as "tetralogy of Fallot." Tetralogy, from the Latin word for "four," refers to the number of defects of the victim's heart.

This diagnosis explained her weakness, her lack of appetite, and, most important, the "Blue baby" periods when her lips, toenails and fingernails turned purplish blue. Because of its defective structure, Melanie's heart was pumping nonoxygeneated blood to her body, causing the unusual color.

Over the next several months there was a sharp decline in Melanie's health. Her blue spells became more frequent and severe, and what little strength she had diminished. In October 1978 the decision was made to perform open-heart surgery on the fragile, apathetic 17-pound baby. Melanie was only 15 months old, and she had only a 50-50 chance of survival.

On November 27, 1978, University surgeon Demetre Nicoloff began the intricate surgery that would save Melanie's life.

Once Melanie was anesthetized, a heart-lung machine did the work of those organs, and her blood was cooled to 26 degrees Celsius. Then Nicoloff and his assistants began a "complete correction" — that is, making an abnormal heart as much like a normal one as possible. Five and a half hours later, Melanie was wheeled to the recovery room with a realigned aorta, a widened pulmonary artery, and a tiny Teflon patch over a hole in her heart.

No sooner had Melanie's heart been repaired than her kidneys began to fail. Michael Mauer, a pediatric kidney specialist, had Melanie attached to a dialysis machine that cleansed her blood, a job her kidneys were unable to do. University of Minnesota is one of the few places in the country that has an infant dialysis operation. After four dialysis treatments, Melanie's kidneys resumed their normal function.

Throughout the kidney crisis, Melanie's doctors and nurses carefully monitored the function of her repaired heart. To record the drama surrounding the tension-filled postoperative period, DeLores Poling kept a diary, and several hospital staff members contributed to it. "Someday this book will mean a lot to Melanie," her mother said. "I know she'll be especially touched to read what her wonderful doctors and nurses thought about her."

In January Melanie and her weary, grateful parents returned to Minot. Melanie, now smiling and active, shows every sign of being an average little girl with a long life ahead of her. Only her twice-daily doses of digitalis, a heart stimulant drug, serve as a reminder of her bizzarre medical history.

Melanie's parents call her "God's little miracle."

HHH Institute Committee To Select Director

Twenty-one people, including former Senator Muriel Humphrey, have been named to a search committee that will aid in the selection of a new director for the University of Minnesota Hubert H. Humphrey institute of public affairs.

Vernon W. Ruttan, professor in the college of agriculture and college of liberal arts, will head the group appointed by Fred Lukermann, dean of the college of liberal arts.

The committee has been asked to submit a list of at least five candidates to the dean and the academic vice president of the university by July 1.

"We have tried to keep in mind the different perspectives that should be presented in the institute in the naming of the committee members," Lukermann said. "We want a director that has a strong commitment to achieving the best possible programs in teaching, scholarship and service and who has the exceptional talent to lead and to work effectively with diverse groups within and outside the university."

In addition to Muriel Humphrey, the committee includes Joel Fleishman, director of the institute of policy sciences and public affairs, Duke University, Durham, N.C.; John D. French, attorney with Faegre and Benson in Minneapolis; Buron Joseph, I.S. Joseph Company, Inc., Minneapolis; George Latimer, mayor of St. Paul, and Theatrice Williams, ambudsman for corrections, state of Minnesota.

Besides Ruttan, university faculty members on the committee include Nancy N. Anderson, associate professor in the Humphrey Institute; Thomas L. Anding, associate director of the center for urban and regional affairs; Paula S. Berry, assistant professor in the department of family social science; Thomas R. Dewar, assistant professor in the institute; Sally Flax, executive assistant, office of international programs; Donald Geesaman, associate director of the institute; Walter Heller, regents' professor of economics; Barbara H. Knudson, professor of criminal justice studies; Douglas C. Pratt, head of the botany department; W. Phillips Shively, professor of political scheice; Roger Staehle, dean of the institute of technology; and Lee D. Stauffer, dean of the school of public health.

Two graduate students in the institute, Arlana Kemp and Thomas Peek, will also serve on the committee.

The committee will work in cooperation with the recently appointed Hubert H. Humphrey institute advisory committee headed by former Governor of Minnesota and U.S. secretary of agriculture Orville Freeman.

John Adams, professor of geography and public affiars, has been director of the institute since it was established in 1977.

Another Community Asset

Nobody says much about it and only a limited number of dedicated people have done much about it, but there is a facility in the Thief River Falls community which serves a very worthwhile purpose and deserves more widespread support.

We refer to the Pennington county sportsmen club grounds several miles north of Thief River Falls next to the Thief river. The site was purchased and developed by the sportsmen group over a period of years as a clubhouse site. Many members put in some time and a few members contributed a great deal of time and more personal finances than they would care to admit in construction of a building and development of the site and access road.

While there were specific club interests at heart in the initiation of the project, the sportsmen club property has become much more than that. Its rustic setting, proximity to Thief River Falls and availability of the clubhouse for indoor activity makes the club attractive for camps and other group uses. For years the sportsmen have shared their facilities with 4-H, scout and other youth groups without charge.

There has been a rifle range constructed on the site with volunteer and cut-rate labor. This provides a safe area for big game hunters to sight in rifles, contributing to greater safety in that activity. Trainees in the youth firearms safety program — completion of which is required by the state of Minnesota in order for young people to hunt small game — use the site for field trips and range firing. There is no better place to demonstrate safe gun handling than in an actual field situation, and the sportsmen club offers this place.

Each year a small but growing and enthusiastic group of shooters uses the grounds and range for a weekend of activity. There are the black powder shooters — the lovers of muzzle-loading arms which played a major role in the history of our nation. They come from several states and many communities to compete for prizes, but mostly to enjoy the camaraderie of fellow enthusiasts and the clouds of white smoke and distinctive aroma which is part and parcel of black powder shooting.

Not everyone has appreciated the efforts of the sportsmen or their largess in opening their grounds to others. The secluded location makes the property susceptible to vandalism and such vandalism frequently occurs. These thoughtless acts are costly in time, money and material and defeating in spirit. More than once the temptation to dump the whole thing has been presented.

It would be a shame to allow an established facility which is used by many from the community and available to all to be abandoned. There must be a solution. Club leaders think they have one.

The club is proposing to make a mobile home site on the property and allow its use free of charge in exchange for general caretaker duties. Having the property occupied would cut down on vandalism and supervision would make it more attractive and available for public use. Drilling of a well and installation of an acceptable sewage disposal system plus road improvement are necessary to bring the idea into being. All of these things cost money.

"We have plenty of equity in the property to borrow the money to make the improvements," one club officer explained, "but we don't have any way to earn the revenue to pay it back."

Therefore the club is going to the public to attempt to raise funds for site improvement. Club officers are calling on business places, organizations and individuals to ask for financial help. It's not a selfish campaign for an exclusive group — it's an attempt to make a privately-owned and maintained facility more attractive and available to the public.

We think the sportsmen club area is another community asset and most deserving of community support.

Minneapolis Ripoff

Following editorial is from the Wadena Pioneer-Journal:

The taxpayers of Minnesota are about to be ripped off by the city of Minneapolis to the tune of $75 million, unless outstate residents raise a loud protest to their legislators.

We're talking about a bill currently before the Legislature which would merge the Minneapolis municipal pension system with a state system. The Minneapolis system (MERF) currently has an unfunded liability of $174 million it is asking state taxpayers to assume.

Under the merger bill, state taxpayers would pay $2½ million a year for the next 30 years — a total of $75 million — to cover the transfer. The merger would reduce property taxes in Minneapolis by $6.3 million over two years.

In our opinion, the Minneapolis pension problems are a local issue, not one to be solved by added state taxes. Minneapolis brought about the problem when its politicians promised too much and didn't establish proper funding when the retirement benefits were added.

To solve the problem, Minneapolis now proposes to have the state pay half of the contribution made by local governmental units for all public employee systems. That solution would shift the Minneapolis problem to the shoulders of Minnesota's already over-burdened taxpayers.

Frankly, we're fed up with having to bail out cities whose officials have no financial responsibility and spend more than they have in the belief some other governmental unit will bail them out.

Minneapolis can solve its own pension problem by cutting back on expenses and raising taxes. The Legislature should tell the city to do that. We urge you to write your legislator and tell him to deliver that message to Minneapolis officials.

Winter Has Been Worse

If you have been sitting around in your long-johns feeling sorry for yourself about the cold weather of 1978-79, it might be well to note that not only could things be worse, they have been worse. Following is an article from the Indianapolis News which was entitled, "Suspicious Weather Symptoms in Summer Ever Serve to Recall 1816."

The farsighted householder who has his next winter's coal supply stowed away in the cellar is likely to be reminded of his grandfather's mysterious reference to the year 'Eighteen-hundred-and-froze-to-death'. Until three or four decades ago the expression was in common use, and even today it may be heard when some elderly man or woman is so upset by winter's lingering as to make an invidious comparison with the weather's treachery in the early 19th century.

The bad year 'Eighteen-hundred-and-froze-to-death' is marked 1816 on the calendars. The year 1816 was merely the most painful of a number of unpleasant years. From 1811 to 1817 the climate of the United States was most unusual. The winters were severe, but in particular the summers were cold. In 1816 there was a killing frost during every month of the year.

The only corn matured in Vermont that year was nursed through the summer with the aid of huge bonfires built to combat the wintry blasts. That year is still known in Vermont as 'the mackerel year,' for so poor were the crops that farmers were obliged to barter what they could scrape together for mackerel to sustain them through the winter. No pork feed was raised, hence the hogs died early in great distress.

June 17, 1816, a snowstorm swept across the northern states. In the Eastern states it began about noon in a high wind. By nightfall roads were blocked with snowdrifts. From three to five inches of snow fell throughout New York and New England, and a survey showed that nearly every crop north of the Potomas river was ruined. This was a real winter snowstorm, and there was another one almost as severe on August 30.

A frost which caused ice on standing water was also recorded that year in Philadelphia in July. The frosts extended as far south as North Carolina, and the southern states not devastated by frost, were so badly set back by a long drought, which endured practically through the summer, that they fared little better than the northern states.

The unseasonable weather of 1816 was also marked by the appearance in the heavens of sun spots plainly visible without the aid of a telescope. There was much speculation as to whether the nature of the climate had changed for all time, and many considered the advisability of removing to southern countries where the climate was thought to be more trustworthy.

A study of 'the year without a summer,' recently made in the light of what is now known about meteorological conditions that affect the climate of the United States has revealed that during the period 1811-1817 the climate of Greenland was very mild. The low pressure area found at Greenland is now thought to have been shifted for a time to the United States, with the result that summer snow was not uncommon."

Legislative Report
Marv Hanson
District 1 State Senator

With the flooding occrring in Northwestern Minesota there can be no doubt that we need a concerted and concentrated effort to really begin addressing our spring flooding problem. The tragedy that is occuring should not be occuring. Homes have been lost. Lives have been disrupted. Stored grain caught in the high water has been lost by farmers. These losses are not recoverable. We cannot permit this to continue to occur in future years.

My great-grandfather homesteaded in Kittson county in 1879. The next spring, flood waters came up and took away the logs he had cut during the winter for his new home and farm buildings. That occurred over a century ago, and I think we all agree that since that time we have not developed nor implemented controls on our spring run-offs.

Here in the state of Minnesota the legislature took action a few years ago to establish the lower Red river management board. This board has the responsibility to work within all the area of the Red river water basin in Minnesota. The work of this board is supported by a local tax levy on properties within the watershed districts adjoining the Red river. This was the first effort to really have a comprehensive approach to the spring flood problems in the basin, and that effort was taken by our state.

Last year we were able to encourage North Dakota to begin developing a board similar to the lower Red river valley board. The two boards will be coordinating joint efforts over the entire Red river basin in the two states.

Further steps are being taken this year. In the state Senate we have proposed a $1 million dollar appropriation from general revenues to the legislative commission for Minnesota resources to help the flooding problems in our state. This is the first appropriation that we've had in the state of Minnesota to provide this help, and it is long overdue.

But there can be no doubt that even though we are making these efforts locally and on the state level, there will not be significant impact until we can get substantial federal aid. It is a disappointment to see no monies available from the federal level to help correct the problems causing the flooding but only available to compensate for the damages caused by the flooding. To me, that is putting our priorities in reverse order.

Our congressional delegation in Washington has to be informed of the urgency of this, and I do believe that if we apply all of our resources, local, state and federal, we can alleviate our spring flooding. It will take time, but we cannot afford to delay any longer.

If you have questions or comments, please write me at Room 23J Capitol Building, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155, or call (612) 296-4835.

Non-Speaking Two-Year-Old May Need Help

Being a child is hard work. There's so much to learn — the average two-year-old, for example, can say and understand 50 words and speak them clearly. She-he has begun to put together two-word phrases such as "Eat more" and "Go bye-bye."

Because of the overall importance of speech to learning, two is a pivotal age, says speech pathologist Nancy Pflager, M.A., of Minneapolis children's health center.

"Up to the age of two, a child primarily learns about the environment through movement. First, she-he looks around, then grabbing, crawling, walking are used to explore and learn. But by two, the child should be talking, and speech becomes the primary means of finding out about the world. The child asks questions, tries new words, makes bold statements in an effort to build a base of knowledge that will be used throughout his-her lifetime," says Mrs. Pflager.

The child who doesn't talk at two should be cause for concern, especially if other areas of development (height, weight, walking, etc.) have been normal. The non-speaking two-year-old may use grunts and other sounds to communicate or may be totally silent. In either case, Mrs. Pflager considers early evaluation and intervention to be vital so the child's future development can be normal. Hearing tests and other assessments should be made.

"Regardless of the cause, the non-speaking two-year-old should not be taken lightly. Parents must be aware of the tremendous emotional impact that not being able to say what she-he wants can have on a child. The "Terrible twos' will be even more terrible as tantrums, whining and other bad behavior result from the frustration the child is feeling."

While some children may need extensive speech therapy, many can be helped primarily through the efforts of their familis. "Many times the role of the speech therapist is to show parents what they can do to deal with the problem and to provide reinforcement and evaluation whenever necessary. Parents should be alert to these three areas in which they can work with their child:

(1) "Talk to the child often. It's tempting to stop trying to communicate with a silent child. But the child desperately needs the stimulation of conversation and the reassurance that she-he is important and not alone.

(2) "Reinforce any attempts the child makes to communicate — Give the child credit for his-her 'unique utterances' — those sounds which he-she has come to use regularly, and which you recognize, to mean certain things. That will encourage the child to continue trying.

(3) "Help the child learn to imitate words and sounds. One-to-one games can help. Show the child how to kick a ball as you tell her-him "kick the ball" very clearly. Show the child an object and say the word for it very distinctly so the child can follow your mouth and facial movements."

Mrs. Pflager notes that a few children may begin to speak later than two even without help, but the risk of emotional, speech and other developmental problems is high. "Early intervention is the best answer for the non-speaking or babbling two-year-old," she says.

We said "Firestone 23° tractor tires can save you time and money!"

"The Mean Machine proved to me I haven't been careful enough in choosing tires. You outdid them all which is really important. And what good's a tractor if tires can't deliver the horsepower to the drawbar?"

"That Mean Machine! I couldn't believe it until I rode in it and saw it work. Now I can see how you can make the best product."
Myron Schnaithman

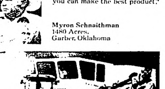
Garber, Oklahoma

We invited farmers using other brand tractor tires to come see any tires* they wanted tested against Firestone 23° tires at our Columbiana Test Farm.



These farmers who had been using competitive tires, said,
"PROVE IT"..and PROVE IT, WE DID!
WITH THE MEAN MACHINE!

Using Firestone's one-of-a-kind Mean Machine, that can dial in the drag of almost any farm field and job in the world, we proved to these farmers that the switch to 23° tires could make these kinds of differences in their farm day: they could get into wetter fields sooner, they could finish working a field up to an hour sooner or get in four of five extra acres a day. This means real savings in terms of labor costs on a given job. As one farmer said, "There's a feeling among farmers that there's no real difference in name brand tractor tires. I wish every farmer could come here and see how wrong that is."

*Tire tests included the following: Dynamic Buckle Test — Firestone Field & Road versus Co-op Agri-Power, Goodyear Power-Torque and Armstrong Hi-Power Lug; Dynamic Slip Test — Firestone Deep Tread and Firestone Field & Road versus Goodyear Super-Torque and Goodrich Power Grip 30; Maximum Horsepower Test — Firestone Field & Road versus Goodyear Super-Torque and Goodrich Power Grip 30. All tires size 18.4 x 38.

Document Lifestyle Of Mentally Retarded

by Jeanne Hanson
University News

Mentally retarded people are moving out of large state institutions, whose populations have dropped nearly 40 per cent since the early 1960s. In a phenomenon with implications for government funding and for the life style of mentally retarded people, they are moving in large numbers to community homes for the retarded.

National study under way at the University of Minnesota is establishing for the first time where mentally retarded people are living and what this costs in various states. In its first stage, the survey already holds some surprises.

"I was surprised at how many community homes for the mentally retarded there are," said Robert Bruininks, professor of psychoeducational studies at the University of Minnesota. While the large institutions still house many more of the retarded, there are about 5,000 community homes across the country that met the researchers' criterion of 24-hour-a-day 7-day-a-week, supervised community living specifically for the retarded.

More than half of these homes have opened since 1973. (The total does not include private apartments and houses, foster homes, and nursing homes, where other non-institutionalized mentally retarded people live.)

Leading in this trend toward moving mentally retarded people out of institutions are California, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Missouri, Minnesota, Florida, New York, Massachusetts, Illinois, Ohio, Wisconsin, Washington and Kansas, Bruininks said.

"We were surprised too at how many of the most severely retarded people are living in community homes," said Florence Hauber, project coordinator. Of the 62,000 mentally retarded residents in these homes across the country, a full third are classified as severely or profoundly retarded, with very little ability to speak, move and form work and social relationships. "Even at this level, people can learn a great deal and become partially independent," Bruininks said.

Much less government money is required to support mentally retarded people in community homes than in the large public institutions, Bruininks added. An institution often costs $18,000 per person yearly, but the average community home in the country is reimbursed for $15.70 per person per day, less than $6,000 per person yearly, the survey found. Even though mentally retarded people living in these homes must also use some community services, the overall cost is still much lower, Bruininks said.

The cost of the community homes varies from state to state, Hauber said. States where the homes receive more than $20 in daily per person reimbursement — quite a bit above the average — were New York, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Washington, D.C., Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, South Carolina, Minnesota, Louisiana, Texas, Iowa and Alaska.

The costs are especially low, under $11 per person per day, in New Hampshire, Vermont, New Jersey, South Dakota, and Idaho. "But we won't know until much later in the project whether more money means better care," Bruininks said. "Some of the family-owned community homes may be inexpensive but quite good."

A picture of the community home for the mentally retarded person is emerging from the survey, Hauber said. Most are small. Eighty-eight per cent house 20 or fewer mentally retarded people, although quite a few very large private community homes exist.

Most homes are quite stable. More than half reported no one moving in or out during the year, although some have ranges of independent living, where a person can move from a dormitory-like arrangement to one more like an apartment.

Although more than half are non-profit, community home "systems" are growing and more than 500 different "chains" were found in the survey, Bruininks said.

Mentally retarded people living in these community homes come from large institutions and from their family homes in about equal numbers, the survey found. Most now have much more freedom of movement than they did in large institutions.

They can go to work, to the park, and to the dentist when they need to or want to, though some have trouble coordinating all these activities and services, Bruininks said. Later phases of the survey will explore how well this is working and will assess the management and staffing patterns in the community homes.

Neighborhood life, the least restrictive environment, appears to be catching on, even for the severely retarded, Hauber said. Retarded people are showing themselves to be good neighbors. "We don't know yet whether community homes are more effective for the retarded, but at least they're smaller and don't offer such a highly organized life style as the large and more expensive institutions did," Bruininks said. "If all other things are equal, a more home-like place is better," he said.

From plain fish fillets to elegant lobster, seafood is a nutritious, low-calorie alternative that's often forgotten at meal planning time. These recipes from one of the Whirlpool microwave oven cookbooks make easy, elegant meals . . . for the family or for that special dinner party. Moist, quick microwave cooking helps keep seafood its tender, flaky best.

LOBSTER NEWBURG

6 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups light cream
3 beaten egg yolks
1 cup cooked lobster, broken in large pieces (or crab/shrimp)
3 tablespoons dry white wine
2 teaspoons lemon juice
Paprika
4 or 5 baked patty shells

In 1½-quart casserole, melt butter at HIGH for 1 minute. Blend in flour and salt. Add cream. Cook at HIGH for 4 minutes or till thickened and bubbly, stirring after each minute.

Stir ¾ cup hot mixture into egg yolks, return to hot mixture. Add lobster. Cook at HIGH for 1 minute, or till heated through and almost bubbly. Stir in wine and lemon juice. Sprinkle with paprika. Serve in patty shells. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

PIQUANT FLOUNDER

Total cooking time: 8 min. 50 sec.

2 pounds fresh or frozen flounder fillets
4 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons snipped parsley
1 tablespoon white wine vinegar
1 tablespoon Worchestershire sauce
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
Dash pepper
Dash paprika
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
¼ cup fine dry bread crumbs

Defrost fish if frozen. Arrange in 12x17½x2-inch baking dish. In 1-cup glass measure, melt 4 tablespoons butter at HIGH for 30 seconds. Stir in parsley, wine vinegar, Worchestershire sauce, salt, prepared mustard, pepper, and paprika. Pour over fish. In small bowl melt 1 tablespoon butter at HIGH for 20 seconds. Stir in bread crumbs and set aside.

Cook fish, covered, at MEDIUM HIGH for 8 to 10 minutes or till fish flakes easily with a fork, giving dish half turn once. Sprinkle crumbs over fish and serve. Makes 6 servings.

MICRO TIP. Want a hot, gooey ice cream sundae? Forget the sticky, hard-to-clean saucepan, say Whirlpool home economists. Warm your favorite ice cream topping in the microwave oven, right in the jar. FIRE SAFETY TIPS FROM SNUFFY®

ALL AROUND FIRE FIGHTING

Fighting fire is one of the toughest jobs there is; firemen have to be ready, at all times, to move out fast. That's why they never stop practicing and learning. They can't afford to make mistakes!

Because the best way to fight fires is to prevent them, firefighters spend a lot of time teaching in their communities. You and your children may be able to tour your local firehouse and learn fire safety tips directly from these gallant men on Saturday, May 12th. In observance of Fire Service Recognition Day, many fire stations will be holding open house and demonstrating fire prevention and safety procedures.

Fire Service Recognition Day, designated as the second Saturday in May by the International Association of Fire Chiefs, is designed to focus attention on the varied and technical services offered by fire departments in the United States and Canada.

Today's firemen are highly-skilled professional public servants. In addition to fighting fires, they perform many services such as inspecting homes for fire hazards, pre-fire planning and periodic inspections of commercial/industrial facilities, hospitals, schools and rest homes. Furthermore, they are staffed with reliable and professional first aid personnel.

Firemen can only do their best, however, when they have your help. Fire Service is no longer a defensive type of public protection Firemen don't sit around at the firehouse waiting for fires to be reported. They're actively on the offensive with their fire protection, inspection and educational services.

Snuffy®, the Burger King talking fire engine, suggests that you and your family visit your local fire department this Fire Service Recognition Day. Let your firemen know that you stand behind them. Get acquainted with them, their equipment and the professional services they provide. Find out firsthand how you can be a "Hot Spot Spotter" by discovering fire hazards before they burst into flames.

Children can also learn about fire safety in the classroom. Burger King has worked with leading fire safety experts and educators to develop an innovative fun-filled educational unit, "You're Big Enough For Fire Safety," designed to help kids 6-12 learn to recognize fire hazards and cope with fire emergencies. It may be ordered by sending a $2 check or money order to: Burger King Corporation, G.P.O. 1472, New York, N.Y. 10001.

In the award-winning, color, 15-minute film, "Snuffy's Fire Safety Brigade," Snuffy musically teaches children a variety of fire safety lessons. It's available on a free-loan basis from any Burger King restaurant.

THE ART AND SCIENCE OF SKIN CARE

By Helen Makari

To look its best, skin should be cleansed thoroughly.

A change of make-up may be all some people need to look better than ever.

Your skin may be talking about you! It can tell of your age, your health and the climate in which you live, as well as how well you know how to take care of yourself.

Some people are able to transform their skin into looking better, healthier and younger. Many women who want to achieve this have turned to a scientifically developed line of skin-care products manufactured with a special natural mineral and magnesium-rich artesian water improved from Hungary, where women are known for their flawless complexions.

Until now, this scientific facts about natural minerals and magnesium were not utilized in making cosmetics in America. The use of this special water, along with the finest natural preparation of ingredients, contributes to the scientific, and what has been called the spectacular, effectiveness of the Ilona of Hungry skin-care treatment products.

These formulations are individually designed to suit the differing needs of different people: men, teenagers, mature women, people with dry, oily, mixed or blemished skin, and people in different climates.

Proper skin care requires using various cosmetics in the proper sequence. Each of the products has been developed with a specific purpose. Following the right daily beauty ritual for your skin type allows the preparation to work. A beautiful skin does not happen overnight.

Your first step towards skin beauty is to properly analyze your skin. There is no "all-purpose" cosmetic, just as there is no "all-purpose" medication for illnesses.

To analyze your skin, cleanse it thoroughly the night before. In the morning, check it section by section with a magnifying mirror in sunlight or with a very bright light.

The four basic classifications for skin are dry, normal, oily and blemished. Dry skin is characterized as fine-grained with a parchment-like texture. Normal has compact connective tissues, suppleness and a velvety feel. Oily skin has enlarged pores, blackheads, a sallow color and a thick feel. Blemished skin contains whiteheads and blackheads that don't go away in a few days.

View your complexion objectively. The two basic elements to a lovely complexion are health and cleanliness. To help you get them, carefully created cosmetics are available at the two Ilona of Hungary Skin Care Institutes in Denver, Colorado, and Houston, Texas., or can be purchased by mail.

For free information about these cosmetics and skin treatments, and how they may make a difference for you, write to Ilona of Hungary, European Skin Care and Human Improvement Center, Department M, 3201 East Second Avenue, Denver, Colorado 80206.

Spirited COOKING

Indoor Barbecue With A Caribbean Theme

When the weather is fair, you may find fittingly festive fare among these easy-to-prepare dishes from Puerto Rico. They include a tropical Chicken Barbeque that's just right for entertaining more than six people indoors at a smart supper buffet.

GREEN DIP

Mash a ripe avocado with 1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese and 1/2 cup dairy sour cream. Thin to dip consistency with lemon juice and bottled salad dressing. Season with Tabasco and curry powder. Serve with cooked shrimp.

CHICKEN BARBECUE

1 clove garlic, crushed
1 onion, minced
1/2 cup chili sauce
1/4 cup lime juice
1/4 cup white Puerto Rican rum
1/4 cup honey
3/4 cup water
4 broiler-fryers, quartered

Combine sauce ingredients and simmer 10 minutes. Brush chicken pieces on both sides with sauce. Arrange in greased baking pan skin side down. Bake in 425° oven 25 minutes. Turn chicken, brush with sauce. Reduce oven temperature to 350°, continue baking chicken until tender, 20-25 minutes. Brush with remaining sauce and serve hot.

ORANGES TROPICAL

10-12 medium oranges
2 cups sugar
2 cups water
1/2 cup white Puerto Rican rum
1/3 cup light corn syrup

Peel oranges, removing all the white pith. Sliver enough peel to make about 1/2 cup. Cover peel with water and boil until tender. Drain. Combine the remaining ingredients in a large saucepan and bring to a boil. Add slivered peel, reduce heat and simmer 10 minutes. Add the oranges to the hot syrup and cook 10-12 minutes. Lift the oranges into a bowl and pour the hot syrup over all. Cool, then chill. Serves 10-12.

RUM DAIQUIRIS

To make 9 Daiquiris, shake or stir 1/2 of a 5th of light Puerto Rican rum and 1/2 of a 6-oz. can of limeade or lemonade concentrate or Daiquiri mix with ice until very cold. If fresh fruit is preferred, substitute juice of 1/2 lime or lemon and 1/2 tsp. of sugar for each 2 tsps. of frozen juice; or substitute fresh juice of 9 limes and 3 tbs. sugar for each can of frozen juice. Because it's already sweetened, don't add sugar to frozen juice. For more Daiquiris, increase ingredients proportionately.

Great pigeongrass control and higher yields. That's what wheat growers who used STAMPEDE™ 3E herbicide in 1978 have to say about their experience. In addition, growers liked the fact that Stampede postemergence herbicide let them wait to see if they had a pigeongrass problem before investing in pigeongrass control.
So, if you find you have pigeongrass this spring join the satisfied users of Stampede 3E.
Check with your AGSCO, CENEX, or GRAND FORKS SEED dealer to see if Stampede herbicide is cleared for use in your state.
Stampede 3E is now available under Emergency Exemption (under the name Stam F-34) for Pigeongrass Control in Hard Red Spring Wheat in some North Central States.

3 Students In Mission Program

Alaska, the Virgin Islands and the Philippines are the varied destinations of three local high school students who will spend their summers doing mission work. Jodi Ripley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cal Ripley; David Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dillmond Lewis; and Nanci Kezar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Kezar, have all been accepted as participants in Teen Missions International and will leave during the month of June for two weeks of boot camp training for the work.

Jodi, who will be a member of the Philippines mission team, departs June 23 for boot camp in Florida. After two weeks she and her 30 fellow mission team members will fly to Manila, then to Mindanao, the largest island in the Philippines, landing at Butan City. The team will then travel by foot and outrigger canoe the 30 kilometers to their work site which is in the vicinity of Cabadbaran, Augsan del Norte, about eight degrees north of the equator. The Philippines team will spend seven weeks building a national church for the Agape Evangelistic Mission on the site.

On her return flight, Jodi and her fellow teen missionaries will spend a week in Manilla to visit some of the missions there and do some shopping. They will then return to California via Hawaii and have a week of debriefing and reunion near the Grand Canyon.

The Virgin Islands is 17 year old David Lewis' destination for the summer. David, a member of the Thief River Falls Evangelical Free church, will leave June 3 for his boot camp training at Merrit Island, Florida. Following boot camp David and his 30-member team will travel to Bordeaux in the Virgin Islands where they will work from June 24-August 15 building a church building for the people of Bordeaux. David's week-long debriefing will be held in the Dominican Republic.

Third local participant in the Teen Missions International program, Nanci Kezar, is a 17 year old member of St. John Lutheran church. She, too, will depart June 3 for boot camp in Merrit Island, Florida with commissioning services for herself and fellow Alaskan mission team members set for June 23. The Alaskan destination of Nanci's mission team is Palmer which is located approximately 50 miles from Anchorage. The team expects to arrive at Palmer June 30 where Nanci's address will be: Teen Missions Team, Nanci Kezar, in care of Victory Bible Camp, SRC 320 Victory Road, Palmer, Alaska 99645.

Work project of Nanci's team is the clearing of trails and the construction of two log cabins for the Victory Bible Camp. When the work is completed the mission team can look forward to hikes up Mt. McKinley which will be adjacent to the camp. Weekends of the mission team members will be spent witnessing to the village folk and working to spread the gospel.

Nanci's debriefing period will be from August 25-30 and

ONE OF TWO FIRES involving the local fire department late last week was this fire at Noper's Motel Friday morning. The fire started in the laundry and furnace room area at the northwest corner of the units on the west side of Main avenue and was believed to have been caused by an electrical problem. The other fire Thursday evening produced the first injuries to firemen in the memory of fire chief Duane Noel who has been on the department for 22 years. Gases building up from a fire in a house rented by Diane Forsberg and located in the 200 block of Arnold av. S. caused an explosion which raised the roof and blew out windows in the single-story dwelling. Volunteer fireman Neil Gillespie received a cut on the head which required 10 stiches to close when he was knocked down and his helmet blown off by the blast. Volunteer Norman Blackstad received minor burns on the face and singed sideburns as well. Both were standing outside the house near a window when the explosion happened. Chief Noel said that broken glass flew across the street from the explosion. The fire started in the chimney area of the small house and a gas heater is considered the probable cause.

Annual School Elections To Be Held On May 15th

Despite problems which face school districts throughout Minnesota, most area districts find themselves with a number of people willing to seek school board office as the annual election of May 15 approaches. Some veteran board members are declining to seek reelection but many with prior service are on the ballot again this year.

In Thief River Falls there are six candidates for the two positions up for election, none of whom have prior local school board service. The two incumbents — Clyde Christensen and Wallace Sparby — did not file for reelection. Each of the candidates for the local board has a personal resume in this issue of the Times.

Thief River Falls school election will be held Tuesday, May 15, from 4 to 8 p.m. Residents of School District 564 who live south and east of the Red Lake river will vote at Franklin middle school and those who live north and west of the river will vote at Lincoln high school. St. Hilaire elementary school will be the polling place for residents of the area comprised by the former St. Hilaire school district.

Two incumbents have filed for reelection in the Marshall county central school district which will have polling places at Newfolden, Holt and Viking. Walter Steinhauer, with more than 20 years of service, and Derek Forsell, who will seek his second term, are opposed by Robert Dahl, Bruce Elseth and William Olson Jr. Polls will be open from 2 to 9 p.m. on May 15.

Goodridge will have a scramble for at least one board position where a write-in cadidate will be elected. Loren Race has filed for reelection but Richard Nelson chose not to seek reelection and there were no further filings. Polls will be open at the Goodridge school from 7 to 10 p.m.

Plummer will have two new board members elected from among four candidates since Rodney Myhre and J. Raymond Rosten did not file for reelection. Rosten is a veteran board member who served two separate times on the Plummer board. Candidates in the election to be held from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Plummer school are John A. Helley, Merlin Carlson, Chuck Heller Jr. and Ardith Zimpel. Carlson was formerly a member of the board.

Incumbents Milan Abrahamson and Virgil Wagner have filed for reelection to their expiring terms in the Middle River school district and are unopposed in the election. Polls will be open at the Middle River school from 6 to 9 p.m. Abrahamson is completing his first term and Wagner has served twice with a span of time between terms of service.

I am married to the former Charlette (Jane) Dahle, also of Thief River Falls, and have four children now attending school in the District 564—Colette, 16; Georgette, 9; Robbie, 7; and Derrick, 5. Along with our everyday active family life, we enjoy camping, hunting, fishing and sports.

As a member of the Thief River Falls board of education, I would work to continue the quality education which our current and previous boards and staff have achieved. I regard a balanced budget with adequate financial reserves to be very desirable. This usually requires priority setting in relationship to available dollars. A school board has an obligation to use federal and state funds with as much prudence as they manage the district property tax money.

The educational goals of the district should be to help equip graduating students with the practical skills needed to manage a household income,

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Resolutions Adopted At WCTU District Meeting

Eleven resolutions were proposed and adopted at 46th annual district convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance union held April 28 at the Landmark center at Warren. Presenting the resolutions was Mrs. Paul Billberg of the Wannaska WCTU.

Leading the resolutions was the proposal that every opportunity be used to oppose liquor and tobacco advertising in newspapers, magazines and over radio and television;

Stressed the continued effort in raising the minimum teen-age drinking age to 21;

Recommend the use of Youth Temperance Education week in reaching the youth with the facts about the harmful use of alcohol and drugs.

Urged support of Sen. Strom Thurmond's bill, s. 1178, and the Hammer-Schmidt bill HR912, which seek to prohibit television broadcasting of programs portraying nudity, obscenity or explicit sexual activity and violence, by writing protest letters to TV program directors and sponsors;

Urged continuing opposition to obotrion, by supporting John Gaydos Bill H.J. Res. 159;

Recommended the supporting of any bill against exploiting of children through sexual abuse and pornographic materials.

Advocated stricter laws regarding the use and sale of marijuana.

The resolutions also opposed any effort of introducing Parimutual gambling in the state and the protection of homosexuals because of their homosexuality and the loss of control on local level by the consolidation of power by state and federal governments. They also stressed that each WCTU member pray for the restoration and revitalization of spiritual values in churches, schools and homes.

Mrs. Billberg cautioned the members that in their efforts of promoting the work of the WCTU, by adhering to the resolutions, each member is to exhibit a Christ-like character. Members were also reminded to make commendations where improvements have been made.

District president Mrs. Gilbert S. Loe of Wannaska presided at the meeting that began at 9 a.m., with registration and coffee. The welcome was given by Mrs. Olga Peterson of Warren and Mrs. Billberg gave the response. Mrs. Thor Njaa, Wannaska, led the group in the salutes to the United States, Christian and Temerance flags; and Rev. Charles Peterson of Warren gave the scripture reading and prayer.

Guest speaker was Minnesota Mother of the Year Mrs. Thelma Barnes of Crookston. She commended the WCTU for promoting spiritual and moral welfare in the homes, with special emphasis placed on the children. She said that "to counteract the love triangles and trash being fed to the young people, it is our responsibility to educate the hearts as well as the heads".

Also stressing the education of the youth was State WCTU President Mrs. Ray Saari. She stated that every child has a right to be taught the harmful effects of alcohol and drugs. "By keeping silent, we are strengthening the liquor and drug industries."

Reports were given by the district officers: president Mrs. Gilbert Loe of Wannaska; vice president, Mrs. Robert McWaters, Crookston; recording secretary, Mrs. Gunda Gelder, also of Crookston; treasurer, Mrs. Arthur Grand and promotion secretary, Mrs. Olga Austin, both of Roseau. At the election of officers, with Mrs. Tarkel Ose, Thief River Falls, giving the election prayer, all were re-elected.

Reports were also given by the presidents of the various unions in the seventh district. Reporting on the activities in the Thief River Falls Alice Mae Stuart union was Mrs. Tarkel Ose. In addition to displaying a history of the union's activities, she stated that the union had participated actively in Youth Temperance Education week by distributing leaflets to the schools and churches in the city. Seven young people were also sent to the youth temperance camp last year.

The convention also included a memorial service, honoring seven members who died during the year; a skit, "Which Way to New Members;" and a report by Mrs. Olive Olson, Roseau, that Floyd Kimball, Wannaska, had won the poster contest. The convention concluded with everyone joining hands and singing, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

Members of the local union attending, in addition to Mrs. Ose, were: Mrs. Earle Ripley, Mrs. Edwin Hanson, Mrs. Hildur Lian and Mrs. Ann Johnsrud.

The next district convention will be held in Bemidji. The state convention will be held in September in Montevideo and the National convention will be held August 20-28 at Oakland, Calif.

Loans, Services Available To Flood Victims

Alton Nybladh, chairman Marshall county ASCS committee, announced that the following ASCS programs are available to aid farmers in flood losses.

Grain under commodity credit loan that has been damaged by flood water will be covered up to the county loan rate Nybladh states. Losses must be reported to the county office so proper inspection and measurement may be made to verify the loss.

The ASC committee has also requested disaster funds for restoring cropland damaged by the flood. When funds are received cost-shares may be approved for the following practices:

1. Removing debris from cropland; 2. Grading, shaping and releveling field washouts, gullies and silted areas; 3. Restoring water control structures, sod waterways, field drop pipes and cleaning field drainage systems and 4. Restoring permanent fences.

On many farms the water has not receeded so farmers cannot make an inspection of their fields at this time but an inspection should be made as soon as possible to determine the damage on each farm.

It is important that farmers sign up at the SCS office for the practice needed prior to starting the work as ASCS has to make an on-site inspection.

Low interest loans are also available through FmHA to qualified applicants for cash losses due to the flood according to Gerald Nelson, Marshall county FmHA county supervisor. Loans will be available for repairing or replacing flood damaged grain bins, buildings and machinery and to cover cash losses for grain lost that was not under CCC loan or covered by flood insurance.

Nelson recommends that interested farmers contact the FmHA office at Warren for more details about the loans.

Warn Against False Alaskan Job Offerings

Alaska commissioner of labor, Edmund N. Orbeck, has issued a warning to residents of the contiguous United States against false advertising now appearing in newspapers and magazines.

Orbeck warns that "the offers for an 'Alaskan employment kit' in the national advertising, imply a positive job outlook for Alaska which is just not the case."

Ads in question appear as news columns with an Anchorage, Alaska dateline and headlines i.e. "How To Get A $1,000 A Week Job In Alaska." The ads offer an employment kit for $9.95 or $1 goodwill deposit on C.O.D.'s when writing to a Washington, D.C. address.

The Alaska official urges persons to be wary of the advertising. "Alaska has the highest unemployment rate in the nation with 11.1 per cent annual average for 1978. Welfare rolls in the state have also increased as discouraged workers are no longer seeking employment." There is no guarantee that a job can be provided in the current national advertising scheme, labor officials state.

Similar types of advertising offers have appeared annually prior to the summer construction season. Job offers of this type were also prevalent during the Alaska oil pipeline construction years.

Current information on jobs in Alaska is being sent to labor commissioners in the other forty-nine states. This in an effort to minimize the inconvenience of job seekers.

Minn. Epilepsy League Employs Local Worker

There are an estimated 80,000 persons in Minnesota and four million persons in the United States with some form of epilepsy, according to figures compiled by the Epilepsy foundation of America.

Minnesota epilepsy league now employs Laurie L. Erckenbrack of Thief River Falls as an epilepsy outreach worker serving northwest Minnesota. Her duties as outreach worker will consist of providing information and helping to develop services and awareness training programs. This service will assist the communities of Northwest Minnesota and individuals to understand epilepsy and its impact.

"Everyone is special," Erckenbrack said. "You may know someone special who has epilepsy. Lend a hand, be a friend. Learn more about epilepsy and the services available by calling (218) 681-2700."

Epilepsy affects more Americans than cancer, tuberculosis, cerebral palsy, multiple sclerosis and muscular dystrophy combined.

Epilepsy doesn't just happen to other people. It can happen to anyone at any time irrespective to race, age, sex or nationality, although the average age when epilepsy occurs is the prental and elementary school aged children.

But facts alone are not enough. There is a need to help, retrain, re-educate and re-build the confidence of some individuals who have seizures.

Too often the person with epilepsy is rejected by family, friends and business associates. Parents, teachers, employers and community generally need more information about epilepsy, its causes and what can be done to help.

The following programs on epilepsy and its effects on the school age child are available free of charge from the Minnesota epilespy outreach program.

For students: A science lesson on epilepsy — basics on how the nervous system works and what happens when a person has a seizure.

For teachers: An inservice program on common types of seizures and appropriate first aid, effects of anticonvulsants and psychological and social implications for the child in school with suggested aids.

To contact Laurie L. Erckenbrack, call 681-2700 or write her in care of Northwest ECSU, Box 160, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

The role of motherhood grows increasingly difficult in modern times. Answers to children's questions are not so simple any more (not that they ever were). Problems of health and morality become more complex and difficult. The strain on mothers is often very great. Let us be more aware of the many sacrifices of motherhood and honor her with love and thoughfulness on her special Mother's Day.

Prichard Will Direct Marshall County Pageant

Pageant director Anita Sue Prichard, who had come at the invitation of the county fair board, was introduced Thursday at the 1979 organizational meeting of the Marshall county fair.

Before the meeting, Prichard outlined various themes for the historical pageant to be performed the afternoon of the final day of the July fair, with Marshall county historical society's executive director, Nancy Solum.

In her remarks, Prichard reported on the centennial and how to depict the history of the county with native American and European settlement themes. She mentioned the Red Lake area Chippewas and noted they "would like to cooperate with us on the pageant."

The group talked about the two new buildings currently under construction on the fairgrounds, noting that the historical visitor center "stayed high and dry" during the recent flood. Water covered most of the fairgrounds, but the grounds suffered minimal damage from the flooding and when the water receded the board was satisfied that nothing of great expense had happened.

Fair board secretary Harveydale Maruska added that a fair board coordinator was needed for the two fast food facilities in the new centennial building, currently operated by the Warren Jaycees and Zion Lutheran church. Action was taken to name the new building the official centennial building. Tentative plans taking the place of the opening day evening grandstand show, he said, would be the opening night performance of the melodrama staged in the centennial building's mini-theatre.

Following the secretary's announcement, Nancy Solum reported approval by the Minnesota Region 1 arts council of a $1,300 grant application from the Marshall county community theatre to organize an acting troupe and to perform the melodrama daily at the fair.

Nelder Broten said the centennial pageant parade would feature antique farm machinery shown according to the seasons from spring plowing to the fall harvest. Starting with a wooden hand pulled plow, various other antique plows, cultivators, seeders, reapers and old threshers would be pulled in front of the grandstand as part of the Sunday afternoon pageant.

Broten, who is the machinery curator for the county historical society, also discussed dedication of the historical visitor center building. In addition to the two fast food facilities and the mini-theatre, a senior activities room and commercial booth spaces are planned in the centennial building. Fees for these booths were set at $35 for the three and a half days of the fair.

In addition, a delegation of fair board members and concessionaires was appointed to view installation of fast food service facilities at other fairgrounds. Maruska announced that bids would be called for the centennial building wiring and plumbing.

Insurance Aid For Volunteers Now Available

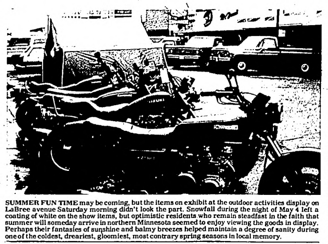
Responding to the heightened interest and concern about insurance coverage for volunteers, the Minneapolis voluntary action center will now serve as a clearinghouse for insurance through the volunteers insurance service program (VIS). This service is for agencies who have been unable to provide insurance because of an insufficient number of volunteers on their roster.

VIS furnishes excess accident and personal liability insurance at a minimal cost. In addition each agency may independently furnish their volunteers with excess automobile insurance for a nominal fee.

Agencies interested in more information regarding either plan may call the Minneapolis voluntary action center office, 612-340-7532, or the University of Minnesota — Crookston, 281-4444.

The Northwest I & R office is located at the University of Minnesota — Crookston. Any person who has questions about medicare or many other areas of question, including legal problems, health, housing, regional services or educational facilities will have their questions answered or will be referred to the correct source.

It Pays To Shop At Home



SUMMER FUN TIME may be coming, but the items on exhibit at the outdoor activities display on LaBree avenue Saturday morning didn't look the part. Snowfall during the night of May 4 left a coating of white on the show items, but optimistic residents who remain steadfast in the faith that summer will someday arrive in northern Minnesota seemed to enjoy viewing the goods in display. Perhaps their fantasies of sunshine and balmy breezes helped maintain a degree of sanity during one of the coldest, dreariest, gloomiest, most contrary spring seasons in local memory.

Senator Seeks Interest Cut On Disaster Loans

Action taken by the United States Senate late Wednesday night will provide up to $500 million in aid for victims of natural disasters. Flood victims in Minnesota will be among the primary beneficiaries of the aid.

Senator Dave Durenberger said the Senate approved the supplemental budget authority to provide assistance for businesses and private citizens. The aid will be in the form of low-interest loans administered by the small business administration.

During discussion on the measure Minnesota flood victims were singled out to receive priority on the loans.

The loans will carry the prevailing interest rate, currently 7⅝ per cent. Durenberger is co-sponsoring a measure to place a ceiling on the rate charged on disaster loans. If he is successful, the maximum interest rate would be three per cent on most residential loans and five per cent on most commercial loans.

"After visiting Rochester Monday and Tuesday of this week and reviewing reports with the corps of engineers on the flood situation on the Red river and in Winona, it's become apparent that Minnesotans will again suffer millions of dollars of property losses. I have sponsored bills to construct flood control projects in Rochester and Winona to protect us from these disasters in the future," Durenberger said.

"The victims today, however, need immediate assistance. I am sponsoring this measure to put a ceiling on the interest rates to help the victims of natural disasters rebuild their lives.

"Since the ceilings were lifted last October more than $600 million has been loaned at the higher rates by the SBA, costing citizens millions of dollars in additional interest charges and discouraging many others from applying for the loans," Durenberger said.

Three Business Courses Added At UMC In Fall

Three new programs will be offered through the business division at the University of Minnesota — Crookston (UMC) beginning this fall.

Real estate will provide students with a fundamental business knowledge as well as technical skills needed for realtor license testing. Classes will be taught by specialists from the field. The course includes a broad business background with specialized sales instruction.

Word processing is designed to develop the technical skills needed to work in a word processing center or word processing type operation. Students will receive a series of specialized courses in word processing taught by the secretarial staff, as well as a strong base of secretarial, business and general education classes.

Banking and financial mangement gives students a specialized banking knowledge approved by the American institute of banking. It includes courses in the area of marketing, accounting, management and general education.

Fieldwork At Standstill In Much Of State

Wet, slow drying fields continued to limit or prevent fieldwork across the state last week, according to the Minnesota crop and livestock reporting service. Many farmers would have begun fieldwork but showers and cool, cloudy weather kept most fields too wet to work. Fieldwork could begin or resume in many areas if the weather would remain warm and dry for a few consecutive days.

Most ground preparation and planting has been limited to the better drained soils of the south central and southeast districts and in the southern part of the east central district. However, many fields in these areas are wet and even small showers make the ground unworkable.

Small grain seeding in the principal growing areas — the northwest and west central districts — is at a virtual standstill. Because of wet fields in these areas it will be at least a week before full-scale seeding is possible, even longer along the flooded Red river. However, it is not uncommon for small grain seeding to begin after May 1 in this important small grain producing area.

In the somewhat drier areas of the east central, south central and southeast districts, many farmers are well along seeding small grains but their acreage is only a relatively small part of the state's total small grain crop. As of April 29, Minnesota farmers have seeded only one per cent of the spring wheat, seven per cent of the oats and none of the barley. Normally 37, 43 and 28 per cent, respectively, are seeded by now. During the last 20 years, only in 1975 has seeding progress been later than it is this year.

Just a few corn fields have been planted in southern Minnesota. Planting will quickly accelerate, however, when fields dry sufficiently. About three per cent of the expected corn acreage is prepared for planting, mostly in the south central and southeast districts, but virtually none has been planted. Normally, 29 per cent of the acreage is prepared and seven per cent of the corn is planted by this date.

Wet fields are also limiting planting of the specialty crops. Green peas for processing are five per cent planted and almost none of the sweet corn for processing, sugarbeets and potatoes have been planted.

Winter wheat, rye, hay fields and pastures continue to green up will in the southern growing areas despite the relatively cool temperatures. Most remain dormant in the northern areas.

U of M Settles HEW Dispute, Pays $375,000

University of Minnesota has agreed to pay $375,000 to the department of health, education and welfare (HEW) to settle a dispute over $28 million the university charged against federally funded grant projects from 1972 to 1974.

Settlement was reached and signed April 17 according to Donald Brown, university vice president for finance.

In 1977, federal auditors questioned university record-keeping practices on federally funded grant projects totaling $28 million. Auditors said the university's records of faculty researchers' time spent on the grant projects were not detailed enough.

According to Brown, this "effort keeping" has always been part of HEW regulations, but HEW only began enforcing it strictly in 1974 as a result of congressional pressure to tighten its procedures. The university began using a new system of record keeping in 1975 to adhere to the new HEW push, but HEW auditors then told university officials the new system would be applied retroactively.

"We thought our internal record-keeping systems were consistent with HEW needs," said Brown, adding that an earlier audit in 1972 had given the university a "clean bill of health" for the same procedures used during the years in question.

Brown said that although the university has agreed to settle, administrators are still not happy with the agreement. "We understand the auditors' position," he said. "But we are still opposed to and reluctant to accept some of the methodology they have used in completing the audits."

Negotiations on the amount of the settlement have continued over the past two years. "We feel that any further pursuit of this would require an ever-increasing commitment of university funds and personnel," Brown said in explaining why the university signed the agreement.

Brown said the auditors never questioned whether the research involved was done, or if it was done well. "It was a question of the rules, not the research," he said. "It was how our records were kept."

"We agree that HEW should be able to establish whatever regulations it needs," Brown said. "Our dispute is with the retroactive application of a new standard. It's difficult to change the rules in the middle of the game."

From July 1972 to July 1974, the university submitted charges of $68,796,859 to HEW for grant projects. Approximately 75 per cent of the charges involved projects for the national institutes of health (NIH).

HEW auditors questioned charges of $25,024,869 for salaries and wages, fringe benefits and indirect costs, and $3,760,480 for cost transfers. Clinton Johnson, university treasurer and associate vice president for finance, said at that time that the auditors examined a "statistical sample" for the period in question, and projected their findings to the entire sum reimbursed to the university.

University of Minnesota was one of several institutions, including the universities of Chicago, Washington Michigan, Pennsylvania, California, and Southern California, to have grant charges questioned by HEW.

Most of these school have since reached agreements with HEW.

Bikes Are Safety Problem

Following editorial is from the Bemidji Pioneer:

With more than 100,000,000 Americans pushing pedals, bicycles have become the nation's most hazardous consumer product.

Ranking ahead of stairways, football and baseball gear, playground equipment, skates, skateboards, scooters and swimming pools, bicycles are involved in traffic accidents that this year will kill at least 1,000 and injure more than 500,000 seriously enough for hospital treatment, according to the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

Most of the victims of bike accidents are children, despite the fact that the proportion of adult riders is increasing so rapidly that by 1980 there will be more two-wheelers than motorcars on the road for the first time since the original Model T chugged into action, according to the Department of Safety and Research of the Combined Insurance Company of America.

Next to walking, bicycling is the most popular form of exercise, the Combined researchers have found.

Failure on the part of cyclists to obey traffic laws and observe safety precautions is blamed for most of the bicycle mishaps in traffic, more than 70 per cent of which occur in residential areas, mainly in daylight. And many of these happen at intersections where motorists are not able to see cyclists who stray into their paths, apparently without regard for the rules of the road.

The Insurance Institute for Highway Safety finds that too many bikers ignore laws that require riding on the right side of the street, stopping for signals and using hand signals when turning or stopping. Compounding the problem is the fact that the authorities appear to do little to penalize cyclists who break the rules.

According to the Institute, most bicycle-auto encounters are the fault of cyclists, with a frequent cause being the sudden emergence of a bike from a driveway, alley or parking lot into a street and directly into the path of oncoming traffic.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission has issued stricter regulations governing the manufacture of bicycles in the hope that better equipment will help reduce accidents. But the principal responsibility remains with riders, the Combined Insurance Company says. The company's safety experts offered these recommendations for reducing the toll of bike riders:

—Obey traffic laws; ride with traffic, not against it, and use the same hand signals prescribed for operators of other vehicles.

—Pedal at moderate speeds, particularly when going downhill; keep a firm grip on the handlebars at all times, and be ever ready to step on the brake. Watch where you are going. Don't try any stunts.

Install an effective rear-view mirror so you can see cars slipping up behind you and veer out of their way. A high-rise flag on your handlebar or behind your seat would make you more visible to motorists who are unaccustomed to looking downward for bicycles in their paths.

Wear a safety helmet and light-colored clothing; never ride barefoot.

Carry a bright light for night riding and install reflectors on the front and rear of your bike and on the wheels and pedals. Add reflective strips to your clothing after dark.

Maintain your bike in good condition, regularly cleaning and oiling the chain, checking the brakes and keeping the tires solidly inflated. If you hear rattles, get out your wrench, pliers and screw driver and tighten all the nuts, bolts and screws.

Don't carry passengers or large objects that could block your vision or throw your bike off balance; beware of shrubs and other greenery that may hamper your view.

Be on the alert for ruts, bumps and potholes and beware of storm-drain grilles, which can be deadly booby traps.

When riding with others, stay in single file; limit racing to bikeways.

Although cyclists bear the brunt of the blame for the high accident rate, motorists can do their part by becoming better informed about the high rate of bicycle accidents and its causes. Drivers should also be more alert to the growing number of bikes they are encountering in traffic because a failure to see cyclists is an important factor in collisions on the road.

A number of communities have partly solved the problem by establishing bikeways where riders can pedal in relative safety away from motor traffic. But increasing numbers of people are using bicycles instead of gas guzzlers to get to work, school and the supermarket, which means that they must be allowed to share roadways with autos and trucks.

Education appears to be an important key to the problem of bike safety. Riders must be required to obey the rules of the road and learn to drive defensively while those behind the wheels of motor vehicles are asked to be on the lookout for bicycles — and to try to steer clear of them.

Prior Restraints

Following editorial appeared recently in the Publisher's Auxiliary:

The Progressive magazine has put just about everyone in the news business somewhere smack between a rock and a hard place with its story on the hydrogen bomb. From the moment the government launched its fight to have the magazine permanently restrained from publishing the story, a great many of the people in our business have been wrestling with their consciences, desperately attempting to justify to themselves and others their traditional views on prior restraint.

For the most part, our public comments have been a repetition of that view, which holds that prior restraint of a newspaper or magazine article is unconstitutional, that under no circumstances is such a restriction acceptable; the job of editing and reporting, this argument continues, must be left up to editors and reporters, not courts and the government.

Privately, however, the case has some of us — many of us, we suspect — admitting, at least to ourselves, that perhaps, just perhaps, the government is justified in its attempt to restrain the Progressive from publishing what the government says is classified and potentially dangerous information about the makings and workings of the hydrogen bomb.

We do not wish to be overly repetitious. So, then, we must state simply that we believe prior restraints on the press are unconstitutional and are, in all cases, unacceptable. We subscribe to the view of the late Justice Hugo Black who, in the Supreme Court's majority opinion in the 1971 Pentagon Papers case, said: "In my view it is unfortunate that some of my (fellow Supreme Court Justices) are apparently willing to hold that the publication of news may sometimes be enjoined. Such a holding would make a shambles of the First Amendment."

Although our view is unshaken by the conflicts created by the Progressive case, we would be lying if we did not admit that we, like others, wish the case would just go away, that it had never happened. For we realize that the Progressive and, by extension, the press, cannot hope to win this battle. Just as surely as the Progressive will push its case to the Supreme Court, so, too, we believe, will the court establish a precedent for prior restraint.

We base our belief on the Pentagon Papers case, perhaps the only case similar to the Progressive case. Of the six justices who made up the majority, only two — the late Justice Hugo Black and former Justice William Douglas — were absolute in their belief that under no circumstances is a prior restraint on the press permissible. Three of the remaining four justices — Byron White, Potter Stewart and William Brennan — said they could not rule out the possibility that a prior restraint on the press could at some point be permissible. The sixth member of the majority, Justice Thorgood Marshall, fell somewhere between these two positions, basing his opinion on the fact that in the Pentagon Papers case the government could not base its arguments on statutory restrictions.

Of the minority, two — Chief Justice Warren Burger and Justice Harry Blackmun — still are on the court. So, then, we have five justices on the current court — Burger, Blackmun, White, Stewart and Brennan — who at least once have either supported a prior restraint on the press or suggested that a case can be made for one. And five is a majority.

More than anything else, the Progressive case has taught us that a prior restraint is a bit like death. Although we're against it, at some point we have to accept its inevitability.

Should the Progressive case reach the Supreme Court, we suggest the inevitable result will be the court's sanction of a prior restraint.

U.S. Senator

Rudy Boschwitz reports to Minnesota

A Productive Week

Floods... finances... following through on government commitments... the Senate talked about them all this week.

Perhaps most important for Minnesotans in general is the first budget plan for 1980 passed by the Senate late Wednesday night. I feel a good deal of pride as part of the Budget Committee which prepared the bill. Unlike the past several years when government has grown at an annual rate of 11 and 12 per cent, for 1980 we've managed to slow that growth to 7.7 per cent. That's a substantial start to relieving pressure on the money supply and thus slowing inflation.

Of course, there are many painful choices to make. Most government programs began as worthwhile ideas, but clearly some cuts have to, and need to be made. Consider this sobering thought: my office received requests for additional funding for programs in Minnesota alone that would have increased the federal deficit by close to $9 billion. Multiply that by 50 states, and you'd have a bankrupting deficit of $450 billion.

On another matter, Wednesday morning I was able to give testimony before the Interior subcommittee urging that group to follow through on a commitment Congress made to northeastern Minnesota last fall when it passed the BWCA Act. You may recall that the future of the logging and resort industries there was severely hurt when their activities were drastically curtailed. To ease the blow to the region, Congress agreed at that time to spend some $20 million to help resort owners relocate, timber companies restart their operations outside the wilderness area and companies develop recreation facilities in the BWCA that are legal under the new law.

Unfortunately, the BWCA Act was passed too late in the year to be included in the Forest Service's budget requests, so we must now persuade the Senate to include the $20 million as a supplement. After our testimony Wednesday, I'm optimistic. I believe the other Senators recognize that Minnesotans have some compensation due them for the lost livelihood in the area.

Of course there was a lot of talk — and I hope the beginning of some action — around here this week about the hardships caused by floods through the nation this spring. Many of us have discussed the need to improve disaster loan programs.

I'll likely face legislation in that area before the Small Business committee, of which I'm a member. Small Business authorizes spending for SBA disaster loans. At the appropriate time, I now plan to vote in favor of lowering the interest rate on disaster loans to two or three per cent.

Borrowers presently pay "cost of money" rates (that means whatever it's cost the federal government to borrow the money orginially.) Right now, the "cost of money" rate is 7 and ¾ per cent, a rate far too stiff for a flood-struck home or business owner when he's already paying off the mortgage on destroyed property and then finds himself trying to borrow to finance anew.

None of these issues can be considered settled for good. But this was a good week of making some necessary starts.

Forsberg At UND Series

Arlyne Forsberg of Thief River Falls was among 177 persons who met recently in Grand Forks, N.D., for the University of North Dakota's annual conference series on changing status of women in their career development.

The first two conferences explored women in non-traditional careers and the needs of the woman as a person. The third expanded on these topics and added study of the woman's changing relationship with herself, her family and her career as she becomes part of the world of work.

THE VOICE of BUSINESS

by Richard L. Lesher, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

America — Still a Box Office Smash!

During the two days following the signing of the Eqyptian-Isreali peace accords, the United States Chamber of Commerce, assisted by the U.S. section of the American-Eqyptian and American-Isreali Business Councils (formed and operated by the National Chamber), hosted a dinner in Washington for President Sadat and a luncheon for Prime Minister Begin.

Both were historical moments of great honor for the American business community. And they were much more. I listened to these two leaders with profound respect, knowing that history was taking an important turn because of their personal initiatives and courage. And I was struck by the wisdom and conviction in their words when they each spoke of the need for a dynamic, free and prosperous economy as the necessary foundation for genuine human progress.

How ironic it seemed! At the very time our own leaders were blasting profits here at home (when, actually, profits per unit of output last year declined by 1.3 per cent while federal spending was up nine per cent and federal taxes were up 20 per cent), here were two of the world's leaders pleading for American industry to create the same economic miracle in their countries as it has done in our own.

President Sadat emphasized this point, noting that his country does not lack land, water or human hands. What Eqypt needs most, he stressed, is investment, technology and skilled management. And then, in inviting American industry to become his partner in progress, he said to us with eloquence and emotion: "I want you to be pioneers like your great grandfathers who opened the west and built in 200 years the most powerful country. . .the richest country . . .the United States of America."

The following day in New York, Prime Minister Begin used words that could have acutally been taken from the mission of the Chamber. That mission reads: "To advance human progress through an economic, political and cultural system based on individual freedom, incentive, initiative, opportunity and responsibility."

Listen to Prime Minister Begin's own words: "Now in Isreal, we have a system of free private initiative. . . .You will be free to invest in any field you want. The government officials will help you, not only with information, but in any other field so that your investment is prosperous and profitable. There is no shame in it! This is the secret of human progress for all walks of life, because those profits make it possible to reinvest and again to develop the economy. This is the wisdom of the free private initiative system."

Others who have not always known a society conceived in liberty sometimes understand it. . .and hunger for it. . .with greater clarity and conviction than people who have never known anything else. A few months ago, the popular CBS newsmagazine program, "60 Minutes," interviewed a writer named Ted Morgan. Morgan had grown up in France in an aristocratic family, but he later moved to the United States and became an American citizen when he could no longer resist the opportunities on these shores.

In his book, "On Becoming American," he describes what he finds unique about this country.—And during the "60 Minutes" interview, CBS correspondent Mike Wallace asked him: "Ted, you write, 'this country is a success in the same way a Braodway show is a success'."

Morgan replied, "That's right, because everyone is standing in line waiting to get in. It's a box office smash."

Just why is it that so many people are still standing in line trying to become American citizens? Why do foreign leaders like Sadat and Begin look to the United States as a country they admire and want to emulate?

Is it not because in this republic, with only a fraction of the world's population and with no monopoly on natural resources, we have created more new wealth than all of the people in the world, and distributed that wealth more widely than in any other country in history?

And so why is it that the secret ingredient of that success — the possibility of rewards for those most willing to work, save and invest — continues to be attacked by so many in government who are reaping the benefits of other people's risks?

The American experiment in freedom remains the most inspiring, exciting, progressive, and indeed, the most revolutionary idea in the world today. But what enduring wisdom has rendered such a sweet success, the folly of ignorance could just as easily destroy.

May Declared Month Of The Older Citizen

May is national older Americans month the Minnesota board on aging has announced. The month was first set aside for senior citizens in 1963 by President Kennedy.

According to the board, older Americans are the fastest growing segment of the population. More than 454,000 Minnesotans (11.4 per cent) are age 65 or older and another 160,000 are age 60-64. The state's older population is the 18th largest in the nation.

Since 1900 the percentage of the U.S. population age 65 and older more than doubled going from 4.1 per cent in 1900 to 10.9 per cent in 1977 while the number increased sevenfold from 3 million to 23 million.

In his proclamation for older Americans month 1979, Governor Quie urged state residents to "demonstrate recognition and appreciation of the vital role played by Minnesota's older adults as builders of this great state and nation."

Available from the Minnesota board on aging is a list of suggestions to help communities celebrate older Americans month. The list includes holding special tournaments, senior olympics, old time craft shows, rock-a-thons complete with rocking chairs, open houses at senior center, etc.

DID YOU KNOW?

Alcohol and the Vacant Chair

They entered in where lights were dim, went to the bar for beer or gin, drank until they did not know how to act or where to go.
Started home but could not see approaching cars so easily, then a flash, screams filled the air—
at home there is a vacant chair.

Some young folks out to ride and roam took bottles from a shelf at home;
"Parents drink so why can't we?"
and soon were having quite a spree.
They had no thought of others when their car careened and turned again, a crash and screams and deathly stares—
at home are many vacant chairs.

Brewers take our fruit and grain, meant for easing hunger pain, permeate all walks of life,
oblivious as sin runs rife.
Brew and brag so proud and bold with nothing new, their songs of old, they make and sell—no thought of cares for loss of life and vacant chairs.

Foreign Guests Study Dairy In RLF Area

Irena Bondurska, Poland and Cristina Garcia, Uraguay, South America, visited with Dr. George Marx and dairy herdsmen at the Northwest experiment station recently. Mrs. Bondurska is working on her doctorate degree here collecting data on "What Happens to Milk Production When You Build a New Barn", measuring stress conditions, milk production blood flow and other physiological parameters.

Irena's husband is agricultural commissioner or secretary of agriculture for the country of Poland. She is hosted in the area by the Arley Schultz family, rural Red Lake Falls, who have just built new dairy facilities. She will be in the USA for one year and will be in St. Paul part of that time.

Cristina Garcia of Uraguay is hosted in the area by the Erving Byer family, Red Lake Falls. She is interested in studying dairy, particularly feeding systems, material handling, and automation. She indicated that her country needs this kind of technology and she will be absorbing as many ideas as possible before she returns to South America.

This exchange of person's interested in the dairy industry is afforded by the University of Minnesota agricultural extension service. Dave Kabes, Red Lake county extension director, arranged for the visit and tour of the experiment station for these visitors and assisted in guiding them to areas of interest.

RLF Hospital Joins In Effort To Hold Costs

Minnesota health cost containment council has recently certified St. John's hospital of Red Lake Falls as a participant in the national voluntary effort to contain health care costs.

This certification was granted by the council because St. John's hospital's board of directors has passed a resolution pledging to "periodically reassess its operating and capital budgets and to use all reasonable methods to keep its hospital operating expenses at the lowest possible levels, while still continuing to provide high quality care." St. John's joins 140 other Minnesota hospitals which have also recieved certification.

National voluntary effort, of which this certification process is a part, is a nationwide coalition of volunteer committees in all 50 states.

Dr. Samuelson To Speak At Science Meet

Dr. Charles Samuelson, biology instructor at Northland community college, will attend the fourth annual meeting of the Minnesota acadmey of science on the campus of the University of Minnesota-Morris on May 4 and 5.

In addition to participation in the work of the meeting Dr. Samuelson will also deliver a speech to the zoological section of the academy on his research with the sunflower midge. The sunflower midge is an insect that was reported for the first time in Minnesota in 1971 in Norman county where it caused considerable damage to sunflower seed production. Dr. Samuelson will review his research on the life cycle of the midge and the environmental factors which influence its reproductive capacity.

During his work on the sunflower midge Samuelson discovered what may be a new species of insect which is a parasite of the sunflower midge. A researcher at Mississippi state university is in the process of identifying and classifying this possible new species.

Dr. Samuelson received his doctor of philosophy degree in entomology from North Dakota state university in 1976 and has been biology instructor at Northland community college since the college was founded in 1965.

The paper Dr. Samuelson will deliver to the Academy is entitled "The Biology and Economic Importance of Contarinia schulzi Gagne on sunflower cultivars, Heliantus annuus L. in the Red River Valley".

Older Citizens Drive Safely As Volunteers

The Minnesota board of aging recently surveyed a number of Minnesota transportation programs which use senior citizens as volunteer drivers and discovered that more than 300,000 passenger trips had been provided by senior volunteers in recent years. The seniors drove a total of 3 million miles with only four accidents total.

The low accident figure was marred by the fact that a number of the older drivers and transportation programs have had insurance problems including threats of cancellation, non-renewal, rate increases, and attempts by insurance agents to discourage people from being volunteer drivers.

The board has sent its survey results to representatives of the insurance industry in hopes that problems will soon be resolved.

Increased Gasohol Production

The majority of our nation's energy problems are caused by our increasing dependence on foreign countries for crude oil. The trend may change, however, as gas prices continue to skyrocket, and alternate sources of energy become more readily available. One possibility, which I support, is the expansion of gasohol production.

Gasohol is an alcohol blended fuel that can be used in any vehicle currently using gasoline. This alternate source of energy is composed of 10 per cent alcohol and 90 per cent gasoline, and can be made with either ethanol (ethyl alcohol), or methanol (methyl alcohol). Gasohol containing ethanol is produced from fermented grains, surplus crops, and almost anything else that grows. Gasohol containing methanol is made from wood, coal, garbage, sewage, or petroleum. All of these products are abundant, and the technology necessary to convert them to energy we can use is readily available.

More than 550 service stations across the country have opened their pumps to gasohol at about the same price as unleaded gasoline. Performance with gasohol has been rated equal to that of gas, and mileage using gasohol is expected to improve 3 to 5 per cent.

The advantage to gasohol use is that the alcohol portion of 10 per cent, which is expected to reduce oil imports by as much as 500,000 to one million barrels a day by 1985, is a renewable source of energy from amny different sources. Some people argue that gasohol production would consume too much of our nation's grain harvest, thus pushing up prices for grain products. This might be true if we were already producing grain and farm products to their maximum potential, but the fact is we're not. The production of gasohol will increase the demand for grain, or other crops, but the new amounts can be supplied by using land that is currently being idled, and other crops that are being diverted. For example, so far in 1979 the State of Minnesota has diverted 292,214 hundred weight of Russetts, and 855,934 hundred weight of red and white potatoes, all of which could have been used for the production of gasohol. This quantity of potatoes would have produced over one million gallons of ethanol.

The need for increased domestic energy is great, and even though gasohol will not eliminate our dependence on foreign energy products, I believe it is one of our most versatile and useful energy products. In an effort to encourage the expansion of gasohol production and use, I am cosponsoring the Alcohol Fuels Environment Coordination Act, and the Alcohol Production Incentive Act. I am also cosponsoring a bill to provide a loan guarantee program for construction of ethanol production facilities. Priority would be given to farmers and farming groups interested in constructing a production plant.

Milk Program Offered To 4-H Groups At Fair

Several events in the 4-H building on the Minnesota state fairgrounds this year will utilize the special milk program available through the state department of education, child nutrition section.

The 4-H youth development unit of the agricultural extension service, University of Minnesota, will use the special milk program at the junior leader conference, June 18-22; 4-H Arts-In, Aug. 9-15; 4-H state fair program, Aug. 23-Sept. 3; and 4-H market livestock show, Sept. 16-19.

Under this program, milk is available at no separate charge to all children in attendance at major state 4-H events without regard to race, creed, color, sex, handicap or national origin.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

One nuclear reactor threatens the health of individuals living near it — if it should leak. The latest report indicated that scientists felt there may be as many as 10 people who develop cancer that may not otherwise if the reactor had not leaked.

The nation is stirred. Study after study is closely inspected by the news media. Financial disaster could come to the supporters and developers of the nuclear plants. Electric companies stand to lose millions in suit and countersuit. Power plants are forces to close.

Midst all the furor, one notes the taverns are open. One notes many of the protestors puffing on tobacco. Hundreds of thousands will die this year — for certain no doubt about it — from alcohol and tobacco. But where is the concern?

April 22-28 was Youth Temperance Education Week in Minnesota. I didn't notice it on T.V. The radio was strangely silent. Was it in the paper? Oh well, the governor said it only cost our state, our state of Minnesota, one billion dollars each year to support the moral decay caused by alcohol. We can afford it. Can't we?

Promotions At First NW Bank Are Announced

Two promotions and a new appointment have been announced by George Schwartz, president of First Northwestern state bank of Thief River Falls.

Jim Rogalla has been promoted to manager of the installment loan department. Rogalla, a vice president, has been with the bank since September of 1975. In addition to his duties as installment manager he supervises a new bank service called farm plan and is responsible for the Master Charge-VISA credit card program offered by the bank.

Vicky Erickson has been appointed to administer the farm plan program. Farm plan is a credit service for agri-business merchants and their customers. Miss Erickson has been employed at the bank since June of 1973, previously working as an insurance department secretary and assistant head bookkeeper. She is originally from Viking and is a graduate of Warren high school, also completing the clerical secretary course at the Thief River Falls AVTI.

Miss Erickson is an active member of the business and professional women organization, and will be installed as its president soon. She has attended various bank seminars and training programs, and recently completed the principles of bank operations course offered through the American institute of banking.

Bob Kosel has assumed new duties with the bank in the area of advertising, marketing and business development. Kosel has been with the bank since August of 1966. His previous duties have been primarily in the area of installment lending.

Nursing Home Week Noted By Governor

Governor Al Quie has proclaimed the week of May 13-20 as nursing home week and is urging all citizens to acquaint themselves with the services nursing homes provide, and to support their efforts in providing care for the elderly. Governor Quie said the state of Minnesota is appreciative of the many dedicated people who provide skilled and compassionate care for the elderly.

National nursing home week, sponsored by the American health care association, is designed to focus attention on the needs of the convalescent, elderly and chronically ill. The week is also set aside to recognize the quality of care provided by long term care professionals in Minnesota.

Move The Depot Fund Receives Some Donations

Donations are already coming in for the "Move the Depot Fund" established by the Pennington county historical society. The society has taken on the responsibility to raise $7,000 as its share of cost to move the Burlington Northern depot from its present location to the Pennington pioneer village.

Total cost of the move will be $12,000 and the city of Thief River Falls will pay $5,000 toward the moving rather than pay to have the structure demolished. It is located on the site of property designated for construction of a senior citizen housing project.

Once moved to the pioneer village the depot will be used as a museum to house farm implements and other large itmes for which there is now no indoor storage. Persons who would like to contribute to the fund may send their checks to the Pennington County Historical Society, P.O. Box 127, Thief River Falls, Mn. 56701.

Plans are to make a list of donors to be on display in the depot when it is used for museum purposes and open to the public.

Hypnotist To Perform At NCC Thursday

John Kolisch, reputed to be the world's fastest hypnotist, will appear at Northland community college on Thursday at 10 a.m. in the college auditorium. Public may attend at no charge.

Included in his program is audience participation in practical demonstrations of hypnosis, mass-hypnosis, post-hypnotic suggestions, extrasensory perception and mentalism. Kolisch will invite 20 or more people on stage to demonstrate his hypnotic feats, yet he always treats his volunteers with the respect and consideration for privacy and dignity.

Vienna-born Kolisch first became interested in the psycho-phenomena of hypnosis and extrasensory perception (E.S.P.) while he was a student of psychology at the University of Vienna. Today he is recognized as an outstanding authority in the field with over 25 years of experience as a lecturer, entertainer and professional consultant. His unique audience participation program is as entertaining, enlightening and fascinating as its name: "Phenomena of the Mind."

Kolisch has appeared as a guest on countless radio and television programs, but his most impressive list of credits includes the hundreds of colleges and universities where he has performed in the United States and Canada.

Cattle Industry In Difficulty, Stangeland Says

Seventh District Congressman Arlan Stangeland said this week in testimony submitted to the House subcommittee on trade (ways and means committee) that "The beef cattle industry has been in severe financial difficulty for several years, and failure to pass a comprehensive countercyclical measure poses immediate danger to beef producers and long range implications for the consumer."

"It is imperative," Stangeland said, "that the present procyclical formula be reversed." The present meat import act is structured to allow for increased importation of beef when domestic production is high, and reduce imports when domestic production is low." Stangeland added, "This proposal should be adopted to protect the beef consuming public, and the beef producers in times of low beef production in the United States."

The beef cattle industry began experiencing problems in the late 1960's when the agriculture department determined that there would be an extreme shortage of beef for consumers somewhere in the future. These projections caused cattle producers to increase production to meet the needs outlined by the department.

Wage and price controls were instituted in the early 1970's, keeping beef prices at a steady level, but in the mid-1970's, when the controls were lifted, beef prices increased rapidly and consumers began boycotting beef for lower priced meats at a time when production was increasing. Many beef producers were forced out of business, thus having a negative impact on the nation's economic well-being.

"The purpose of this legislation is to reverse the procyclical formula, and bring economic order to the beef production industry," Stangeland said. "Wide price fluctuations, with four to give years of good prices and subsequent years of very low price, have hurt the producer, especially in these times of high inflation. We must have legislation that will assure the cattle producer of a reasonable level of fiscal stability and encourage increased beef production and protect the beef consumer," Stangeland said.

'KAWE' Call Letters Given Public Station

Federal Communications Commission recently announced the assignment of the call letters, KAWE, to Northern Minnesota public television, Inc. (NMPTV).

In January, NMPTV submitted five sets of proposed call letters to the FCC, which made the final determination. Earl Nyholm, assistant professor of Indian studies at Bemidji state university, had suggested KAWE to NMPTV. "Kawe", is an Ojibew word (pronounced kuh way") meaning "a matter of top priority".

A call sign is assigned to identify all broadcast licensees using the public airwaves. The new public TV station will be required to give its call sign, channel and location every hour it is on the air, as all TV stations must. The station plans to sign on the air this fall.

FmHA Office Hours Change Mon., May 14

Beginning Monday, May 14, offices of the Farmers Home administration will be open to the public from 9 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. on regularly scheduled office days and by individual appointment during the same hours on other weekdays.

For several years FmHA offices have been open to the public from 8 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. FmHA employees will continue to work a regular eight-hour day. In reducing public access to the offices by two hours a day, FmHA employees will have time to perform required administrative activities without interruption, according to FmHA state director John Apitz.

"By introducing this time management technique we will be able to provide more prompt and effective service to the public," Apitz said. "The overwhelming public demand for assistance from the Farmers Home administration dictates that we make the very best use of the time available to both handle inquiries and process application requests.

Farmers Home administration, a rural development agency of the U.S. department of agriculture, make loans and grants to family farmers, rural homeowners, small towns and rural businesses. In the past year FmHA provided over $250 million in assistance to individuals and groups in rural Minnesota. FmHA serves all areas in Minnesota through 50 county and seven district offices located in rural areas.

"While we expect some inconvenience to the public at first," Apitz said, "over the long run I believe we will be able to provide more help to those people who need our assistance the most."

carpenter-contractor and carpet layer, whereby I subcontract with some of the surrounding lumber dealers. I have been in this line of work for the past 14 years.

I am a member of St. Bernard's church, a life member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Military Order of Cooties, International War Veterans Alliance, Eagles, Legion and Elks. My wife and I have also been active as foster parents in the community and are licensed by the state of Minnesota to provide family day care.

Although I haven't had much formal education other than being a high school graduate and taking a few courses at the junior college, I feel that a genuine concern for our young people and our community is qualification enough for anyone in the school district to be a candidate for the school board.

I am presently serving as chairperson of the Northrop Title I program and as president of the parents advisory council for the District 564 Title I program. I feel Title I is an essential factor in teaching some of our children who need extra help in reading, math, language art skills and related supportive services, the basic good study habits they will need in the years to follow.

I do have several opinions of my own on things I would like to see changed in the school system, but I also feel that if I were to represent the people of the district on the school board I should get their opinions and vote on the issues according to how the majority of not only the parents and teachers feel, but the students as well.

One of my main concerns, however, is that the public should be better informed as to what is going on in the school system so that they will know the whys and wherefores and hear some of the suggestions on how to alleviate some of the problems that we now have.

Our main objective should be to better educate our young people and to work for the betterment of our community. Our young people in themselves are a very special class of people and they will be our community of tomorrow.

to encourage healthy work habits and to provide a sound academic foundation for advanced college or vocational training. Adequate facilities are needed to achieve this and it appears inevitable that a building program will be looked at by future school boards and taxpayers of the Thief River Falls school district.

Energy conservation is an existing necessity and in addition to the obvious need to plan for energy efficient buildings, we may have to take such measures as restricting travel. These efforts and requirements are as much due to limited fuel availability as they are to the cost. The duty to conserve energy should be done with a determination to balance a strong academic program with extra-curricular activities that maintain school pride.

I believe my 12 years of employment in public administration provide me with the ability to become a useful school board member. I am a graduate of Fosston high school and the University of Minnesota, Morris with a degree in sociology. My family and I moved to Thief River Falls from Hallock in December of 1973 when the Pennington county board appointed me director of the county welfare department.

My wife and I have three school age children and we are active members of Our Savior's Lutheran church, Kiwanis, Boy scouts, Gideons, Developmental Disabilities advisory board, child protection council and the alcohol and drug abuse committee are some of the local organizations in which I serve in various capacities. I encourage everyone to exercise their right to vote.

Being an employer now, I can understand the problems of management, negotiations and budgeting. Now that our school district is getting back to the basics, I'd like to express the views of the general working public by helping to make sure that your views are truly understood and expressed.

I am concerned how our school district spends its money and what we decide not to spend our money on. I have a child in elementary school, one in middle school and one in high school, so I have a good overall picture of the wishes, wants and needs of these different segments.

Being in the construction business should help shed some light on the alternatives we have to a giant expansion program now that we are faced with the problem of our existing facilities, and the decisions we have to make on whether to add on, remodel, reconstruct, re do, make do or build new. We must spend our tax dollars wisely and look at all alternatives thoroughly, not only for the welfare of our children, but also keeping in mind the ever-increasing demand on our personal spendable income. Let's have a school system that educates and trains our children to be independent, intelligent and responsible citizens. We don't need all the frills, but let's have enough to keep our kids interested in attending.

And let's not forget that these tax dollars are to be spent for the education of our children; they are the whole purpose of this school system. They are the hopes and dreams of us all. They are our future citizens. Let's make the right choices for them. Too many times we as taxpayers feel we don't have the time nor energy to get involved. The school district is faced with some serious problems that affect us all.

I have decided to take the time and expend the energy in helping to guide us through these changing times. Keeping this in mind, I ask for your support and a show of confidence in the upcoming school board election by voting for the candidate of your choice. If I am your choice, have confidence that I will do all I can for you and our children.

CONFERENCE OFFICERS of the Thief River Falls Conference of the American Lutheran Church Women, were elected at the convention held April 21 at Karlstad. interest in the direction our schools will be taking in these troubled times. I believe, now more than ever, people are interested and concerned about our schools. It is very important to keep the public informed as well as possible, and to listen to their views along the way. One thing I have learned, since becoming involved, is the problems belong to everyone, not just the board of education.

Our school system, like so many others, is being affected by inflation. These have been difficult times for our school board, in the last few years, to try to stretch our dollars and still maintain a high standard of education. Getting our dollars into the classroom should be our main objective.

As a parent, a home owner and a businessman, I feel I am capable in helping to make the decisions for quality education. The problems of today will be with us tomorrow, but hopefully, common sense will rule our judgment for the future.

Before moving to Thief River Falls, I was employed for two years as an instructor and coach at Minot state college. I also served as a high school instructor and coach at Carrington, N.D., and Neillsville, Wis. from 1960 to 1965.

My hometown is Ogema. I graduated from Waubun high school and Moorhead state university with my B.S. and M.S. degrees. Prior to college, I served two years in the U.S. army.

The board of education for School District 564 is faced with some very difficult decisions in the near future. The present facilities need to be evaluated and consideration given to a course of action concerning the reinstatement of some of the cutbacks in both academic and activity areas. Certainly a variety of options must be considered, public forums conducted and the board's recommendation presented to the voters of the district for the final decision.

I believe a strong academic program and balanced activity opportunities are essential if we are to provide quality education for our students. We must work to establish pride in the education we provide for our youth.

My educational background and 10 years of administrative experience will be an asset in making some of these difficult decisions in the best interest of the students and the taxpayers of School District 564.

I would like to encourage all eligible voters to vote in the May 15 election.

Annual School Elections Set Around Area

At Oklee incumbents George Lee with 18 years of service and Lester Vad have both filed for reelection and are opposed by John Olson. Vad has served two years after being elected to fill the unexpired term of Gary Mitchell. Polls will be open in the Oklee school library from 7 to 9 p.m.

With the terms of Ronald Engelstad and John Smeby expiring at Grygla, the annual school election will be held from 6 to 10 p.m. May 15 with polling places at the Grygla, Gatzke and Skime schools. Smeby, a 19-year veteran of the board, has filed for reelection but Engelstad, who has served eight years, did not file. Bruce Lunsetter has filed for the three-year term.

Strandquist school district, which is operating a year at a time due to small enrollment, will have three positions on the board to be filled. Terms of Orville Koland and Marlys Lefrooth expire this year and only Mrs. Lefrooth filed for reelection. A write-in vote will be necessary to fill the other three-year term. John Wawrzyniak has filed for the two-year unexpired term of Rick Anderson who resigned in December. Ambrose Kuznia had been appointed to fill that unexpired term but he did not file for election.

Eligible to vote in school elections are all Minnesota citizens 18 years of age and older who have been residents of the school district in which they intend to vote for 20 days or more.

Ontario Keeps Suspension Of Visitor Taxes

Visitors to Ontario will continue to enjoy suspension of the province's seven per cent accommodation retail sales tax until March 31, 1981, Ontario industry and tourism minister Larry Grossman said today.

"Continued suspension of the retail tax on taxable accommodation and meals under the American plan is aimed at stimulating the province's hospitality industry," Grossman explained.

"American tourists will also benefit from the devalued Canadian dollar with the American dollar now favored with an exchange rate of about 15 per cent."

Currency exchange services are available at Ontario banks as well as at travel information centers run by the ministry of industry and tourism in Niagara Falls, Windsor, Sault Ste. Marie, Hill Island and at the Bluewater bridge in Sarnia.

More than 40 out of every 100 adult American males are armed forces veterans.

Blood Pressure Clinics Held Twice A Month

Blood pressure clinics are held in the Pennington county nurse's office for people of all ages on the first and third Wednesday of each month from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., according to Terri Ford, public health nurse with the Inter-County nursing service. The office is located in the lower level of the county courthouse in Thief River Falls.

Efforts to achieve good health and a longer life reflect a current trend among Americans today, the nurse said. People are exercising more, improving their eating habits and giving up smoking. As a result, they feel better and are helping themselves to a healthier life.

"For some persons," she said, "one way to achieve a long and healthy life is to take medication regularly. That's one of the things a doctor might prescribe if a patient has high blood pressure. When high blood pressure is not detected and treated, it makes a person especially susceptible to a stroke, heart disease, kidney disease or other disabilities.

"Medication is only effective each day it's taken. If patients do no understand this aspect of the treatment regimen, they may think that a lowered blood pressure means it's been cured. That's not true. If they stop taking medication, their blood pressures will probably go back up again. High blood pressure must be treated one day at a time, every day."

In addition to medication, physicians often advise patients with high blood pressure to stop smoking, lose weight, reduce salt in their diet and exercise more, the public health nurse said.

"Some diseases have obvious symptoms, such as a cough or a rash that can be treated," she added. "High blood pressure is not like that. It usually has no symptoms. People taking medication for high blood pressure should take it every day even though they have no symptoms."

She also said there is confusion between the medical term for high blood pressure (hypertension) and nervous tension. Calm people as well as nervous people can have high blood pressure. The only way to find out is to have it measured. That is the reason for the regular blood pressure checks in the county nurse's office.

Apollo Is TRF Tennis Challenger

Lincoln high school tennis coach Whitey Olson discovered Saturday when his Prowlers were competing in an eight-team invitational tournament at St. Cloud that St. Cloud Apollo and not St. Cloud Tech is considered the top team in the south half of Region 8AA this spring. Thief River Falls is heavily favored in the north half.

Thief River Falls edged Apollo 15-14 for third place in Saturday's tournament that was won by Hibbing with 21 points, three ahead of Iron Range rival Virginia with 18. Those four teams will likely be finalists in Region 8AA and Region 7AA, with the 8AA and 7AA winners scheduled to be paired off in a first round Class AA state tournament match Tues., May 29, at Bemidji.

Olson was under the assumption that St. Cloud Tech, with basketball-playing John Schwanberg in the line-up, would be a strong Region 8AA contender. But Schwanberg isn't playing tennis this spring and the Tigers were a distant sixth in Saturday's tournament.

UMC Athletic Funds Near Vote

State Senator Roger Moe told Clind Claybrook of the Crookston Times that there appears to be "clear sailing ahead" for a new $3.4 million physical education building and outdoor sports complex for the University of Minnesota technical college at Crookston.

The proposal was approved by the Senate finance subcommittee last week and is scheduled to be voted on by the Senate finance committee, which Moe chairs, today. An identical funding bill cleared the house education appropriations committee earlier, so the proposal appears headed farily soon for floor debate in the two houses.

Crookston hopes to have the sports complex and physical education building ready for use by the fall of 1980 said UMC provot, Dr. Stanley Sahlstrom. The building will include a multi-use gymnasium with seating for 3,500, new lockerrooms, a classroom, weight and training rooms and a handball court. Outdoor facilities include a football field, soccer field, softball and track facilities and tennis courts.

Moe, a DFLer from Ada, said he expects "no problem" in steering the appropriations through the senate finance committee. Moe pointed out that the Crookston proposals were included in Gov. Al Quie's capital improvements budget for the university system of some $43 million.

Miscellaneous

+ Dean Long, head baseball coach at Fergus Falls high school, told Bruce Bakke of the Fergus Falls Journal that he is concerned primarily this season with his pitching staff. "We have speed to burn and we should be strong defensively," said Long, "and if our pitchers can hit the plate we'll be a contender." The Otters will be in Thief River Falls Friday for a 3 p.m. doubleheader.

+ Bemidji high school's 1979-80 hockey schedule will include Grand Forks Red River, Grand Forks Central and Edina West, all of whom will play in Bemidji, instead of Bloomington Kennedy, St. Paul Academy and Superior.

+ One day after Brainerd high school basketball center Ran Falenschek signed a national letter of intent to attend Iowa State, another Brainerd athlete — John Olsen who played the last two years at Brainerd community college — signed a letter of intent with West Texas State University. Coach Ken Edwards of West Texas State signed Olsen, who enjoyed a great deal of success aginst Northland in four meetings, and said, "We looked at seven kids 6-8 or better. John is our first choice. I don't know why he's been overlooked. If he played in California, every college in the country would be after him. We all know he can play Division II. We think he can play Division I." West Texas State is a Division I school whose past performers included Maurice Cheeks, a member of the Philadelphia 76ers of the NBA. Other schools slowing an interest in Olsen were the University of Minnesota-Morris, North Dakota State University, University of Minnesota-Duluth, Upsala College in New Jersey and the University of Wisconsin-Stout.

+ Brainerd high school hockey team, which has had difficulty finding games against Section 8 opponents, has added sectional foes Bemidji and Fergus Falls to its 1979-80 schedule.

Trap League Starts Tonight

Thief River Falls trap league shooting will begin tonight at 5 p.m. at the Marshallton Gun club located 12 miles north of Thief River Falls on highway 59, one mile west and one and one-quarter miles south.

NORTHLAND COMMUNITY college freshman Chris Kays of Thief River Falls defeated Tim Hennum of Willmar 10-4 Friday at second singles in the sports arena as the Northmen clinched an MJCAA Northwest Division title tie with a 6-3 victory over the Warriors.

TRF Strategy Fails In 6-5 Loss To Lumberjacks

Playing the percentages didn't work out for Lincoln high school baseball coach Charlie Cornell Thursday as his Prowlers dropped a cold 6-5 Northwest Athletic Conference decision to Bemidji.

In a pair of moves that failed to produce the desired results, Cornell ordered an intentional walk in the first inning that was followed by an unintentional bases-loaded walk for a 1-1 tie, and in the sixth inning he motioned his rightfielder in, only to have a bases-loaded opposite field double cross him up.

Cornell defended his moves by saying, "They seemed to be the right things to do at the time. Obviously they didn't work."

The outcome — the first Region 8AA Sub Region 4 match-up of the season — left Bemidji unbeaten with a 5-0 record and Thief River Falls winless with an 0-3 mark. However, Cornell insists there isn't much difference between the two clubs, a feeling based partly on the numbers that showed Bemidji with four hits and five errors to Thief River Falls' five hits and two errors.

"It was a good ball-game," said Cornell. "We played good defense with only two errors. They (errors) hurt us, but two errors per game is pretty darn good for a high school team, especially in the weather we've been playing in."

Thief River Falls started with a 1-0 lead in the top of the first inning when Paul Drees reached base on an error at shortstop and Murray Dicken hit a ball to the outfield fence for a three-base error.

That first ill-fated move by Cornell tied the game at 1-1 in the bottom of the first. With two out, two on and hard-hitting John Noga coming to bat, Cornell ordered an intentional walk. The strategy nearly worked as Dicken threw two strikes past Jeff Beaulieu, but then threw four straight balls for a walk. He then struck out Leon Black.

Jeff Ulrich's two-out, two-run single provided Thief River Falls with a 3-1 lead in the second.

Bemidji pulled within 3-2 in the fifth when Black produced a bases-loaded sacrifice fly.

Thief River Falls appeared to take command in the sixth with two runs and a 5-2 lead. Dicken started it with a lead-off triple and scored when Bemidji committed an error on a squeeze bunt. Singles by Jeff Kosel and Mark Huot brought home the second run of the inning.

But Bemidji answered with four runs in the bottom of the sixth to pull out the win. Three successive walks loaded the bases and an error on a potential double play ball hit by Noga scored two runs. Dicken issued his eighth walk of the game to load the bases once again, prompting a relief appearance by Scott Sabo.

That also brought about Cornell's outfield positioning that looked bad in light of Black's two-run, game-winning opposite field double over the drawn-in outfielder's head.

It was the second straight late game come-from-behind win for the Lumberjacks who scored five runs in the bottom of the seventh inning earlier in the week in a 5-3 win over Hibbing when Roger Degerman hit a bases loaded single — his fourth hit of the game — and Bob Orgon smacked a two-out, two-run home run to break a 3-3 tie.

Those are the kind of blows Thief River Falls has been lacking in collecting just 11 hits in three games. "We're still looking for that big hitter," admitted Cornell.

Wet weather forced cancellation of Thief River Falls' scheduled appearance in Saturday's four-team Moorhead invitational tournament.

Thief River Falls and Bemidji will have a rematch Thursday at 4:30 p.m. when the Prowlers open their 1979 home season. But first Thief River Falls plays at Red Lake Falls Tuesday at 4:30 in a game that was originally scheduled to be played here.

Short 1979 Lincoln Girls Golf Season Is Underway

A brief three-week 1979 season began Thursday for members of the Lincoln high school girls golf team. The Prowlers placed fifth in a nine-team event at Bagley.

Roseau won the meet with a five-player score of 283, followed by Fosston at 287, Crookston 291, Mahnomen 313, Thief River Falls 328, Red Lake Falls 337, McIntosh-Winger 339, Bagley 339 and East Grand Forks 359.

Nancy Harris of Roseau and Beth Engelsgaard of Fosston shared medalist honors with 50s. Missy Viker of Mahnomen followed with a 52.

Senior Shari Idso and junior Kathy Walker turned in 60s for the Prowlers. Junior Janell Kain had a 63, senior Liz Brodin 69 and junior Dayne Spencer 76.

"We've got a little bit of potential," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Sylvia Sjoberg, "but we don't have a long enough season to do much with it. I think I've got some girls who could have been pretty good golfers if they would have worked at it last fall. But three weeks just isn't enough time to develop anything this spring."

Last year's top teams in northwestern Minnesota — Roseau and Fosston — are again expected to be the leaders this spring, witnessed by their one-two finish at Bagley. Harris and Engelsgaard will likely continue to be the individual pace setters in the area meets that include the Thief River Falls invitational Thurs., May 17, a 10 a.m. affair on the Thief River Falls Country Club golf course.

Sophomores Carrie Thompson and Terryl Schwartz could join Thursday's golfers in the Thief River Falls line-up sometime this spring. The Prowlers will golf at Roseau Wednesday at 1 p.m. and will compete at Mahnomen Friday at 10 a.m.

Northwomen To Host Itasca

Snowed out of a scheduled tournament appearance at Hibbing Friday, the Northland community college women's softball team is scheduled to return to action Tuesday with a 1 p.m. doubleheader against Itasca in Thief River Falls.

Prowlers Sweep Titles In Conference Tennis Meet

Duplicating its 1978 performance, Thief River Falls swept all five events Thursday in winning the 1979 Northwest Athletic Conference tennis meet at East Grand Forks. The Prowlers were easy winners with 18 points, followed by Crookston with 11, Fergus Falls 10, Bemidji 9 and East Grand Forks 2.

Thief River Falls juniors Bill Jury, Mitch Rustad and Bill Holmes breezed through the singles competition with a minimum of opposition, winning 108 games while losing only 14. Rustad won 36 of 37 games in taking the NWAC number two singles title for the second straight year.

It was the third conference crown for Jury at number one singles. He won the title outright in 1978 after sharing it with Duke Thorson of Bemidji and Steve Hatchner of Fergus Falls in 1977.

Things weren't quite as easy for the Prowlers in doubles where tie-breaking procedures gave them championship medals.

Senior Bill Michalek and junior Tom Bjorkman of Thief River Falls won three of four matches in first doubles — a record equalled by Craig Woolson and Phil Hatcher of Fergus Falls. But Michalek and Bjorkman got the medals since they edged Woolson and Hatchner 10-8 in head-to-head competition.

Second doubles featured Thief River Falls, Bemidji and Fergus Falls with three points apiece. And since the extremely tight competition included a Thief River Falls win over Fergus Falls, a Fergus Falls win over Bemidji and a Bemidji win over Thief River Falls, junior Mark Collins and sophomore Mark Lundin of the Prowlers earned the medals based upon fewer losses. The Thief River Falls pair lost 20 games, Bemidji 21 and Fergus Falls 24.

"We were fortunate to win the medals in both doubles" acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Whitey Olson.

Jury Titlist At St. Cloud

Bill Jury was a champion at first singles Saturday as the Lincoln high school tennis team participated in an eight-team invitational tournament at St. Cloud.

Hibbing won the meet with 21 points, followed by Virginia 18, Thief River Falls 15, St. Cloud Apollo 14, Stillwater 10, St. Cloud Tech 9, Anoka 5 and Litchfield 3.

"With everything taken into consideration, we did as well as we could that day," mentioned Thief River Falls coach Whitey Olson. "Like in any tournament of this kind where you draw and play only one side, the draw means everything. If you draw the best players, obviously you're going to have a hard time winning."

Jury went through number one singles with wins over Merical of Wadena 8-5, Chez of Hibbing 8-2 and Marcella of Virginia 6-2, 6-1.

Mitch Rustad of Thief River Falls took the fifth place consolation title at second singles, losing to eventual champion McDaniels of Hibbing 8-5 indoors before going outside to beat Kueng of Anoka 5-7, 6-4, 6-1 and Deutch of Virginia 6-7, 6-2, 7-5.

The Prowlers' Bill Holmes reached the finals at third singles before Lipovetz of Hibbing beat him 4-6, 6-1, 6-0. Earlier Holmes stopped Station of Anoka 8-5 and Wandnacher of Stillwater 8-7.

Bill Michalek and Tom Bjorkman of the Prowlers lost twice before finishing with a 6-2, 7-5 seventh place victory over McKenzie and Snegosky of Litchfield. They lost to eventual champions Johnson and Idlestein of Virginia 8-2 and fell to Heimerman and Schneider of Stillwater 8-5.

In second doubles, Thief River Falls' Mark Collins and Mark Lundin beat Grams and Sheton of Litchfield 8-5 but lost to Sutherland and Aamodt of Stillwater 8-2, with the third place match to Peterson and Pflipson of Apollo 5-7, 6-3, 6-4.

Northmen Earn Division Title Tie In Tennis

A split Friday against MJCAA Northwest Division opponents Willmar and Fergus Falls clinched at least a divisional title tie for the Northland community college tennis team.

Coach Irv Smith's Northmen began the day with a 6-3 victory over Willmar but lost the second half of the doubleheader to Fergus Falls 5-4 to complete its 1979 regular season MJCAA schedule with a 4-1 dual meet record.

Freshmen Bernie Brandon (Mahnomen) and Chris Kays (Thief River Falls) remained unbeaten at number one singles for the Northmen. They beat Mike Aageson and Tim Hennum of Willmar 10-3 in pro sets and then handled Brian Heggestad and Tim Champ of Fergus Falls 6-1, 6-2.

Kays has also shown steady improvement in singles where he picked up two easy victories at number two Friday with wins over Hennum 10-4 and Champ 6-0, 6-1.

"Obviously Kays is coming into his own in singles," pointed out Smith. "He is really playing well."

Northland Frustrated In Close Doubleheader Loss

Pitching staff on the Northland community college baseball team continues to perform in impressive manner, but the punchless Northmen still cannot provide adequate offensive support to make those pitchers winners.

Northland pitchers Bruce Williams and Brian Peterson limited Crookston to seven hits and just one earned run Friday but still came up losers in an MJCAA Northwest Division doubleheader sweep by the host Trojans 3-2 and 2-0. Remarkably, those scores were identical to those in Northland's doubleheader loss at Fergus Falls four days earlier when the Northmen surrendered just five hits.

"It's frustrating as hell," said Northland coach Chet Engelman. "Our pitchers have pitched good baseball."

That frustration also stems from the weather that forced postponement of today's (Monday) scheduled home debut for the Northmen against Fergus Falls. It was the second time the Northmen and Spartans were weathered out of twinbill here. Northland, 0-6, will be idle until Wed., May 16, when Crookston visits Thief River Falls for a 12 noon doubleheader.

Crookston 3
Northland 2

With the score tied at 2-2, two out and nobody on in the bottom of the seventh inning, Friday's first game appeared to be headed for extra innings. However, three consective Northland errors plated the winning run in a 3-2 Crookston victory. The errors — the sixth, seventh and eighth of the game for the Northmen — included two misplays at shortstop and a dropped fly ball in right field.

An RBI single by Mark Thorstad, who was 3-for-3 for the game, provided Northland with a 1-0 first inning lead after a walk and a stolen base by Keith Charbonneau.

Crookston went ahead 2-1 in the third on a two-out, two-run double by Dan Bachmeier.

Northland tied it 2-2 in the top of the seventh when Brad Kosel singled with two out and, running with the pitch, scored from first on a single by Charbonneau.

Single runs in the fifth and sixth innings completed a 3½ hour doubleheader sweep for Crookston as the Trojans won the second game 2-0.

A scoreless tie was broken in the fifth when Jack Kern hit a two-out single up the middle, Dan Pecrina walked and Doug Johnson hit a ball that bounced over the third baseman's head for the run.

In the sixth, Al Cota singled down the right field line, moved to third on an error and scored on a double steal.

LHS Golf JV Is Triangular Meet Winner

First outing of the 1979 season for the Lincoln high school junior varsity golf team produced a victory Thursday in a triangular meet at Detroit Lakes where Thief River Falls shot a 374, Bemidji 392 and Detroit Lakes 396.

Meet medalist was Thief River Falls' Jeff Imgrund with an 84. Other scores for the winners included Mike Anderson with an 85, Mark Isaacson 88, Jon Onkka 91, Brian Ranum 101 and Jim Hellie 107.

Fanfulik, Riewer Are Selected For All-Star Football Contest

Brian Fanfulik of Warren, Tom Riewer of Bagley and Mike Johnson of Bemidji are among the 72 outstanding players that have been selected for the sixth annual Minnesota high school all-star football game scheduled for Fri., July 27, at Parade Stadium in downtown Minneapolis.

Players were chosen by a committee of high school coaches who reviewed 261 nominees for the game before selecting the North and South teams. For the nominating process, the state's conferences were divided equally into North and South groups. "This is the first year that we've done it this way and we think it's the best method of dividing the state," said game manager Ron Raveling.

Each team will have two quarterbacks, five running backs, three offensive ends, tackles and guards, two centers, three defensive ends and tackles, two nose guards, four linebackers and six defensive backs. Raveling, head coach at Columbia Heights high school, said that the positions of some players will change. "This always happens after the coaches have a look at the players in practice," he added.

Raveling expects a close and exciting game. "The South leads the series 3-2 and all the games have been competitive," he said. "With just nine days practice time, the game coaches have learned that it's easier to get a passing game ready than a running game. We've got good passers and receivers this year. This might be our best game yet."

The Human Growth Foundation and the Minnesota high school football coaches association are co-sponsoring the game. Proceeds from the game will go to the foundation which is a nonprofit organization concerned with the process of physical growth.

Tickets for the game are $5 each. Tickets can be obtained from high school coaches, Dayton's and by calling (612) 831-2780. Or by writing to High School All Star Bow. of Minnesota, Inc., 4930 West 77th Street Suite 150, Minneapolis, 55435.

Conservation Hall Of Fame Enlarged

Ernest Fremont Swift, hard-driving and outspoken conservationist from Wisconsin, has been elected to the conservation hall of fame, eleven years after his death at the age of 70.

As a young game warden in the 1920's, Swift was the target of an attempted execution by a notorious Chicago gang which didn't appreciate his strict enforcement of the poaching laws. A reformed poacher himself, Swift went on to become Wisconsin's top conservationist and eventually the executive director of the National Wildlife Federation.

Swift is the 17th American conservationist to be inducted into the hall of fame established in 1964 by NWF and its bi-monthly magazine, National Wildlife. His painted portrait will join those of his fellow hall-of-famers in NWF's national headquarters in Washington.

While head of the Wisconsin conservation department for six years in the late 40's and early 50's, Swift was in the vanguard of the fight to preserve the boundary waters canoe area in Minnesota. And he managed to get no less than 70 of 100 bills written by his agency passed into law.

Some of these laws were landmark achievements, including measures in forestry protection and the requirement that resource decisions be based on scientific research. Swift also brought biologists into the conservation department for the first time, which is how he came to know the University of Wisconsin ecologist, Aldo Leopold. The two conservationists became good friends and had a profound impact on one another.

In 1953, Swift became the assistant director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, where he fought oil drilling on federal lands. But the job lasted only 18 months. He was appalled at the political compromises he saw around him, so when the opportunity arose to become executive director of NWF, Swift jumped at it.

For five years, Swift helped lay the groundwork for the growth of the country's largest environmental organization. He helped persuade the Pentagon to follow good conservation practices on military lands and worked closely with Congress to help shape the first U.S. wilderness act.

Swift was a prolific writer, voicing his environmental views in many publications over the years. He also wrote two books, one of which, "A Conservation Saga," has become a minor classic.

In the 1960's just as the environmental movement was becoming fashionable, Swift retired to Rice Lake, Wis., with his wife Goldie. He died there in 1968. Apparently, Swift found some of the environmental movement's new leaders lacking. He once wrote to a friend, "They never fought the battle when the going was rough and the pay was poor. Most of them couldn't heat water for a one-chair barber shop."

Conservation hall-of-famers are named posthumously. Other members, listed in the order they were named, are:

Theodore Roosevelt (1859-1919), 26th U.S. President, created the U.S. Forest Service and the national wildlife refuge system.

Jay Norwood (Ding) Darling (1876-1962), Pulitzer Prize-winning cartoonist, one-time director of the biological survey, first president of the National Wildlife Federation.

John James Audubon (1785-1851), ornithologist-artist whose works laid a foundation for the conservation movement by stirring public interest in natural history.

Henry David Thoreau (1817-1862), philosopher and pioneer conservationist, early advocate of setting aside wilderness areas for future generations.

1967

H. H. Bennett (1881-1960), founder of U.S. soil conservation service, helped check severe erosion of American farmlands.

1968

Gifford Pinchot (1865-1946), counselled wise use and management of resources to Theodore Roosevelt; first chief of U.S. Forest Service.

1969

John Wesley Powell (1834-1902), influenced conservation policies through the geological survey, the bureau of reclamation, the bureau of mines.

Stephen Tyng Mather (1867-1930), first director of national park service, pushed development of both state and national parks.

1971

William Temple Hornaday (1854-1937), shaped wildlife conservation laws that saved the American bison and Alaskan fur seal from extinction; taught importance of saving endangered species.

1972

Rachel Carson (1907-1964), marine biologist who alerted public to danger of pesticides in book "Silent Spring."

1973

George Bird Grinnell (1849-1938), founder of Audubon Society, advocated strict enforcement of game laws and management of timberlands.

1975

John Burroughs (1837-1921), naturalist who brought conservation awareness to millions by popularizing the "nature essay" as a literary genre.

1977

Camping Time

Spring fever really is a disease.

Anyone clearing out the garage, basement and attic will agree they are thinking about the much needed vacation just ahead — after they relocate their fishing gear, that is.

The tent can use a few needed repairs. . . get the kid's bikes fixed. . . time to invest in another boat and motor. . . kids are already scrapping who sleeps where . . . mother worries who will take care of her house plants and pet canary. . . dad is thinking seriously that he may increase his bank loan. . . the family to put their heads and maps together because it's a family decision . . .

And while everyone is busily engaged in preparing for some destination the resorters and the camping areas are also sprucing up, preparing for their new season of tourists.

Gas stations are beginning to wonder which of their lot will be the one open during certain weekends — if at all. We who dare to plan to get out and away from it all wonder about the gas situation, too. It's a time of wondering. It's part of spring fever!

In Memoriam

A tribute of life and love, to my Dad, Gunnie Gunderson, born April 25, 1899, who passed away two years ago on May 7, 1977, husband, father, greatgrandfather. Dad was a quiet man, with the essence of friendship, you felt like a giant with silver wings; he was content a [illegible] ad, that marked his sincere gratitude, for the blessings that he had. No day has passed since his leaving that I have failed to turn over in my mind every memory I had of him. He was a farmer and pioneer in Deer Park, his neighbors, best in all the world. He was determined to be his own man, in his own place at one with the land. He was no scientist, but he knew good soil and nature, the new ways were not always reliable as the old, time-tested ways. We stand in awe when one recounts the struggles and many things he did. He'd sign a note for anyone who came to him in need. He'd load a horse, a scythe, a plow, he'd share his cherished seed, he'd leave a sack of potatoes, flour or meat at some weathered door and how, great humility, his deeds were often hidden. The final farewell to those days came along with changing modern economics. But the scars, calloused hands and lined face are from a life of honor, he wouldn't trade places with any man on earth, no shop in the world sells happiness. He loved his God and worked for Him and for his fellow man, that's all on earth that one can do to fulfill Heaven's plan. For one could travel far and wide yet never find a spirit, with such access to Heaven's rest and so much to inherit, the beauty of your life remains, your faith and eager search for truth, the inspiration that you left, a challenge great will be God does prevail, we dare not fail, to earn eternity.

Sadly missed and remembered forever by wife Alice, sons, daughters and grandchildren.

BEFORE THE MINNESOTA PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION

Katherine E. Sasseville............Chairwoman
Roger L. Hanson............Commissioner
Lillian Warren Lecomberry............Commissioner
Richard J. Parish............Commissioner
Juanita R. Satterlee............Commissioner

Docket No. P-421/GR-79-388

In the Matter of the Petition by Northwestern Bell Telephone Company, Minneapolis, Minnesota, for Authority to Change its Schedule of Telephone Rates for Customers within the State of Minnesota.

NOTICE AND ORDER FOR HEARING

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that a contested hearing in the above-entitled matter will be held, commencing with a pre-hearing conference at 9:30 a.m. on May 11, 1979, in the Large Hearing Room, Seventh Floor, American Center Building, 160 East Kellogg Boulevard, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101 and continuing on dates to be set by the presiding officer at the prehearing conference.

This hearing is being ordered by the Minnesota Public Service Commission ("Commission") to investigate the necessity for and reasonableness of certain telephone rate increases proposed by Northwestern Bell Telephone Company ("Petitioner" or "the Company") in Petitioner's Notice of Rate Change filed with the Commission on April 6, 1979. The Commission is authorized to conduct this hearing by Minn. Stat. S 237.075 (1978). The proposed increase in rates will provide the Company with an opportunity to earn $28.382 million a year in overall additional revenues, which would increase its Minnesota revenues by 5.55%. Rate increases for difference classes of customers and services may be greater or lesser than 5.55%. The proposed increase will apply to all communication service offerings of the Company except for those noted below.*

The Commission has suspended the rate schedule filed by the Company pending the hearing ordered herein. However, the Company has notified the Commission that it will exercise its statutory right to place increased rates into effect on July 7, 1979, subject to refund if the Commission ultimately orders a lesser increase. The Participating Department Staff of the Minnesota Department of Public Service and the Office of Consumer Services of the Minnesota Department of Commerce have filed a joint motion to restrain the Company from placing its revised schedules of rates and charges in effect. The motion contends generally that the Company's rates under bond are unreasonable because they do not conform with certain determinations of the Commission in its Order in Docket No. P-421/GR-77-1509. The Commission hereby retains jurisdiction to determine the motion and will do so by separate order.

A copy of the Company's requested rates is on file in the offices of the Department of Public Service, and is open to public inspection during normal office hours. A copy of the Company's rate filing also is available for public inspection during normal office hours at the Company's general office in Minneapolis.

The hearings on the petition will be conducted by a Hearing Examiner appointed by the Chief Hearing Examiner of the State of Minnesota, and will be held in compliance with the applicable laws relating to the Public Service Commission, the Administrative Procedure Act (Minn. Stat. S 15.0411-.052) and the rules of the Office of Hearing Examiners (9 Minnesota Code of Administrative Rules 2.201-222) and the rules of practice of the Public Service Commission (4 MCAR 4.500-521) to the extent that they have not been superceded by the rules of the Office of Hearing Examiners. These rules may be purchased from the Documents Section of the Department of Administration, 140 Centennial Building, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155 (612) 296-2874). These rules provide generally for the procedural rights of the parties including: rights to advance notice of witnesses and evidence, right to a prehearing conference, rights to present evidence and cross-examine witnesses, and rights to purchase a record or transcript. Parties are entitled to issuance of subpoenas to compel witnesses to attend and produce documents and other evidence.

Any person intending to intervene as a formal party to these hearings must submit a petition for leave to intervene to the Hearing Examiner and serve the petition on all existing parties. All petitions to intervene must comply with 9 MCAR 2.210. The petition must state how the petitioner's legal rights, duties, or privileges may be affected by the Commission's decision in the matter. All parties have the right to be represented by legal counsel.

Potential intervenors shall attend the prehearing conference scheduled above with information which will facilitate the scheduling of hearings permitting all of the parties to present their evidentiary views in a manner and within a time frame that would be as fair and expeditious as possible. Matters which may be discussed include: the reasonable time period required to prepare direct testimony for filing on all of the issues including those discussed below; the time period for preparation of direct testimony by intervenors; recommended areas for hearings to receive public input regarding the petition; and other matters that will facilitate full and fair hearings on the petition.

Following the contested hearings, the Commission may approve all or any part of the rate increase proposed by the Company but may not approve an overall increase greater than that proposed by the Company. However, the Commission may adjust rates for classes of customers to levels greater than those proposed by the Company and may make other rate adjustments based upon the testimony of parties other than the Company. If no person contests the proposed rate increase at this hearing, the rates may be approved as proposed by the Company.

Any questions concerning informal disposition of this matter or discovery of information should be addressed to Jerome L. Getz, Assistant Attorney General, 720 American Center Building, 150 East Kellogg Boulevard, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101 (Phone: (612) 296-6030).

All other questions concerning this hearing should be addressed to the Hearing Examiner assigned to this hearing:

LEONARD A. NELSON
Minnesota State Office of Hearing Examiners
1745 University Avenue
St. Paul, Minnesota 55104
(612) 296-8119

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the Hearing Examiner shall give consideration to the recommendations contained in a rate case management study performed by the National Regulatory Research Institute for the Department of Public Service to the extent that it is fair and reasonable to do so under the circumstances of this case. It is the desire of the Commission that the hearings process be conducted as expeditiously as possible consistent with the reasonable needs of the parties to adequately develop and present their positions. Therefore, all potential intervenors shall attend the prehearing conference.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that Petitioner shall facilitate in every reasonable way the investigations of the Department of Public Service and the Office of Consumer Services which should commence forthwith after the issuance of this Order. All parties shall furnish adequate responses within 10 days to all reasonable information requests by other parties.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the Company and the Administrative Division of the Department of Public Service submit testimony concerning the propriety of expenses incurred in purchases from and fees paid to its affiliates including in particular:

a) Purchases from Western Electric, including the appropriate rate of return which should be allowed on Western sales if the Commission should find that Western's prices are determined on a monopolistic basis and that Northwestern Bell does not give products of competitors serious consideration if Western products are readily available;

b) Expenses for management services entitled "Business Information Systems" provided by Bell Laboratories, including whether the used and useful concept should be applied to such expenses;

c) License fees paid to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, including whether license fees should be disallowed to the extent that they reflect AT&T expenditures for lobbying, research and development, charitable contributions, and holding company fees.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the following issues shall be addressed by the parties:

1. Appropriate rates to be charged Minnesota residents served by exchanges in states adjacent to Minnesota and whether the rates of these subscribers should be changed as a result of this proceeding.

2. Consideration of directory assistance charging and the Company's experience under the directory assistance plan in the previous rate case.

3. The feasibility of offering measured meter service statewide.

4. An examination of the pricing of Minneapolis-St. Paul local exchange service.

5. An examination of Extended Area Service between the Minneapolis-St. Paul exchange and exchanges having access to the metropolitan area.

6. An examination of intra-state toll schedules with particular reference to the present short-haul toll rates.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that this Order shall be served on the Company and that the Company shall mail copies of the same to all counties and municipalities in its service territory, including Minnesota residents served by foreign exchanges, and also all parties of record in its two most recent contested rate cases before the Commission, and on all persons deemed interested by the Department of Public Service. The Company shall also publish notice of the commencement of the hearing at least 10 days prior to the date established herein in the legal newspaper in each county seat town in its service territory.

BY ORDER OF THE COMMISSION
/S/ STEPHEN A. FINN
Acting Secretary

Three Honored At Appreciation Dinner Wed.

Honored at the annual teachers' appreciation dinner which was held Wednesday, April 25, at the American Legion club in Thief River Falls were Dorothy Halverson, retiring teacher; Ray Olson, AVTI teacher of the year; and Jay Borchert, outstanding lay person.

Dorothy Halvorson, third grade teacher at Northrop, will retire after the 1978-79 school year having taught for 38 years, 22 of which were spent in the Thief River Falls school district. Halvorson was presented with a set of engraved bookends in the shape of two old fashioned school desks in recognition of her years of service. Making the presentation on behalf of the Thief River Falls education association was Dorothy Olson who is also employed at Northrup.

Ray Olson who received recognition as 1979 AVTI teacher of the year is the instructor in the auto mechanics department of the area vocational technical institute. He has been with the school district since 1959.

Chosen by the Thief River Falls education association to be the recipient of a new award for the outstanding lay person was Jay Borchert. Borchert was chosen on the basis of the leadership he provided in the controversy regarding the scheduling of the kindergarten program. The education association felt his efforts indicated a desire to promote quality education in the community.

Serving as master of ceremonies at the appreciation dinner was Bob Reeve, an AVTI instructor and past Kramer-Brown Uniserve chairperson. Special guests included school board member Ken Murphy and his wife, Wanda; Superintendent William Corliss and his wife, Marge; and chamber of commerce executive Norm Cruse and his wife Marie. Cruse presented a recognition plaque to Dorothy Halvorson on behalf of the chamber.

Entertainment for the dinner was provided by the Franklin middle school music department under the direction of Mike Lehr and John Hustad. "Morning Darkness' instrumental group played a variety of popular and jazz music accompanying the vocal group "Sunrise."

38-YEAR VETERAN TEACHER, Dorothy Halvorson (right), will retire after the 1978-79 school year. A third grade teacher at Northrup, Dorothy has been with the Thief River Falls school district for 22 years. Halvorson was honored Wednesday at the annual teacher's appreciation dinner and presented with a pair of engraved bookends. Pictured making the presentation of the bookends on behalf of the TRF education association is Dorothy Olson, also a Northrup elementary teacher.

AVTI TEACHER OF THE YEAR, Ray Olson (right), was honored at the annual teachers' appreciation dinner held Wednesday, April 25, at the American Legion club in Thief River Falls. Master of ceremonies for the evening, Bob Reeve, is shown offering congratulations to Olson who has been an instructor in the auto mechanics department of the AVTI for 20 years.

M. Erickson's Dairy Herd Leads DHIA

Myron Erickson's dairy herd led the Pennington county dairy herd improvement association on average test for the month of March, according to Jerry Hamre, supervisor. Erickson's herd averaged 57.1 pounds of milk and 2.20 pounds of butterfat a day for the month.

Second place herd in March was the Orlan Stolaas herd, with an average of 54.7 pounds of milk and 1.90 pounds of butterfat.

Other herds in the top ten were from the following farms with daily milk and butterfat production listed respectively: Marvin Koop, 50.2 and 1.88; Roy Nelson, 49.7 and 1.84; Knute Nesland, 48.9 and 1.83; Roger Walter, 48.1 and 1.80; Darrow Lundeen and Sons, 47.8 and 1.68; Duane Krohn, 47.6 and 1.76; Robert Rausch, 46.7 and 1.74; and Pearson Bros. Farm, 46.5 and 1.87.

Hamre points out that herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd since the amount of milk or butterfat produced is averaged out over all the cows. This gives the farmer a record of his herd's earning power for the month. If many dry cows are included in the herd, the average for the month may be low even if cows in production are high volume producers.

Twenty-eight DHIA herds were on test in March with four owner samples. There were 21 cows that produced over 600 pounds of fat in 305 days or less, coming from the herds of Orlan Stolaas, Merle Lundeen, Gordon Wetterlund and Son, Myron Erickson, Mylo Carlson, Warren and Lowell Hamrick, Gary Boughton, Clarence Swanson, Gene Nelson, Duane Krohn, James Muzzy, Knute Nesland and the Swanson Bros. Farm.

ORIGINAL DESIGNS to suit a mood or situation are created by Meredith Armstrong in her expanded hobby of working with stained glass. After nearly a year of work at Poppler's Furniture store where she worked in sales and interior design, she has left that position to devote more time to stained glass work. She is shown in her basement work room putting finishing touches on a design for a large window to be installed in an area home. Artistic ability and an eye for color combined with a creative mind help produce items of beauty with originality.

Stained Glass Is Armstrong Interest

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

There are at least two things that Meredith Armstrong isn't likely to do: Miss her husband's Sunday morning sermon at First Baptist church or walk barefoot in the basement workroom where he cuts glass for her creative stained glass windows. Either one could have serious consequences.

Mrs. Armstrong has had artistic ability from an early age and has been playing around with stained glass for the last dozen years. Recently she left her job at Poppler's Furniture in Thief River Falls to go into almost full time work in the designing, creating, assembling and installing of stained glass items.

Operating under the name of "Designs by MEA" (MEA are her initials), Meredith is expanding on a hobby which has provided her and her family with both a fascinating passtime and some unusual and beautiful decorative items for the home. Some of her creations were on display at the recent art and antique show at the national guard armory in Thief River Falls.

The Armstrongs developed an abiding interest in stained glass when they saw its profuse use in European churches. They followed Martin Luther's path across Europe and were continually impressed by the colored glass they found and the atmosphere it created in the churches visited.

They began to read everything they could find that pertained to stained glass — its history, how it is made, how it should be handled, methods of creating designs, ways of solving difficulties and problems. By study, conversation with other craftsmen, trial and error and experience they have developed a good working knowledge of the skills required and the ability to put them to use.

"We really enjoy doing repair work," Frank Armstrong said. "It is fun to restore some of the really beautiful work that is to be found around the area."

It must be fun for the Armstrongs to do repair work. Not too long ago when on vacation in Montana, they were at an auction in the ghost town of Pony. An Odd Fellows lodge was selling some of the items from a church building which had been used some time as the lodge hall. Included was a stained glass window in poor repair. The person who bought the window had the help of the Armstrongs for 18 hours of their vacation time to restore the window which measured about 18 inches by five feet in size.

Meredith began selling some glassware items through Thebothofus specialty shop in Thief River Falls. She made mushroom shaped ornaments out of the stained glass. Her first project employing a number of pieces of glass was a window hanging which she still has in her home. Admittedly it may not be of high professional quality but it was a good enough start to instill confidence and provide challenge.

The Armstrongs took on the task of restoring a large stained glass window for Thebothofus as one of the first major repair projects.

Both from the Duluth area, Frank and Meredith met in college. They were married while Frank was attending Trinity Evangelical Divinity school near Deerfield, Ill., and Meredith, who is a registered nurse, helped her husband earn his way into the ministry.

GLASS CUTTING is an intricate business and glass is unpredictable enough to occasionally break where it has not been cut. Rev. Frank Armstrong does some of the fine cutting for his wife in her stained glass business. In the photo above he taps a scored line to cause a break in a crescent cut.

FITTING GLASS cut by her husband to create a stained glass window is Meredith Armstrong of Thief River Falls. Glass must be cut with a view toward fitting into lead channeled material with allowance made for the thickness of the lead.

Kidney Fund Auction Sun. Raises $5,550

Local auction held Sunday afternoon to raise funds for the Kidney Foundation of the Upper Midwest brought in a total of more than $5,550, according to W. G. Maves who coordinated the event.

Held in the Thief River Falls sports arena, the sale lasted for about six hours and brought in nearly $1,000 more than the first sale a year ago.

Deer Forces Entry Into NW Hospital

Some sort of proof that Thief River Falls retains its north country atmosphere despite its growth and development was provided by an incident early Tuesday morning at Northwestern hospital.

An adult whitetail doe crashed through a heavy glass window to the left of the hospital entrance on Frist street and then through a similar window in the entryway to find itself in the north lobby. It sustained cuts on the leg, brisket and near the eye and suffered a bloody nose in the process of gaining forced entry.

Police were notified by the hospital receptionist at 6:36 a.m. when a passerby saw the animal crash into the building after running across the city parking lot directly across First street from the hospital. Conservation officers were called by the law enforcement center and assisted in restraining the animal in a corner of the lobby until it could be tranquilized for transport.

Once the tranquilizer took effect, the deer was loaded in a conservation officer's car and taken to Aggassiz national wildlife refuge and released in an area near headquarters where there are a number of other deer. It was given a plastic collar for identification and by 11 a.m. had wandered away from the release area.

Man Charged In Possession Of Marijuana

Charged with possession of a controlled substance with intent to sell and appearing in Pennington county court Monday was Bruce Wayne Walker, 23, who was arrested Sunday at his residence at 507½ East Sixth street in Thief River Falls.

Police and sheriff's department officials who made the arrest confiscated approximately a half-pound of what is believed to be marijuana. Walker appeared in court Monday where bond was set at $5,000 and he was released on bond Tuesday.

City Council Adjusts Lampert's Valuation

Market value of the Lampert Building Center facilities was adjusted from $251,740 to $224,240 when representatives of the business appeared before the Thief River Falls city council at that group's regular meeting Tuesday, May 8, to protest the valuation put on the newly constructed building.

Harold Storhaug, division manager, presented the council with store footage, warehouse footage, acreage, valuation and tax figures from seven other Lampert buildings in North Dakota and Minnesota comparing them to the Thief River Falls building's statistics. Buildings in Hibbing and Willmar, particularily, were sited as being very similar in both square footage and acreage but had considerably lower taxes and valuations. Wadena was sited as having over double the square footage as the local store, approximately seven times the acreage but valuation of less than $20,000 higher and tax of only about $600 higher.

County assessor Gerry DeHaan was present to comment on Storhaug's objections indicating that the facilities sited were not comparable quality buildings and that the mill levy variations did account for part of the difference.

Another objection voiced by Storhaug was that while the Lampert cold storage pole shed was assessed at $3 a square foot the main building, nearly half of which was also cold storage, was all assessed at $8.50 a square foot. He stated that there was a little difference between the pole shed and the rear 50 feet of the main building and that the next 50 foot bay in the main building was also cold stroage although it was sheetrocked.

DeHaan indicated that if he were to assess the main building in the three sections suggested by Storhaug he would place a $9 per square foot balue on the front 120x100 foot area of store space, an $8 value on the first 50 foot bay of cold storage which was sheetrocked and a $7 value on the last 50 foot bay of cold storage which is unfinished.

County To Help In Moving Depot

An appropriation of $5,000 to the Pennington county historical society was approved by the county board in a regular meeting held Tuesday, May 8. Of the $5,000, $3,500 was the normal yearly allocation to the historical society by the board and the remaining $1,500 was given to aid the historical society in moving the former Burlington Northern depot to the Pioneer Village site.

The historical society had previously received a $5,000 contribution from the city of Thief River Falls to help cover estimated moving costs of $12,000. Marv Enerson of the county historical society board indicated that the historical society did have $7,000 to apply toward relocation of the depot but that spending that sum would deplete the organization's entire budget and funds would also be needed to prepare a foundation.

It was for this reason that a request was made to the county board for additional funds. The county contribution will be made out of revenue sharing funds.

While in attendance at the board meeting, historical society members also presented a financial report for the year which the board examined and ordered filed.

In other business, the county agreed to participate in the Tri-Valley Opportunity Council Chore Service program on a trial basis through September of 1980. Chore services are available to persons 60 years old and older who are unable to perform certain duties for themselves. Among the services provided to the applicants are lawn mowing, snow shoveling, raking, spring and fall housekeeping, washing floors and walls, minor home repairs, grocery shopping for the homebound, laundry duties for the homebound, banking and removal of banking from homes, and storm and screen window changes.

Karen Thielman, who was present to outline the program to the board, indicated that cost to the county through the fiscal year ending September 30, 1979 would be $500 and the cost from September of 1979

Jaycee Women Suggest Cystic Fibrosis Test

Thief River Falls Jaycee Women are sponsoring "Kiss Your Baby Week" this week as a part of their education and testing program on cystic fibrosis — a serious lung-damaging disease.

One of the signs of cystic fibrosis is a salty surface of the skin. Jaycee women encourage parents to take note when they kiss their babies. If they detect a salty taste, they should contact their doctor and arrange a test for cystic fibrosis. Early diagnosis and immediate treatment are vital to extend the child's life.

Other signs of cystic fibrosis and other lung damaging diseases are recurrent wheezing, persistent coughing with excess mucous, pneumonia more than once, excessive appetite but poor weight gain, clubbing (an enlargement of the fingertips), persistent and bulky diarrhea and nasal polyps.

Assessment Of Lampert Bldg. Aired By City

This type of assessment would actually raise the valuation of the building by $5,000.

Considering the information provided, the council voted to change the assessment level of the rear 50 foot bay in the main building to the same $3 a square foot level placed on the pole shed and to leave the remaining portion of the main building including the second bay of cold storage at the $8.50 a square foot assessment level. With the value of the facility dropped $27,500, the tax decreased approximately $1,450.

Three conditional variances were granted to Zion Lutheran church for the construction of its new addition. The council granted a 12 foot rear yard variance, a two foot side yard variance and a 14 foot front yard variance to the Zion Lutheran congregation provided the church submit a letter stating its intent to provide offstreet parking in the immediate area of the church at some time in the future.

The church presently has 100 feet of building frontage on Main Ave. and a 75 foot lot adjacent to the building. The lot, which is now being used to provide approximately 35 off-street parking stalls, would be used for the proposed addition for which the variances were granted leaving the church without any off-street parking facilities. However the Zion congregation does have an option to purchase the 50 foot lot adjacent to the present parking area from Floyd Dalton who has a residence on the lot and it owns the remaining 75 feet in the church block where the parsonage presently sits.

Representatives of Zion, Pastor Larson, Chuck Richards and Hal Freeman, were willing to commit the congregation to "making every effort in the future to provide off-street parking in the immediate area "but would not make any committments regarding the number of stalls to be furnished, the exact location of the off-street parking or the timetable for providing the parking.

In other business the council adopted an ordinance amending the city code regarding the licensing of peddlers. The ammendment provides for the licensing of a group of peddlers consisting of five or more peddlers who carry on business in one central location in the city. License fees for the group of peddlers were set at $15 a day, $60 a week, $150 a month or $225 for six months.

The ordinance will allow the operation of flea markets, art-in-the-park, etc. without each participant applying for a peddlers license individually. A group of peddlers may obtain a license provided one of the group maintains a registry of all persons to be included in the license including their names, addresses and telephone numbers.

Bureau of mediation services hearing held May 2 was the subject of a report from city clerk Jerry Wigness who indicated that hearing officer Murry Perry and union representatives Bob Weisenburger, Darryl Tveitbakk and John Johnson accepted the exclusion of police, fire, clerical, supervisory, confidential employees and four positions in the professional-administrative categories from union membership. Five positions which presently need clarification in regards to union status are the wastewater department head, utility line foreman, water department foreman, park foreman and building engineer.

Wigness requested input from the council in examining the five positions and asked whether or not the council considered them supervisory. It was suggested that the city meet with the five persons holding those positions and go over the ten functions used in defining supervisors in an effort to determine whether or not those persons were acting in supervisory capacity.

At Tuesday's meeting the council also accepted the state planning agency's estimate of population for the city for 1979 of 9,454; tabled the final plat of Anda's first addition pending completion of the developer's checklist; and granted rezoning from Ag to C-2 to Northwest Developers for three acres of land in Myhrer's first addition and to XL Inc. for property on E. Greenwood St.

Bell Announces Rate Structure For This Area

Northwestern Bell announces it will introduce a new rate structure for its customers here as well as in other areas around the state effective June 7, accroding to Al Bacon, local manager.

Changes are the result of evidence in Northwestern Bell's 1978 rate case, information gathered by the Minnesota public service commission (PSC) during a series of public hearings held earlier this year around Minnesota and recommendations of a PSC rate consultant.

The changes are being detailed in a letter mailed to all customers by the company this week, Bacon said.

The new plan establishes a single uniform rate for each class of telephone service in all exchanges outside the Twin Cities metropolitan area. Thus, Northwestern Bell customers who live in town would pay a basic rate of $6.90 per month for a single party residential service.

All single party customers living in Zone "A" would pay $9.25 per month and a single party residence chstomers in Zone "B", which generally includes the remainder of the exchange, would pay $12.50 per month. Corresponding rates for a single party business service would be $16.85, $19.20 and $22.45 respectively.

The new rate plan does away with the long standing plan that divided communities into 10 rate groups with correspondingly higher rates for larger communities and lower rates for smaller communities. The new rates bring telephone rates more in line with the cost of providing service.

A second part of the plan applies only to communities that have extended area service (EAS) calling arrangements with nearby communities.

Under this arrangement, a surcharge for each community's calling routes is added into the customer's local monthly service.

The EAS charges are itemized each month on residence customer bills.

Individual charges for each calling route have been determined by apportioning one-half of the costs of the route among one town's customers and the other half among the distant city's customers.

Bacon said the customer letters that are being mailed this week explain the rate change and contain a postcard so customers can obtain an answer to a specific question if they have one.

The June 7 effective date comes 60 days after the Northwestern Bell applied for a 5.5 per cent increase in annual revenues for its Minnesota operations. This means that rates in effect June 7 will increase, subject to refund, 10 per cent on July 7.

In its last case, PSC denied the company its request and the company is making refunds, with interest, now for customers who had service during the period of March 4, 1978, to March 15, 1979.

County Helps History Group To Move Depot

through September of 1980 would be $1,850 bringing the total county participation for the trial period to $2,350. Pennington will be one of four counties participating in the Chore program. Other counties in the service area are Polk, Norman and Red Lake.

Also appearing before the county board at its Tuesday meeting were representatives of the Assemblies of God church, Pastor Hagemeister and Erv Strandquist, who requested that the Board reconsider the removal of a parcel of church property in the east end of the city from tax exempt status. The parcel was not previously taxed since it was purchased by the Assemblies of God congregation as a future building site for a new facility. However, with some remodeling work done at the present church building this past year, the possibility of a new facility on the same property in question is remote and the land was placed on the tax roles. After some consideration the board voted to deny the request for tax exemption status.

Don Gustafson of the Soil Conservation Service (SCS) was in attendance to review the soil sampling project presently being undertaken in the county. Gustafson indicated that there remains approximately two years of field work to be accomplished on the project. The possibility of undertaking a water study was also discussed briefly and the board heard the SCS employee's request that a permit system for waste reservoirs and disposal systems be put on a local basis since the SCS does actually design the systems. No action was taken in the matter.

Bids were opened on petroleum products, county-wide graveling and equipment rental with Shumway Oil being the only bidder for petrloleum products, and Macey Construction Co. of West Union submitting the low bid of $68,500 for graveling. Dragline bids accepted were from Nick Drees and Oscar Nerhus and all tractor and scraper bids were accepted with the engineer instructed to call on the lowest and most available bidders first.

Successful bidder for the county's purchase of a truck, box and hoist was Joe Raymond of Grand Forks who bid an International at $12,123 with trade in. Delivery date on the truck will be September.

The county also accepted an allocation from the Housing Finance Agency to the county in the amount of $41,041, $25,031 of which will go to the city of Thief River Falls for housing rehab, and contributed $25 to the Goodridge Lion's club and $250 to the Thief River Falls American Legion for those organizations' observances of Memorial day.

Stained Glass Is Interest For Armstrongs

"Our homes have been decorated in early attic," Meredith quips about the furnishings they have acquired or built themselves. "We did it out of necessity," she said. They have a coffee table made from oak salvaged from trees bulldozed by a farmer near Viking and beveled glass given them by a friend who was delighted to have someone who wanted to take it. A hutch now in the living room was discovered under layers of newspaper and wallpaper which had apparently covered it for years. That $3 folly proved to be a real $3 find.

"A well done stained glass window will last 100 years," Frank explained. "Then it can be restored and repaired and last another 100."

Hot colors of glass such as reds and oranges are among the most expensive because of materials used in their manufacture. Gold is used to make red glass, for instance, copper for blue and green. Glass which the Armstrongs have on hand costs from about $3 up to $11 per square foot. There are many American makers and American dealers who handle foreign produced glass.

Stained glass items are costly because of the labor involved in making them as well as the material cost. Inadvertent breakage is a cost as well as waste between pieces cut from the same sheet. Each piece must be hand fitted and soldered and large windows must be reinforced. It takes time to create the design, select the colors and materials, cut the glass and fit and finish it.

"We give estimates on our work and we base them on square footage," Meredith said. "It would be extremely difficult to establish an hourly rate because we seldom know how long a project will take. Using a square foot basis we can let a potential customer know what to expect in the way of cost."

Meredith takes her design work seriously. She visits the home, shows glass samples, matches or selects complementary colors and obtains approval of her designs. Being able to do most of her glass work at home makes her available more readily to the two Armstrong daughters, 10-year-old Amy and eight-year-old Brenda.

"I think I've found what I really want to do," Mrs. Armstrong said. "It's really exciting and it is something we can do together. I can do all of the operations myself if necessary but Frank often does the cutting, especially if there are difficult cuts to be made."

Time will tell if the Armstrongs have found a truly marketable commodity for this area. They believe that they have. But with all the variety of glass available, whether they succeed or fail, at least it will be a colorful experience.

WINNIE THE POOH is given a boost by Piglet as Pooh attempts to climb a tree in Lincoln high school's musical version of A.A. Milne's "Winnie the Pooh." Pooh is played by Jodi Ripley and Piglet by Katy Kinsman. Also among the cast are Larry Engelman as Christopher Robin; Dave Lewis cast as Eeyore; Sue Rosetta as Rabbit; Traci Brown, Kanga; Diane Sabol, Roo; Jill Watson, Tigger; Paul Sharpe, Owl; Kristi Hanson, Niblet; and Bob Kinsman, Nimrod.

Three Local Optometrists Attend Meet

Dr. Orion Beich, Dr. Harold Freeman and Dr. Edward Gilbert, Thief River Falls optometrists, recently attended the 79th annual meeting of the Minnesota Optometric association held in Bloomington.

The three-day event included several educational sessions in addition to business meetings. Of special interest to the attending optometrists was a seminar by Dr. Don Jorgensen on the topic, "The Ocular Manifestations of Strokes."

Another highlight of the educational program was a talk by Dr. John Kennedy of St. Paul, an internationally recognized optometrist in the field of contact lenses. Dr. Kennedy spoke on "Contact Lenses After-Care" and presented various methods to solve problems which individuals may have after having been contact lens wearers over a period of years.

Lots of Baseball Scheduled In TRF

If the weather permits, Thief River Falls sports fans will finally have the opportunity to watch some baseball over the next three weeks. Lincoln high school Prowlers will play six of their final seven games at home and the Northland Northmen will close out their season with three doubleheaders on their own diamond.

Northwest Athletic Conference foes await the Prowlers this week. Bemidji will be here Thursday for a 4:30 p.m. game and Fergus Falls arrives Friday for a 3 p.m. doubleheader. Bemidji edged Thief River Falls 6-5 a week ago to run their season-opening winning streak to five games. But that streak was snapped the next day when the Lumberjacks committed seven errors in a 7-1 loss to Moorhead, a team that beat the Prowlers 3-0 earlier this spring. Every Bemidji infielder, save for first baseman Jeff Beaulieu, committed at least one error in the Moorhead game and the outfielders, while escaping the error column, misplayed several fly balls into hits, reported Bemidji Pioneer sports writer Jim Carrington who called it "just one of those days." Only one Moorhead run was earned off Bemidji's curve-ball junior left-hander Roger Degerman.

Bemidji bounced back to blank Crookston 6-0 Tuesday behind John-Noga's second no-hitter of the year. The Lumberjacks' ace struck out 11 Pirates to give him 45 in four games. The victory improved Bemidji's record to 6-2 and 4-0 in NWAC play.

Rest of the Lincoln schedule will find the Prowlers at home Tues., May 15, against Roseau; Thurs., May 17, Crookston; and Sat., May 19, Mount St. Benedict. Lone remaining road game for the team will be played Monday at Bagley.

Thief River Falls will host the 1979 Region 8AA Sub Region 4 baseball tournament Tuesday and Wednesday, May 29 and 30.

Northland's tough-luck baseball team, loser of consecutive 3-2 and 2-0 doubleheader losses to Fergus Falls and Crookston, will be idle this week. The Northmen will play MJCAA Northwest Division doubleheaders on their new diamond Wed., May 16, against Crookston; Sat., May 19, Brainerd; and Wed., May 23, Fergus Falls.

Warroad Lakers Receive Cold Shoulder

Warroad Lakers have apparently become too good. Thief River Falls' Tom Goddard, a member of the Lakers for the past two years, produced an article from the Winnipeg Free Press that reports Warroad will be barred from further Hardy Cup play as the Manitoba prinvincial representative.

"We have rejected Warroad Lakers as this province's Hardy Cup representative in future years because the feeling was that the Lakers should be competing at a higher level," said president-elect George Depres at the Manitoba amateur hockey association's (MAHA) annual meeting earlier this month.

"The intermediate hockey people brought this up through committee to the floor and it was, without a doubt, the most controversial topic of discussion during our entire meeting. In all fairness, we respect the job Warroad has done of representing us in the past. They've been a part of our association for 18 years and have been successful operators — maybe too successful," Depres told reporter Wayne Parks of the Free Press.

Warroad competed as a member of the Manitoba Assiniboine hockey league (MAHL) during the 1978-79 season and won the right to represent Manitoba in the Hardy Cup national intermediate championship by eliminating the Thompson Hawks. The Lakers lost to the Quesnel Kangaroos of British Columbia in the final game of the Western Canada round-robin tournament this year.

The Lakers will remain a member of the MAHA and will still be allowed to compete in the MAHL should they choose to do so.

"Another of the issues concerning other intermediate clubs was that the Lakers could draw players from anywhere in the United States and that is a bit unfair when you consider the problem facing other teams in Manitoba," pointed out Depres. "Really, the Warroad club is almost a semi-professional organization. We feel they should compete in the senior category."

Warroad won the Manitoba senior championship in 1969 and intermediate titles in 1971, '72, '73, '74, '77 and '78. The club also won Western Canada honors in 1965, '74, '77 and '78 and captured the Hardy Cup in 1974.

Along with Goddard, Tony Dorn, Jr. of Thief River Falls has been a member of the Warroad Lakers in recent years. Dorn missed nearly all of the 1978-79 season, though, with a severe hand injury.

Miscellaneous

Thief River Falls' Ginny Liden completed her senior year with the Bemidji State University women's basketball team by playing in 18 of the 23 BSU games, averaging 3.2 points per outing. Bemidji finished with an 11-12 record.

Stahlecker, Pirates Edge Sabo, Prowlers 1-0

A classic high school baseball pitching duel Monday between lefthanders Brent Stahlecker of Crookston and Scott Sabo of Thief River Falls produced 32 strike-outs, just five base hits and only one run in a 10-inning stanoff finally won by the host Pirates.

"It was a good ball game," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Charlie Cornell. "Stahlecker and Sabo are two very good pitchers."

There were other opportunities on both sides, but the only scoring was done with one out in the bottom of the tenth when Crookston's Brian Bachmeier sent a solid single up the middle and John Panzer drew a full-count walk. Jerome Simmons then laid down a bunt in front of home plate that Thief River Falls catcher Jim Nyland fielded cleanly. But in going for the force out at third base, Nyland threw the ball into left field — the Prowlers' only error of the game — and Bachmeier scored.

It was the fourth loss in four outings for the Prowlers, with just seven total runs deciding all four games. Crookston took a 3-1 record to Bemidji Tuesday.

"It starts to make you wonder," said Cornell about the string of close setbacks that includes a 9-7 loss to Roseau, 3-0 to Moorhead, 6-5 to Bemidji and 1-0 to Crookston. "In a close game you start worrying about what's going to happen now?"

Monday's extra innings were full of scoring chances, starting in the top of the eighth when the Prowlers lost two base runners. Kelly Gutterud walked but became the second Thief River Falls runner picked off first base by Stahlecker. Nyland also walked and stole second, but in trying to steal third with a 3-0 count on batter Mark Huot, was thrown out to end the inning.

"All of our screw-ups were on the bases," pointed out Cornell.

Crookston had a grand chance to end it in the bottom of the inning when Stahlecker sent a one-out blast to the left-center field fence for a triple. It was the first hit of the year for Stahlecker who was robbed of extra bases in the fifth inning on a sensational running catch by Thief River Falls centerfielder Jeff Kosel. Intentional walks issued to Bachmeier and Panzer loaded the bases, but Sabo responded to the challenge by striking out pinch hitter Tony Sprague. Shortstop Jeff Ulrich then came up with a fine defensive play in throwing out lead-off batter Jeff Laniel by a half-step to end the inning.

Both teams advanced runners to second base in the ninth when the Prowlers' Paul Drees drew a two-out walk and came up with a stolen base. Mark Perreault, walking to start the Pirates' ninth, was thrown out trying to steal second, a waste since the next batter, Dan Royal, walked on four pitches. A sacrifice bunt by Brent Weiss moved Royal to second.

Murray Dicken, who had both Thief River Falls hits, led off the tenth a triple off the base of the right-center field fence. Suicide squeeze bunt attempts by Ulrich and pinch hitter Scott Langlie failed to bring home the run, though, with Langlie's low pop-up being turned into an unassisted double play by third baseman Keith Prosser. It was the second time Dicken reached third without scoring.

Stahlecker struck out 17, giving him 38 in 20 innings of work this spring. Sabo struck out 15 in another superb but losing effort. He struck out 13 and give up just five hits — three of the infield variety — against Moorhead.

"Scott is pitching very well," praised Cornell. "He's mixing it up. Everything is working for hime — his curve ball, knuckle ball, fast ball."

Dicken Pitches No-Hitter For Prowlers' First Win

Murray Dicken pitched a no-hit, no-run game Tuesday as the Lincoln high school baseball team snapped a season-opening five-game losing streak with a 4-0 victory at Red Lake Falls. The Eagles won the first half of the doubleheader, which featured six-inning games, 5-1.

"We finally figures out how to win a ball game — don't let the other team hit the ball," quipped Thief River Falls chach Charlie Cornell whose punchless Prowlers carried a meager .119 team batting average into the twin bill.

Cornell praised Dicken's pitching performance by noting, "He's a good pitcher. He pitched a real good ball game."

Red Lake Falls did all of its damage in the first inning to beat Thief River Falls 5-1 in the first half of the doubleheader. The Eagles, coached by Lincoln high school graduate Pete Sullivan, collected all five of their runs, five of their six base hits and three of their four walks off losing pitcher Kelly Gutterud in the first inning.

Gutterud overcame his shaky start to pitch in fine fashion the rest of the way, allowing just two base runners over the next four innings. But the damage had already been done.

Thief River Falls squandered several scoring opportunities before getting a run in the fourth when Scott Sabo singled, Jeff Kosel walked and Brian Peppin came up with an RBI single. But for the second straight inning the Prowlers wasted a bases-loaded situation when Kelly Gutterud's line drive failed to get out of the infield. In the third the Eagles turned an inning-ending bases-loaded double play.

Serving as home team for the second portion of the doubleheader that was a make-up game from an April 19 postponement, Thief River Falls broke into the win column for the first time behind the no-hit pitcher of Murray Dicken, 4-0.

Thief River Falls collected only four base hits, but all four went for extra bases, including a second inning home run by Jeff Ulrich.

Single runs also crossed the plate in the first, third and fourth innings.

Doubles by Kelly Gutterud and Scott Sabo plated the first inning run. Jeff Kosel's walk and two errors produced the third inning run. In the fourth, Ulrich walked and scored from first when on a stolen base attempt. Rick Stimac, one of several new faces used by Thief River Falls coach Charlie Cornell in an attempt to find some offense for the Prowlers, doubled.

Dicken struck out eight and walked two in his no-hit effort.

Triangular Meet Won By Prowlers

A new line-up produced old results Tuesday as the Lincoln high school tennis team blanked East Grand Forks and Mahnomen in a triangular event played on the Thief River Falls courts. The Prowlers finished with a perfect 10 points while Grand Forks collected four and Mahnomen one.

Thief River Falls coach Whitey Olson used Bill Jury and Mitch Rustad, his top singles players, at number one doubles; and sandwiched Bill Holmes with Bill Michalek and Tom Bjorkman, normally the team's top doubles combination in singles; and brought up junior varsity performers Dale Nelson and Bob Purdy for second doubles.

It was the third triangular meet victory of the year for the Prowlers.

It'll be the home opener for the Prowlers who came up with a 71-point effort at Roseau, followed by the host Rams with 67 and Karlstad 29.

Thief River Falls' outing was highlighted by a 1-2-3 sweep in the mile where Mark Larson ran a 4:49.8, Greg Ness 4:59.1 and Bruce Johnson 4:59.8.

The Prowlers also had winners in the 100-yard dash where Tom Ose ran a 10.7; in the 440-meter run where Tom Brosseau ran a 56.8; in the long jump where Jeff Oseid went 17-10; in the 400-meter relay where Ose, Brian Culkins, Terry Johnson and Kevin Grochow ran a 49.8; and in the sprint medley relay where Ose, Culkins, Brosseau and Larson ran a 3:59.1.

Oseid also had second place finishes in the 120-yard high hurdles in 16.9 and in the high jump with a 5-8 leap. Seconds also came from Culkins with an 11.0 in the 100; Jim Thompson with a 45.5 in the 300-meter intermediate hurdles; Steve Hvidsten with a 25.4 in the 220-yard dash; and Oseid, Ness, Larson and Brosseau with a 3:57.2 in the mile relay.

Campground Is Closed By DNR

Campground at Gooseberry Falls state park on the North Shore of Lake Superior will be closed this summer, the Department of Natural Resources announced.

Don Davison, director of parks and recreation, said the campground closure at the popular park is necessary due to a construction project that will rebuild the campground and install new sewer and water systems.

He said an effort will be made to keep the remaining "day-use" areas of the park open to visitors.

It is expected that the campground will again be open to public use for the 1980 summer season.

Northland, Itasca Split Doubleheader

First home appearance of the 1979 produced the first win of the season for the Northland community college women's softball team Tuesday. But it also resulted in a loss for the Northwomen who split a doubleheader with Itasca on a make-shift diamond behind the college. Northland won the first game 13-12 with Itasca taking the nightcap 17-2.

"I was naturally very happy with the win," said Northland coach Deb Jacobson who had special praise for the pitching of Goodridge sophomore Bev Horachek in her mound debut. "She did a very good job. Northing forceful, but she got the ball across the plate."

Horachek walked just seven batters in the two games, compared to 31 walks the Northwomen issued in losing an April 28 doubleheader to the Vikings 21-4, 19-9 in Grand Rapids.

Northland, 1-5 for the year, will close out its 1979 season with two more doubleheaders this week. Rainy River will be here Friday for a 3 p.m. start and Brainerd visits Thief River Falls Saturday for a 1 p.m. outing.

Northland 13, Itasca 12

A 12-12 deadlock was broken in the bottom of the seventh inning when Northland's Bev Horachek, who had singled, stole second and moved to third on an error, scored on a one-out infield ground out by Jean Dziengel for a 13-12 victory.

Horachek and Marilyn Anderson were both 3-for-4 at the plate for the Northwomen and Jane Daniels was 2-for-4, which included a bases-loaded triple in a four-run second inning that supplied the Northwomen with a 7-5 edge.

Itasca out-hit Northland 14-12 and the Northwomen committed nine of the game's 13 errors.

Itasca 17, Northland 2

Northland owned a 2-0 lead after two innings of the second game, but Itasca scored 17 runs over the next' three frames to win a five-inning, 10-run rule 17-2 decision.

Itasca produced one-sided 13-4 advantage in the base hit department. Northland was charged with six of the game's 10 errors.

Register For Youth Baseball On Saturday

Registration for the 1979 Thief River Falls summer baseball program will be held Saturday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Franklin middle school.

Thief River Falls youth baseball program director Ron Novak stressed, "It is very important that all boys interested in participating, register on Saturday so that we can get an idea of how many boys will be participating and how the program will be set up for the coming summer. If for some reason you cannot register on Saturday, you may return the registrations to one of the coaches or call me at 681-3959."

Coaches for the summer program will be Paul Williams, Bruce Williams, Myron Peterson, Billie Blankenfeld, Mike Bregier and Tim Engelstad.

Thief River Falls summer baseball program will be divided into four divisions, or leagues, for the 1979 season.

A 13-15-year-old Babe Ruth league and a 13-year-old league is open to all boys born after Aug. 1, 1963 and before July 31, 1966.

A 10-11-12-year-old Major league will be open to those born after Aug. 1, 1966 and before July 31, 1969. There will be four teams at this level. The 10-year-olds who do not earn a spot in the try-outs will compete in the 9-10-year-old Minor league. Tryouts will be held at the fiargrounds diamond May 21-25. Players should check with Monday's Times for their team try-out times.

A 9-10-year-old Minor league is open to ball players born after Aug. 1, 1968 and before July 31, 1970.

A 7-8-year-old group is open to all players 7-8-years-old.

Any questions concerning the program should be directed to Novak.

Gov. Quie To Participate In Fishing Opener

Governor Al Quie will participate in the opening of fishing season by attending the Minnesota fishing opener May 11-13 at Vacationaire resort near Park Rapids.

The fishing opener, hosted by the Minnesota department of economic development, is held annually to promote fishing and other recreational opportunities in the state. More than 70 outdoor writers, broadcasters and reporters from Minnesota and several other states and Canada will begin arriving at Vacationarie on Friday and will fish all day Saturday.

"We host the event in different communities each year in cooperation with the local chambers of commerce and resorts," said Hank Todd, tourism director. "Two million anglers fish annually in Minnesota. Our purspoe is to highlight the excellent fishing opportunities around the state with these fishing promotions."

First fishing opener was held in the spring of 1948 during the administration of Governor Luther W. Youngdahl. It was sponsored by the Minnesota department of business, known today as the Minnesota department of economic development. Planning for the event is handled through the department's tourism division. The opener continues to be the state's largest state sponsored promotional event each year.

Fishing Opener Is Delayed In Some NE Areas

A late spring in northeastern Minnesota will result in a delay in the opening of the fishing season in six popular angling sites, it was announced recently.

Jerry Kuehn, fisheries chief for the Department of Natural Resources, said that the closing of these areas to fishing is necessary to protecting concentrations of spawning walleyes. The delay will be one week for two areas and two weeks for four other areas.

Areas closed to all fishing through May 18 include a part of Black Bay of Rainy Lake near International Falls, described as south of a line between Four Island resort on the west side of the bay and Perry point on the east; all of Rat Root lake in Koochiching county and that portion of the Rat Root river between Rat Root lake and Black Bay; the Cut Foot Sioux chain, Itasca county northwest, of Deer River, described as that part from Williams Narrows, east through the chain to the First river, including part of Cut Foot and all of Little Cut Foot, Little Little Cut Foot and First river lakes.

Areas closed through May 25 include Pike Bay of Lake Vermillion, St. Louis county near Tower-Soudan, described as that part of the bay west of a north-south line at the narrowest portion between Echo Point and Punchers Point, including that portion of Pike river below the Pike river dam;

Pipestone Bay of Basswood lake near Ely, described as that portion of Pipestone Bay in Lake county south of a direct line from Kosulainen Point to Gary Island to Caribou Point including all waters south to Pipestone Falls; the Cross river from Gunflint lake to Gunflint Trail (Bridge); and the Seagull river in cook county located at the end of the Gunflint Trail and described as that narrows between Gull and Seagull lake in front of the forest service campgrounds.

Elsewhere the season will get off as scheduled on May 12.

Significant changes in weather could change these closings said Kuehn. "In most of the walleye range fish will have completed spawning activity, but still be somewhat concentrated near the spawing area," he said.

He urged anglers to read carefully the 1979 fishing regulations, received with the purchase of a license, to avoid violating any of the numerous fishing laws.

Starting with one fertile female, Italian bees can produce 75,000 offspring in only 13 weeks, the National Wildlife Federation says.

Europeans To Lecture At Hockey Seminar

Three prominent European hockey coaches, Anatoly Tarasov and Arkady Chernishev from the Soveit Union, along with Ladislov Horsky from Czechoslovadia will be featured lecturers at an amateur hockey association of the United States (AHAUS) sponsored modern hockey seminar scheduled for Duluth, Sun., May 20, at the UMD phy. ed. building gym from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Topic of their lectures will be the techniques and training methods employed in the physical preparation and development of their respective countries' youth and teenage hockey players.

Soviet coaches Tarasov and Chernishev, co-founders of the Soviet national hockey team, led the Russian Team to 11 world championships and four Olympic titles. Both are honored coaches of the Soviet Union and both have earned the title of masters of sport in the USSR.

Horsky, a noted author and lecturer on hockey goaltending is a former Czech Olympic team coach and has been the coach of the Czech junior national team for the past five years.

Reservations to the seminar may be obtained by sending a $15 check payable to AHAUS to Ted Brill, 1905 West Highway 2, Grand Rapids, MN 55744. Open to all hockey enthusiasts, a limited number of admissions (space permitting) will be available at the door. Thief River Falls area hockey coaches or fans interested in attending the seminar are invited to contact Ron Novak by calling 681-3959.

Fishing Week Is May 14-20

In honor of a growing family sport in which over 63 million Americans now participate, Senator Rudy Boschwitz has introduced a resolution proclaiming May 14 through 20 as "national fishing week."

Said Boschwitz, "Fishing is a healthy, growing, half-billion dollar per year industry which supports about 65,000 jobs nationwide. In my home state of Minnesota, over two million fishermen, resident and nonresident alike, visit our recreation areas on an annual basis to fish. The Minnesota Department of Natural Resources estimates that the resort owners alone have over $2 billion invested in fishing related activities."

Football Coach May Enter Team Huddle

National federation of state high school associations has authorized the Minnesota State High School League to experiment during the 1979 football season with a modification of a rule which would permit one coach to enter the team huddle during a charged time-out.

"I've been impressed by its success in the football states of Ohio and Pennsylvania and was anxious to have our coaches test the effectiveness of such an experiment," said Marv Helling, associate executive director of the Minnesota State High School League. Those two states and New Jersey have conducted thissameexperimentinthelast two years and its effectiveness has the overwhelming support of their coaches and officials.

Minnesota high school coaches and officials will respond on survey forms to the benefits of the experiment at the completion of the 1979 football season. A report on the results of this experiment will made to the 1980 football rules committee next January.
